Why Balance It?
The World Does Not End.
Europe Manages Well.
Big Things, and Music.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LIKE CHILDREN with a puzzle, trying to get one metal ring out of another, this country is intent on "balancing the budget." Additional income tax that discourages initiative, taxation of theaters, already in distress, and a thousand other plans are suggested to "balance the budget" and unbalance business generally.

WHY BALANCE THE BUDGET? When a man is sick, you don't make him run a mile. You wait until he is better.

WHY NOT BORROW what the government needs, beyond its normal income, issuing bonds and calling them in gradually, as conditions improve?

It is said:

"We must balance our budget, to maintain credit with foreign nations."

Why worry about foreign nations? If they paid what they owe, our budget would be balanced easily.

NEW YORK will soon celebrate the hundredth anniversary of Union Square. In April, 1832, those that visited Union Square went "to the country." The wise said:

"Some day New York will reach up there."

Forty years ago Union Square was the heart of business. Now it is left far downtown.

There were wonderful opportunities to buy real estate when Union Square was "in the country."

There are as many opportunities now. Those who think the world is coming to an end will be sorry they had so little confidence.

IN THE YEAR 1000, many sold their land for what it would bring, put on white nightgowns and went up to the tops of high hills, all ready to go higher. The world didn't end, and they felt foolish when they came down.

Some that now sell what they have, or fail to buy what they ought to buy, will feel just as foolish presently.

YESTERDAY THE Bank of England reduced its discount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent, and prices of British securities went up. It is marvelous how well European countries manage finances.

London has recently repaid $150,000,000 privately borrowed here, and Britain's budget shows a surplus of $150,000,000, as compared with our deficit of a billion or two.

FRANCE IS gradually accumulating all the world's gold, and yesterday arranged to make a friendly loan to Czechoslovakia.

The fact that Europe doesn't repay billions lent by this simple-minded country helps her financing somewhat. But there is more than that to it.

RUSSIA, NOT afraid of big undertakings, frequently invites Americans to manage them. Robert P. Lamont, Jr., son of our Secretary of Commerce, is in Berlin, bound for Moscow to take over management of 33,000,000 head of cattle, 17,000,000 sheep, 15,000,000 hogs, and all the grazing and feed-growing land on one-sixth of the earth's surface.

ALSO RUSSIA seems to welcome new ideas. She has discovered that men work better when they hear music, so Russia will provide music in factories.

That idea is borrowed from kings of old. They let ditch-diggers work in silence, but sent bands of music with the soldiers in whom they were really interested.

Intelligent cigar manufacturers in Cuba sometimes provide music to entertain cigar makers. More often one employe reads aloud while others work. And the intelligent Cubans prefer serious books.

CHINA HAS changed, since old days when Genghis Khan and other invaders walked in and took possession without trouble. Japan took Manchuria, where more than a thousand million dollars of her money is invested, and set up a pseudo independent government, with the deposed Manchu emperor as head.

Now 100,000 Chinese volunteers are marching on Mukden, destroying all Manchurian flags along the way. Japanese troops with guns mounted are ready for them. That "Japanese-Chinese peace pact" seems not to have lasted long.

MR. O. O. M'INTYRE prints a list of epitaphs that various individuals have prepared for later use, on their tombstones. The best is Dorothy Parker's:

"Excuse my dust."

An epitaph accurately expressing the feelings of many would read:

"I wonder where I am now."

NO DEFINITE news of the Lindbergh child, unfortunately, but there is comfort in the fact that in 24 kidnaping cases only seven children were returned in less than twenty-one days.

WASHINGTON SAYS the Republican party is looking for a "pet" to run for vice president in place of Charles Curtis. Ogden L. Mills, new Secretary of the Treasury, and able, is spoken of for the place.

Servants Grilled in Lindy Case

PREPARED TO DIE, SAYS POWERS

'Gamest Kid' Loses Death Battle

BOY CHEERED MONTHS BY STARS

Kate Smith's Broadcast Told of Youth 177 Days Confined in 'Iron Lung'

By CHARLES LANG

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 18.—(AP.)—Friends of Clarence Hastings, the lad you called "the gamest kid in America," is dead.

The 14-year-old boy, whose case was known in all parts of the country, after spending 177 days, or nearly half a year, in a respirator that prevented his moving any part of his body but his head, died at City Hospital this morning of infantile paralysis complicated by the shock of an operation on Tuesday for an abdominal obstruction.

The infantile paralysis had paralyzed his respiratory organs, so that he depended for life upon the hospital's respirator.

SMILED TO END

Almost to the very end, freckle-faced Clarence smiled his infectious smile. While nurses and doctors stood this morning around the breathing apparatus and watched his life ebb away, he turned his head and said:

"Please shut off the machines. They're making too much noise."

He had just died when a telegram was received from Bert Acosta, trans-Atlantic flier, and Townsend McAllister, an aviator, who had taken an interest in the case. It said:

"You will be all right. I mean in good health. When you recover look me up at Roosevelt Flying Field and I'll take you for a good flight for being so brave."

KATE SMITH'S PROTEGE

It wasn't the first such telegram sent to the boy in his long fight to recover his health. Scores of them, and thousands of letters have poured in as a result of some kind words addressed to the boy a month or so ago by Kate Smith, singer. On one day he received two mail sacks full of correspondence—more than any other individual in the city. Other radio stars cheered him.

The mail brought homely little gifts that somehow suggested tears in the eyes and pinching of the hearts of the senders who had heard of the case.

A youngster in the Bronx sent his pet rabbit's foot. A minister from the Mid-West breathed a prayer. There were picture postcards, travel pictures, handkerchiefs. Little girls in New York City wrote valentines.

WORDS OF CHEER

Davie Goldstein, of Toronto, Ont., wrote:

"Boy, you got more pluck than 10 ordinary fellas."

Some youngster in Perth Amboy, N. J., wrote only "to the gamest kid in America," and the card reached Clarence without delay.

Clarence was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hastings, of King Ferry, on Cayuaga Lake. When he was first stricken in September, last, he was taken to Auburn City Hospital. The institution was not equipped with an artificial respirator such as the one in City Hospital here, so he was transferred in an ambulance.

Within a day the body of Clarence Hastings, the lad who knew how to fight, goes home.

Olcott, Famed Ballad Singer, Dead at 71

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT

ANEMIA FATAL TO ACTOR

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, March 18.—(INS.)—Chauncey Olcott, famed American singer of Irish ballads and actor, died at his villa here today from an attack of pernicious anemia.

Olcott was taken ill in August and steadily grew worse. He was ordered to bed recently, and yesterday doctors gave up hope for his recovery. His wife and brother, John, were at his bedside when he died.

Burial will be in his native New York state, preceded by services in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York city. The body is to be sent to the United States on the Italian liner Biancomano, sailing from here on March 22.

He was 71. He was famous on the American stage as a leading actor in Irish musical dramas more than a generation ago and appeared until comparatively recently on stages both in the United States and England.

Olcott was born in Buffalo, N. Y., July 21, 1860. He married Margaret O'Donovan, of San Francisco, in 1897.

He made his home in recent years in New York, maintaining a villa in Monte Carlo for holidays.

Local lovers of Irish folk songs today recalled the visits to Pittsburgh theaters for more than a score of years of Chauncey Olcott. His appearance at the old Bijou theater in Penn avenue; the old Empire theater in East Liberty or at the Alvin meant to the sons of Erin what a Harry Lauder "last appearance" means to local Scots.

KERR DEMANDS CURB ON TAG 'FIXING'

Controller Favors Passage Of Codified Ordinance; Assails Present System

Passage of the new codified traffic ordinance as a means of saving the city the loss occasioned by "fixing" or "loss" of 200,000 traffic tags last year, was recommended today by City Controller James P. Kerr. He also wants all interest on daily bank balances turned over to the City Treasurer. He said:

"There should be some way of compelling magistrates to make daily reports of all receipts to the City Treasurer and to the Controller's office.

CHECK URGED

"I believe all traffic tags should be issued from the Controller's office, and the policemen to whom they are issued held accountable for each tag. Monthly reports should be made on their disposition.

"In regard to traffic fines, deposited in banks, the interest on daily balances belongs to the city."

Kerr's recommendation came after Councilman Robert Garland prepared for a showdown on the "traffic tag racket" in Council next Monday. It was the disappearance of 200,000 traffic tags, "fixed" or "lost" last year that caused Garland to demand this matter be brought into the open.

Figures revealed by a comparison of records in the Police Bureau and the City Treasurer's office indicated the huge number of "fixes" secured by those in political power.

REVENUE LOSS

More than 236,000 tags were given automobile owners for parking violations and other infringements of the traffic ordinances in 1931, Public Safety Director James M. Clark said. Records of the Treasurer reveal receipts from Traffic Court over the same period $52,912.16, the amount of fines recorded for city violations. On this basis, allowing for a small number of cases discharged, and tags destroyed or mislaid by officers, the 200,000 mark is a conservative figure. Each violator is assessed $1 for each infraction.

Clark charged most tags were "fixed" through councilmen and ward chairmen, as well as the smaller political fry.

Adele Astaire Shuns English Reporters

LONDON, March 18.—(INS.)—Adele Astaire, American musical comedy actress, arrived at Southampton today aboard the Cunard liner Majestic, determined not to be interviewed about her forthcoming marriage to Lord Cavendish.

Miss Astaire sought refuge in the chartroom of the tender and drew the blinds while reporters clamored futilely for information. On the boat train to London she had reserved a compartment and locked herself in. Her youthful and wealthy finance was not on hand to meet her at Southampton.

Rain, Snow Brings Rise in Monongahela

Fairly heavy rains at headwaters, coupled with melting snow due to the mild weather resulted in a rise in the Monongahela River today with prospect of a stage of 18.5 feet by midnight, 6.5 feet below flood mark. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said. Near-flood stages were reported from the upper river. The Allegheny is about stationary.

LINDY NEIGHBOR SERVANTS FOUND

Missing Pair Discovered in Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Man Says He Helped Build Ladder

BRYN MAWR, Pa., March 18.—(AP.)—Katie Thornburg and Paul Engenstonberg, servants sought for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., were found today employed in the home of a prominent Bryn Mawr family.

The man and woman left the employ of Mr. and Mrs. C. Leandro Lightfoot, Franklin Park, N. J., on March 2, the day after the 20-month-old son of the Lindberghs was stolen from its crib.

Both emphatically denied any knowledge of the kidnaping.

They said they "just wanted to change jobs," and so left the Lightfoot employ. They admitted telling Mrs. Lightfoot that Engenstonberg's mother was ill in Germany as the reason for leaving.

STARTED WORK MARCH 3

They told police they were legally married last October. They started work in the Bryn Mawr home on March 3. After leaving Franklin Park, they said, they went to Philadelphia, stayed at a small hotel for the night, and obtained their new positions the next day.

They were taken back to the Lindbergh home at Hopewell for further questioning by the New Jersey state police.

The man, according to police, said that Lightfoot helped him make a ladder out of some crating and that the ladder was used to repair an electric light in the Lightfoot garage.

He also said that since coming to Pennsylvania he applied for an automobile driver's permit, in his own name, took a test in Philadelphia on Wednesday and failed, went back yesterday and passed.

Shaun Goilin, winner in 1930, was third.

Sea Soldier, American-owned son of Man O'War, was eighth.

MACFARLANE TO QUIT, RUMOR

Judge James R. Macfarlane, president judge of the Allegheny County courts, has informed friends that he does not intend to run for re-election, it became known today. His 10-year term expires next January. However, Judge Macfarlane has made no public statement regarding his intentions.

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, who is ill, is the next oldest sitting judge in service. In event Judge Macfarlane does not stand for re-election, Judge Swearingen automatically would become the presiding judge. The jurist had intended resuming his place on the bench this week, but a few days ago was again stricken, but is recovering. He was able to walk about his room today. He has been suffering from abdominal trouble.

'BLUEBEARD' UNMOVED AS LAST HOPE VANISHES

Again Protests Innocence As Hour Grows Near for Hanging at Moundsville

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18.—The day of reckoning is at hand for Harry F. Powers, West Virginia's "Bluebeard."

At 9 o'clock tonight the pudgy little man of a hundred love affairs will pay with his life.

He is going to his death convicted of one of five murders—the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro (Mass.) divorcee. He was not tried for the killing of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children, of Park Ridge, Ill., whose bodies were found in a drainage ditch alongside Mrs. Lemke on the Quiet Dell love farm last August 27.

WIFE LOYAL

Powers wants the world to know that the wife he left in Clarksburg to cavort around the country in his mail order love racket still loves him. He is prepared to die, but still protests his innocence. He says:

"I am innocent of any complicity in this dreadful thing, but if it will repay the state of West Virginia for these murders they have laid to my door, I am ready to die."

Alone in his cell in the death house this morning, he laid aside his labors in writing a song, to be published posthumously, to greet newspapermen. The song is dedicated to his wife and is entitled "I'll Wait for You, Dear Heart."

NOT AFRAID

Replying to a list of questions submitted to him, Powers asserted that he is not afraid to die, but feels that it is "unfair" that a respite has not been granted to permit him an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

He said he will not ask for special food for his last meal this evening, but will be content with the usual prison fare.

At the conclusion of the interview Warden A. C. Scroggins broke the news to Powers that Gov. William G. Conley had refused to grant a stay of execution to permit his attorney, J. Ed Law, of Clarksburg, to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court. Powers took it calmly. His only comment was:

"Well, that makes my chances look pretty slim."

Plot in Sydney to Hurl Premier to Sharks Bared

LONDON, March 18.—(INS.)—A plot to hurl New South Wales' Socialist premier, J. T. Lang, to his death in the shark-infested waters of Sydney Harbor if he persists in his intention to open personally the newly-built bridge across the harbor was revealed today.

A. C. Willis, agent general for New South Wales in London, cabled Sydney authorities that he had learned the conspiracy was fostered by the anti-Communist organization known as the "New Guard."

Messages from Sydney declared Premier Lang was being guarded day and night. The bridge opening is scheduled for tomorrow.

Willis told International News Service:

"I regard the threat seriously. My information was obtained from an unimpeachable source at a secret meeting of the House of Commons last night.

"I cabled Mark Goosling, New South Wales colonial secretary, asking him to save the state from a 'disgraceful act.'

"Premier Lang's Socialistic policies have infuriated the New Guards, who also are known as the Australian Ku Klux Klansmen. Their leader, Col. Campbell, is openly quoted as saying Lang will not open the bridge.

"Heavy police guards will be on hand at the ceremonies tomorrow."

Poor House Inmate Slays 2 in Tomato Patch Row

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP.)—Life's little things seem important to old men waiting for death in a poor house.

That is why A. A. Wilkerson, 70, was in jail today accused of killing two other aged men and wounding a third.

A spat over a tomato patch started it.

Wilkerson, who cooks at the poor house at Flournoy, told police that R. J. Foley, 60, usurped his tomato plot and planted a garden of his own there.

Quaking with rage, the two fought and Foley, the younger, won.

The cook thought it over as he stirred his beans. Suddenly, policemen said, he seized a pistol, killed Foley and Sam Warren, 82, and shot Frank Andrews, 79, through the chest.

Then he walked up to a guard. He was quoted as saying:

"All right, I've done what I wanted to do. Now you do your part."

REVOLT AGAINST PUPPET DICTATOR FLAMES IN MANCHURIA

REBEL HORDES MARCHING ON MUKDEN

Former Boy Emperor Pleads With Tokio for Troops; Japanese Forces in Peril

Universal Service.

SHANGHAI, March 18.—With 150,000 Chinese volunteers under arms and sworn to return Manchuria to China, the three provinces wrested from the republic by Japan were aflame with revolt today.

Henry Pu-Yi, former boy emperor of China, who last week became Japan's puppet dictator of Manchuria, is reported beseeching Tokio for troops to protect Changchun, capital of his regime.

Chinese sources report that at least 100,000 volunteers are marching on Mukden, headquarters of the Japanese occupation army, and that other detachments have already struck successful blows in the north.

According to the Chinese dispatches, the troops are burning banners and placards of Pu-Yi's new government and proclaiming Manchuria again part of China.

The volunteer forces are made up of soldiers disbanded after Japan's Manchurian campaign had swept Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's administration out of the three provinces. They are declared to be receiving no assistance from Nanking, although the Central Defense Committee recently announced it would send an expedition into Manchuria to overthrow Pu-Yi.

Mongol Army Joins Manchurian Rebels

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

MUKDEN, March 18.—A Mongol army of insurrectionists joined Chinese rebels today in widespread military maneuvers against the new Manchurian regime.

More than 5,000 Mongols from Tunglao arrived in the region north of Szupingkai approximately 100 miles south of Changchun, on the railway line to Mukden.

Another Mongol force was defeated in an encounter with Chinese loyal to the new government southwest of Tunglao, and retreated.

Mongols also aided Chinese rebels along the Sungari River, north of Changchun, which is the new capital. They aided in many clashes in the vicinity of the towns of Talai and Puyu, the latter being captured.

The combined rebel forces were making a general northeasterly drive in the Sungari River area, looting as they went.

Meanwhile the city of Mukden itself was endangered. Japanese military authorities declared the city was surrounded by over 3,000 Chinese rebels split into small bands. There also were unofficial reports that rebels in much greater numbers were marching upon Mukden from greater distances.

Nine of the leaders of these rebel forces pressing close to the walls of the city were captured and publicly hanged near the city gate today.

The larger forces reported marching on the city were said to be headed by military leaders just arrived in Manchuria from China, equipped with batteries of field guns and other heavy equipment, seeking to organize the many rebel units.

Peace Hopes Grow As Tokio Yields

SHANGHAI, March 18.—(AP.)—A more definite prospect for a Sino-Japanese peace parley arose on the horizon today at the same time that three Japanese transports, crowded to the rails, steamed down the Whangpoo carrying the first contingent of troops back to Japan.

Japanese peace negotiators received instructions from Tokio saying the government decided to forego "certain conditions" which thus far have held up the peace parleys and was anxious to see the conferences proceed.

Chinese-Soviet Union Against Japan Urged

CANTON, China, March 18.—(AP.)—A popular movement for a Chinese-Russian union to insure success to China in its peace negotiations with Japan or in a renewal of fighting, was launched by politicians here today.

Southern Chinese troops known as "The Ironsides" who formerly revolted against Gen. Chiang Kai Shek, until recently president of China, are marching towards Shanghai to join the 19th route army in the field facing the Japanese.

Emissaries of prominent politicians have gone to Canton seeking support of the Cantonese against Gen. Chiang Kai Shek, now Chinese generalissimo, whom they accuse of favoring a settlement favorable to Japan.

Their mission appeared to observers to be facing failure as southern officials strongly oppose a split in the nation's banks while the Shanghai and Manchurian problems remain to be settled with Japan.

Jap Parliament Faces War Costs

TOKIO, March 18.—(AP.)—The Japanese Parliament convened in special session today to pass upon appropriations for 67,000,000 yen (about $33,000,000) to defray the expenses of the military and naval campaigns at Shanghai and in Manchuria.

Kiyoshi and Yetsujiro Uyehara, Seiyukai (government) party nominees, were elected speaker and vice speaker, respectively, of the lower house.

INCOME TAX OFF $33,080,064

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—A decrease of $33,080,064 in income tax receipts on March 16 as compared with the similar day's collections a year ago was shown today in the daily Treasury statement.

Collections for the day amounted to $55,611,451 while on the comparative date a year ago the collections were $88,691,515. The collections brought the total for the month to $100,312,836.37 as compared with $106,254,321 a year ago.

For the fiscal year income tax has amounted to $758,434,178, as compared to $1,277,685,346 for the same period of the previous fiscal year.

The income tax payments caused a decrease in the deficit the government has rolled up in the eight and one-half months of the fiscal year. On March 15, the deficit was $1,871,229,155, but on the next day it had dropped to $1,843,478,962.

Collections from all sources on March 16 had amounted to $1,470,980,581, while expenditures had totaled $3,314,459,543.

4 Children Freed By Chinese Bandits

HONGKONG, China, March 18.—(AP.)—Two women and four children, captured by bandits who raided a lighthouse at Breaker Point, 30 miles southwest of Swatow, on February 29, were released today.

U. S. TO SHUN SOVIET

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—The American government has no intention of extending recognition to the Russian Soviet government now or in the near future.

This was stated upon reliable administration authority today in response to reports appearing in the Moscow press stating the United States was considering inauguration of diplomatic relations with the Soviets as a counter-balance against Japanese activities in the Far East.

There has been no change in the stand of this government toward Soviet recognition, it was stated. An unofficial representative of the Soviet government called at the State Department recently. While his call was made in the capacity of a private citizen, it was learned he broached the subject of Soviet recognition informally. He was told there was no possibility of that question being taken up at this time.

PITT TEACHERS RAP TAX PLAN

Congressman Clyde Kelly is asked to support a substitute for the proposed manufacturers' sales tax now before Congress in a letter signed by 20 faculty members of the departments of political science and economics at the University of Pittsburgh, according to Prof. Francis D. Tyson, of the economics department.

The professors suggest that Congressman Kelly consider the LaGuardia proposal for a selected sales tax upon the class of goods considered as luxuries, or that he consider the lowering of the level on which the maximum of state tax rate shall begin to apply.

The professors say they oppose the manufacturers' sales tax because they believe it would place a burden on persons with small incomes.

Norris Bill Banning U. S. Trials Opposed

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—A bill by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, to abolish entirely the jurisdiction of Federal Courts over cases based on diversity of state citizenship was opposed before a Senate Judiciary Sub-Committee today by Attorney General Mitchell.

Mitchell contended that a suit between residents of different states should be admitted to the Federal Courts because if it were tried in a state court before "a jury composed of neighbors of the defendant" the non-resident would be "not apt to get quite as fair judgment as in the Federal Court where the jury is drawn from a larger area."

Home Owner Credit Protection Urged

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—Protection for the small home owner-borrower as well as for the lending institutions should guide the House Banking Committee in drafting its federal home loan bill, H. Morton Bodfish, Columbus, O., executive manager of the United States Building and Loan Associations, told the committee today.

Bodfish said his association was particularly interested in having the terms of the bill require the highest possible standards. The building and loan associations of the better type will not take advantage of the bill if it is not drawn on rigid lines, he declared.

Mother Will Visit Flier Short's Grave

TACOMA, Wash., March 18.—(INS.)—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Short, mother of Robert M. Short, American aviator shot down by the Japanese at Soochow while flying for the Chinese Army, is planning a trip to Shanghai to visit the grave of her boy.

Mrs. Short made her plans known today after receiving a memorial panel from prominent Chinese societies of the Pacific Coast in recognition of her son's services to the Chinese government during the Sino-Japanese conflict.

HOUSE UPSETS LEADERS' TAX PROGRAM

Members Vote to Increase Rates on $8,000 Incomes Up to Seven Per Cent

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—The House today voted war time surtax rates on big income taxpayers.

With members cheering it voted 153 to 87 to adopt the amendment of Representative Swing (Rep.), of California, raising the maximum surtax rate to 65 per cent.

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The House today overrode leaders in charge of the $1,096,000,000 tax bill in the first test vote by raising the normal income tax rate on incomes above $8,000 from 5 to 7 per cent. The vote was 121 to 81.

The amendment was offered by Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, who announced that it was the first step to upset the tax program of the Ways and Means Committee. The committee had recommended an increase in the rate from 5 to 6 per cent.

OPPOSED BY CRISP

Representative Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, acting chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, opposed the amendment which, it was estimated, will add $12,000,000 a year to the burden of taxpayers.

Without objection the House adopted the committee's amendment raising the income tax rate on the first $4,000 of income from 1½ per cent to 2 per cent a year, and on the next $4,000 from 3 per cent to 4 per cent.

Emboldened by their initial victory, opponents of the bill prepared by a bi-partisan vote of the Ways and Means Committee launched an attack on big incomes.

AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Although the committee proposed to double the maximum surtax rate, raising it from 20 to 40 per cent, amendments were offered carrying the maximum to 65 per cent.

Representative Swing (Rep.), of California, proposed to apply the war time surtax rates. He said:

"This is an emergency equal to war and those with large incomes must pay."

Representative Canfield (Dem.), of Indiana, member of the Ways and Means committee, deserted the committee to propose surtaxes reaching 50 per cent on incomes above $500,000. He admitted the big increase in surtaxes would not yield much revenue because large incomes have been dissipated since the stock market crash.

Other amendments hiking the surtax on incomes above $100,000 were proposed.

Immigration Slash Of 90% Approved

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—A 90 per cent cut in all immigration, western hemisphere as well as old world, was approved yesterday by the House Immigration Committee.

Urged as an unemployment measure, the restriction resolution by Representative Moore (Dem.), of Kentucky, reducing all quotas to 10 per cent of their present status and putting Canada, Mexico, Central and South American countries on restricted quota bases, was voted by committee members.

DELAY GLASS BANK BILL

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—Growing controversy over provisions in the new Glass banking reform act for curbing speculation today threatened to delay passage of the sections providing federal aid for depositors in thousands of closed banks.

The bill was introduced by Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury, after the Senate banking sub-committee had reached an impasse over the provisions designated to curb speculation.

The proposed investigation of the New York stock market apparently has been buried. Consideration of the Glass bill is expected to last two or three weeks. This would postpone a start of the market inquiry until the middle of April. Some observers believed it meant actual postponement of the investigation until the next session of Congress.

The Glass bill was a virtual mystery to all but a few Senators and even the members of Glass' own sub-committee were involved in a controversy.

Wife's Gift Cigar Knocks Him Out

CHICAGO.—Milwaukee police found Michael Mulak unconscious on the sidewalk with a tightly gripped cigar between two fingers. It was a holiday cigar his wife bought him.

"I lit it up and it tasted sort of funny," he explained when he came to in a hospital, "but I kept on smoking because it was a gift from my wife. Next my mouth began to feel parched, I got dizzy and leaned against a post. Then everything began to whirl and I saw stars."

FEDERAL WAGE CUT PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—A slash in all federal salaries was proposed today as a means of affecting economy, in a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Connally (Dem.), of Texas.

It would reduce salaries between $2,000 and $5,000 by 5 per cent; between $5,000 and $10,000 by 10 per cent and all over $10,000 by 15 per cent.

He declared federal employes should "be willing to make some sacrifice in the interest of federal economy" at a time when the government has a deficit of over $2,000,000,000.

McFadden Attacks House Tax Program

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Once more Representative McFadden, Independent Republican from Canton, Pa., took a fling at the administration, charging it with making "not true" statements concerning the necessity for passage of the proposed sales tax.

McFadden, from the floor of the House where he delivered his famous accusation that President Hoover had "sold out" in proposing the debt moratorium, advocated a 4 per cent tax on corporation surpluses and collection of outstanding income taxes by the Treasury.

CHICAGO.—Ninety-five years old, Chicago peeked into the census records and found that 38 American states have smaller population than the 3,491,635 estimated yesterday by Frederick Rex, municipal librarian.

States with more population than Chicago are New York, Pennsylvania, California, Michigan, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey, Ohio, Texas and Illinois.

HURLEY SEES LIBERAL G. O. P. RUM STAND

Hints Anti-Drys' Success At Polls; Prohibition Law Laid to Democrats

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—Patrick J. Hurley, the Republican Secretary of War, has expressed the opinion a "more liberal" stand on the prohibition issue would be taken by his party's national convention in Chicago this June.

Here to give a St. Patrick's Day address, Secretary Hurley told an interviewer yesterday he thought the prohibition question eventually would be settled on the basis of state's rights, with federal enforcement limited to preventing liquor traffic into states that wish to be dry. He said:

"A great many people are going to look for anti-dry candidates on the ballots next fall."

ISSUE DODGERS SCORED

He appeared last night on the same program of the Irish Fellowship Club, at which United States Senator Otis F. Glenn (Rep.), of Illinois, voiced a forecast the prohibition law in time would be repealed. He said:

"The handwriting is on the wall and fear stalks behind those members of the House and Senate who have used parliamentary rules to safeguard their public opinions from their private practices."

Hurley, during the interview, declared the prohibition amendment and the federal income tax were the only two provisions in the Constitution which interfered with state's rights and observed that the Democrats put them both there during the Wilson administration. He said:

"Yet, John Raskob calls those Republicans 'Judases' who come out against prohibition. It was a Democratic measure, sponsored by Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, an outstanding Democratic statesman. Still, the Democratic party claims a tradition of defending state's rights."

SEES HOOVER VICTORY

President Hoover, the Secretary of War predicted, would be re-elected because while he was openly opposed by the Democrats and secretly by many Republican leaders, he had the masses of the people behind him.

In his Fellowship Club address Hurley voiced a plea for the preservation of America's economic system. It needed changes, he said, because it had created "an unequal distribution of wealth," but it was worth saving because it brought happiness to a greater number of people than any in history.

The changes, he said, should be made only after due deliberation, not "in the excitement of a temporary crisis."

He scored the racketeer as the nation's greatest threat to life, liberty and happiness and suggested that what was needed to get rid of the gangster was not more laws, but revived popular interest in government and "an honest enforcement of the law."

The police were not able to trace the origin of the fish, which the villagers consumed, as there was no indication of ownership.

Savant on Hunger Strike Against Joblessness

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Unless somebody gives him a suitable job, Dr. Fred T. Wolters, 57-year-old scholar, maintains he will starve himself to death in protest.

To prove that he means business, Wolters has eaten but one peanut, which he said he picked up in a store, since beginning to fast February 28. To avoid being clapped in an asylum, the scholar took the precaution of having himself declared sane by alienists before announcing the hunger strike. They did, but pronounced him abnormal in some respects.

Wolters is an expert at hunger strikes, having undertaken them before both here and abroad. He was on the Library of Congress staff once but resigned in 1926 because other employes were promoted over his head. He has tried unsuccessfully since then to be reinstated.

The doctor is a German by birth, a naturalized American, and a graduate of the University of New Zealand. His protest, while specifically directed at his own joblessness, is also against general unemployment.

He walks a short distance daily, growing weaker but, he says, feeling no hunger. Already he has lost enough weight for his clothes to hang baggily on the Wolters frame.

BEER LINE UNDER LANCASTER STREETS BARED BY MISHAP

WORKMAN'S AX CUTS 'MAIN' IN SEWER TUBE

System Hinted Built With City Funds; Fast-Drying Town Wars on Corruption

International News Service.

LANCASTER, Pa., March 18.—"Beer" was on everybody's lips today, verbally, but Lancaster was fast going dry after a workman accidentally made the sensational disclosure that the beverage was flowing as fast as sewage and in virtually the same channels.

Repairing a manhole, the worker "tapped" the startling line of information and instead of beer, a storm was brewing in Lancaster today. The man's ax struck the hose as he was at work and he was showered with beer.

MAYOR DEMANDS ACTION

Already rocked by revelations of vice and police graft, the city girded itself for a "war to the finish" on vice lords, beer barons and police corruption. "I want action," was the battle cry of Mayor J. Warren Metzger.

The beer line was ingeniously contrived whereby a hose, sections of it made from fire hose, guided the illegal fluid under busy city streets and through the same trenches that carried the municipal sewer system. The source of the flow and the terminals were not immediately discovered, but a probe to the end was promised as the District Attorney's office predicted a dozen arrests before nightfall.

POLICE CHIEF ACCUSED

Revelation of the beer line followed on the heels of the dismissal of Chief of Police Raymond Whitcomb after Alois Editmiller, hotel proprietor, charged in court he paid the official $10 a week for slot machine privileges.

Ironically enough, the theory that the beer channel had been constructed at city expense and installed with the sewer lines was advanced. The District Attorney's office started a separate investigation of this angle.

POWERS WAITS NOOSE TONIGHT

LONG "LAST MILE"

The "last mile" will take him around two sides of the cell block, down a short corridor 25 feet to the door of the execution chamber, then a few more steps to the gallows which will drop him into eternity. Witnesses to the execution must pass the door of Powers' cell into the death chamber. Each one will be in full view of the condemned man in passing. It will be their first view of the doomed Bluebeard before the trap is sprung.

Their next will be when the hangman adjusts the noose. Their last will be when he dangles from the end of the rope.

Forty-two witnesses will watch Powers die tonight. Among them are Sheriff W. B. Grimm, of Harrison County, and a number of Clarksburg police and officials.

Miss Maude Riggs, deputy clerk of the Marshall County Court here today received an unsigned letter, mailed on a railway post-office train between Newton and Amarillo, Tex., according to the cancelation stamp, in which it begs that the execution of Powers be postponed. The handwriting is that of a woman. It reads:

"In the name of God be merciful and spare his life until I get there."

QUOTES BIBLE

The message then quoted many Bible passages as a reason for postponement of the execution of Powers.

Coroner T. A. Hoganson, of Grundy County, Ill., was expected here today to question Powers about the mysterious death of an unidentified woman found buried in a garage at Morris, Ill., in 1929.

Mrs. J. B. Dawson, owner of a rooming house, declared she was positive that Powers is the man who, posing as a paint salesman, rented her garage and disappeared shortly before the unknown woman's body was discovered. She said the man drove a car bearing West Virginia license plates. Coroner Hoganson will be permitted to question Powers.

HER SLAYER TO PAY

MRS. DOROTHY LEMKE . . . SLAIN IN A MAIL ORDER ROMANCE

The murdered Mrs. Lemke, Northboro, Mass., for whose death Harry F. Powers, West Virginia's mail order "Bluebeard," tonight at 9 pays with his life on the gallows at Moundsville, W. Va.

'Bluebeard's' Wife Loyal To End; Powers Sobs Over Last Message

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18.—Mrs. Luella Strothers Powers, of Clarksburg, still loves her "Bluebeard" husband and hopes to be with him soon in heaven, it was revealed today in a letter to Powers from his wife. It is a good bye message to the doomed slayer. Reading it in his cell this morning, he broke into tears, sobbing:

"I love my wife dearly. It is hard to die without her."

The letter, received last Wednesday, but revealed only this morning, follows:

"My Dear Husband:

"Your sweet letter just received dear and I am trying to get this ready for this afternoon's mail if possible. I am still in bed. I am just wild nervous and just can't sit up.

"Yes, dear, I am telling you the truth about this relative. He came to visit us in January—I mean just to call on us. He is rooming here in Clarksburg and comes over to see us now quite often."

EXPLAINS MONEY

"We got the cottage rented on Lynn avenue. A family by the name of O'Connor have a baby 2 years old. That is where that $10 came from that I sent you. Spend it all, dear, as I told you, and if you get a stay of sentence I will do my best in sending you money when I have it.

"I am heart-broken and so distressed I can hardly live. Oh, I think it is terrible to have to give you up under such circumstances; reminds me of a song without words, no proof and in other words without a foundation. Yes, dear, I read your statement in the papers, and how it did relieve my little depressed heart for you to acknowledge to the public that your dear old mother taught you from childhood to live for God and for that beautiful home which now awaits your coming.

EXPRESSES FAITH

"Oh, Harry dear, may God have mercy on you and when you are through with the trials and troubles in this life have a home in heaven where there is no sorrow, and some sweet day I will come to see you, dear, and live forever with you.

"Oh, what a wonderful thought to be ready when that great day comes. I am praying for you dear and hoping that a change will take place and spare your life, honey.

"I am wild nervous I don't know how I am to live through the terrible punishment. I could write all day, honey, but the mail is coming and I will have to close.

"I am sending you my love and kisses so please dear send me a kiss and wave me goodbye for the next time I meet you you may be in the sky. If I get your letter in time I will write again dear, if not I shall say goodbye forever.

"Lovingly, your wife,

"Mrs. Harry F. Powers, 284 Lynn avenue, Clarksburg, W. Va."

WOMAN WON'T SEE HANGING

NORTHBORO, Mass., March 18.—(INS.)—"My interest in Harry F. Powers ceased when the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree."

So said Mrs. Charles L. Flemming from her sick bed today, denying reports that she planned to attend the execution of the "bluebeard."

Mrs. Flemming is a sister of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, one of the victims of Powers. Mrs. Lemke was last seen alive when she left her sister's home here "to be married" to Powers, a "Mail Order Romeo." Mrs. Flemming told International News Service:

"Powers is sane. I never for one minute thought a stay of execution would be granted."

POWERS TELLS OF MEETINGS WITH VICTIM

Writes Replies to Quiz Submitted by Reporters; Respite Denial 'Unfair'

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18.—Harry F. Powers, condemned to die at 9 o'clock tonight for the "Bluebeard" murder of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, today from his cell here answered in writing questions submitted to him last night by newspapermen.

The questions and answers follow:

Q—There are rumors that you have given more details on the crime since your life story than have otherwise been disclosed. If it would be no breach of your contract with the purchaser of the story, please answer if correct.

A—Naturally I have given a more detailed description of what I know regarding these crimes than was testified to during my trial. Basically the story is the same, but of course it has been explained in a more detailed form.

NOT CASUAL FRIEND

Q—When Mrs. Lemke asked you to take care of her clothing, had she had more than a casual acquaintance with you to warrant imposing such trust?

A—Mrs. Lemke and myself had more than just a casual acquaintance. Mrs. Lemke was at Clarksburg during the winter of 1930, for about 10 days. Then, again, I met her at Uxbridge, Mass., during July, 1931. Regarding her trust in me, there was no reason why she should distrust me.

Q—Will there be any further statement other than answers to our questions or the final appeal for humanity you have previously detailed?

A—I have prepared two statements that I probably will give to be used in whatever form may seem advisable. It gives my personal view regarding the guilt of others who because of unfair methods have brought about my present conviction. And whom, because of these unfair methods, I am accusing of the murder of myself in the event that my execution takes place upon the present conviction. I will leave it completely to the judgment of those in charge of publications to use them as they may see fit.

Q—What is your reaction to the treatment you have received during your stay in prison?

A—The treatment accorded me at the state penitentiary has been fair and square. I certainly have no complaint to make. I cannot, however, say this much regarding the treatment accorded me while confined at the Harrison County Jail.

WANTS NO COMPANY

Q—Have you asked for company on Friday, or any particular music?

A—I shall be opposed to any music or company when and if I must mount the scaffold on Friday next.

Q—Do you expect Attorney Law here on Friday?

A—Mr. Law has proven himself by far too loyal to be wasting his time in coming here.

Q—Do you still have hope of respite in the face of so many reversals in the courts?

A—It is hard to believe that injustice can be so great as to deliberately refuse to give me further respite. It is hard to believe that the American spirit of fair play will permit itself to be trampled upon in that manner. Also it seems that since indication has been made to bring my case before the highest tribunal of the land, it would be very unfair to refuse me my chance to obtain justice by refusing respite which would be needed to give the necessary time.

J. V. THOMPSON IMPROVED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 18.—Josiah V. Thompson, former coal baron of Fayette County, today was reported somewhat improved after a fairly comfortable night at his Oak Hill home.

His wife, Mrs. Rose Stillwagon Maloney Thompson, of Pittsburgh, called to his bedside yesterday, assured friends today that he seemed bright, is able to converse with members of his family and appeared to be somewhat improved.

Thompson, 78, stricken last Friday with apoplexy in the courthouse, was transferred to his home from the hospital several days ago and physicians reported that his condition was serious. It was said his resistence was weakening rapidly.

GUNMEN TRAP 17, LOOT SAFE

Scorning money in two cash registers, four men, two armed with sawed-off shotguns and a third with a revolver, herded 15 customers, the proprietor and a waiter into a rear room and took nearly $500 from the safe in Nathan Ludin's restaurant, 1720 Center avenue, early today.

The money was the property of several hucksters who had left their funds in the restaurant for safe keeping rather than risk leaving it in their homes, police said.

The holdup occurred shortly before 4 o'clock. Three of the men entered the restaurant, and the fourth guarded the entrance. Of the three, two were armed with shotguns, and the other carried a revolver.

Those in the restaurant, including Ludin and his waiter, Harry Julius, of 5442 Stanton avenue, were ordered into a rear room. Ludin, threatened with guns, was forced to oper the safe.

No attempt was made to remove the money from the two cash registers in the establishment. A watch and wallet, the latter containing several bills, were removed from Ludin's pockets and returned by the thieves.

Film Cartoonist Accused by Wife

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Adelaide Stallings today asked $90 alimony and $500 counsel fees in a separation action against her husband, George V. Stallings, animated film cartoonist.

Mrs. Stallings, who lived with her husband in Harrison, N. Y., until last January, alleged he was "incessantly intoxicated and subject to alcoholic fits" wherein he would twist her wrists. She stated that he once locked her up in a clothes closet.

Bandit Suspect Wins Cut in Bail

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., March 18—(AP.)—Lawrence Piercy, former Lexington policeman who has been held since Wednesday under suspicion as one of the three robbers who held up the Paintsville National Bank and escaped with $47,500 last week, today was allowed a reduction in bond to $5,000, when bank employes said they could not identify him.

Four bank customers, however, told officers Piercy was one of the men.

Landslide Cuts Water From Town

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 18.—(AP.)—Glenville will be without water supply over the week-end as the result of a landslide caused by rain and melting snow which severed a main yesterday. Classes at the State Teacher's College were dismissed because water was not available for use in the boilers.

FORCE BANKER TO OPEN SAFE

DELAVAN, Wis., March 18.—(AP.)—Four men robbed the State Bank of Delavan of about $7,000 today after holding W. R. Topping, president of the institution, prisoner in his home most of the night.

Held prisoner with Topping was his wife and small daughter. Shortly before the bank was to open today, the men took Topping to the bank and forced him to open the vault.

The bank was robbed of $6,000 by a lone robber on February 8. A suspect in the robbery is now held in Rochester, N. Y., fighting extradition.

The robbers handcuffed Mrs. Topping and her daughter, Molly Joy, 6, to fixtures in the bathroom before taking Topping to the bank.

While the robbery was in progress four bank employes entered and were covered by the robbers' pistols. The men escaped in an automobile they told Topping they had stolen.

DAVIS WRECKS MICROPHONES

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—(AP.)—So vigorously did Senator James J. Davis declaim on the subject of prohibition last night in the opening speech of his campaign for renomination that he disconnected the microphone in making a gesture.

Invading Delaware County, the home of his dry opponent, Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, the Senator called on the Republican party to "send the question of prohibition back to the states where it belongs." He spoke at a dinner of the Upper Darby Union League.

Senator Davis promised to vote to let the states deal with the question as they see fit if the matter of liquor control comes before the Senate. He said he failed to understand why the Republican party cannot take a firm stand on the proposition.

WOMAN GIVEN NEW FACE AS BAND PLAYS

Four in Audience Faint as Plastic Surgeons Cut Away Lines Worn by Pen Term

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Before a tense, tight-lipped audience, where women fainted and dropped to the floor, a mysterious woman criminal—her eyes masked to hide her identity—submitted to a bizarre surgical operation designed to change her face so that she can re-enter society a new and transformed woman.

It took two hours and seven minutes for this woman, doomed in the eyes of the public as a murderess, to destroy her features and become a new person.

Masked and swathed to the neck in white cloth, she reclined in the operating chair beneath powerful, hot electric lamps while three physicians and a nurse hovered above her on a black-draped stage of the Hotel Pennsylvania ballroom.

Two hours and seven minutes.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS

An orchestra played popular selections while the surgeon's scalpel slit the skin on her face from chin to temple, making incisions an inch wide.

It was "Goodnight, Sweetheart," while the glittering knife cut away flesh . . . cut away 20 hardened years of prison life . . . erasing lines of bitterness.

The violin wailed, "How Long Will It Last?" as Dr. J. Howard Crum, noted Chicago plastic surgeon, went into the second long hour of the operation.

FOUR WOMEN FAINT

By this time four women in the audience of 500 had collapsed and were carried out of the crowded room.

The "mystery patient" reclined throughout the ordeal without uttering a cry, her small frame steeled to the test. Once only, when the second anesthetic was injected, did she wince, and her mouth quivered.

During the last 15 minutes of the operation she grew weak, and had to be revived, but the audience burst into applause when the patient was swung around in the chair to face them, and handed a mirror so she could see the transformation she had undergone. She said:

"I feel fine."

The last bandages had been swathed about her face where the stitches had been taken. The crowd was slowly filing out, and the strains of the orchestra had ceased.

The operation was the climax in the program of the twelfth annual convention of the International Association of Beauty Shop Owners.

9 DAKOTA VOTES FOR ROOSEVELT

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

FARGO, N. D., March 18.—Gov. F. D. Roosevelt, of New York, won nine of North Dakota's ten Democratic national convention delegates in Tuesday's primary on the basis of unofficial returns from all but 213 of the state's 2,235 precincts today.

George Murray, Berthold (N. D.) farmer, pledged to support his brother, Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, won the tenth seat. Murray was in charge of his brother's North Dakota campaign.

In the contest for the state's 11 seats in the Republican national convention, nine delegates pledged to President Hoover were in the lead, with eight definitely elected on the basis of returns from all but 180 precincts.

Dolores Del Rio Fights Court Award

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—An appeal from a judgment of $16,000 obtained by Gunther R. Lessing, an attorney, against Dolores Del Rio, film actress, for legal services was filed by the actress in the district court of appeals yesterday. She contended the evidence was insufficient to warrant judgment.

Lessing sued for $31,000 he claimed was due him for legal services given Miss Del Rio from July 26, 1927, until September 30, 1929, while she was winning her way to stardom on the screen.

Brooklyn Searched For Boy's Kidnapers

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Brooklyn police sent out a kidnaping alarm today for Teddy Cusimano, 7, abducted yesterday by two men in a big black motorcar.

Playmates who saw Teddy seized on his way home from school said one of the abductors clapped a handkerchief over the child's mouth.

Marx Brothers Sued For $20,000 by Agent

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Suit for $20,000 was on file in the Supreme Court today against the Four Marx Brothers, stage and screen comedians, by the William Morris Agency.

Wealthy Amateur Sleuth's Mystery Death Probed

DETROIT, March 18.—(INS.)—The mysterious death of Egbert M. Hofman, 27, millionaire amateur criminologist, will be investigated thoroughly, police said today after accepting his mother's statement that Hofman accidentally shot himself last night.

Member of eight exclusive clubs here; a former member of the Friars' Club, New York; a practicing lawyer and a central figure in the city's most sensational murder investigation, Hofman always carried a revolver, his mother, Mrs. Max Hofman, told police. Shortly before midnight last night, she said, he was chatting with her just before retiring. She declared:

"He took the gun from a belt holster and was handling the gun and a pencil when the gun exploded."

The bullet pierced Hofman's heart.

For 10 years Hofman had interested himself in amateur detective work. He gained little public attention until one of his bank books was found in the apartment of Marjorie Mansell, radio singer sweetheart of Pete Licavoli, alleged gangster, during investigation of Gerald E. Buckley's murder. Buckley, political commentator, whose radio talks stirred bitter election battles, also was a friend of Miss Mansell.

Shortly after discovery of the bankbooks Hofman went to Europe. When he returned he was held under $5,000 bond in the trial of three men charged with Buckley's assassination.

Investigation showed Miss Mansell had lived with Miss Helen Foote, Hofman's secretary, but Hofman was not called as a witness in the murder trial.

Coroner James E. Gurgess said he was convinced Hofman had accidentally shot himself.

LINDY NEIGHBOR SERVANTS FOUND

successfully. No one questioned him regarding the Lindbergh case.

He and Katie went to Hopewell, voluntarily police said.

PAIR QUESTIONED

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 18.—(AP.)—Police at the Lindbergh home announced today that the two Franklin Park servants who disappeared the day after the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby had been located and were being questioned.

The pair were cook and butler for the C. Leandre Lightfoots and the circumstances of their sudden departure caused the Lightfoots to make a report to police investigating the kidnaping.

They said the servants known to them as Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thornberg left at a moment's notice with the statement that Thornberg's mother was dying in Germany. After they had gone the Lightfoots missed some rough wood similar to that used in the ladder employed by the kidnapers and a chisel like one found beneath the Lindbergh nursery window.

The chisel was found at the Lightfoot home yesterday and it was generally believed the whole investigation concerning the missing servants had been dropped as a result of this.

But the official bulletin issued this morning by H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, revealed that the investigation was still on.

UNDER TWO NAMES

It also disclosed the servants were known to police by another name than Thornberg. The statement said:

"Henry Johnson (the sailor friend of Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nurse) has not been questioned by investigators from this office as to the whereabouts of Paul Engstonberg, alias Thornberg.

"Our investigators are still out checking on the story related by Mr. Lightfoot and until such time as they return and report their findings it will be impossible to inform you of anything definite concerning the Engstonbergs.

"Whether or not there is any connection between their sudden departure and the circumstances of the kidnaping is to be determined.

"The Engstonbergs have been located and investigators will question them.

"As soon as our investigators have heard their story and informed us of the circumstances, we will communicate them to press representatives."

STORY OF STUDENT

Schwarzkopf also told of a statement by a student at a Princeton preparatory school that on the day of the kidnaping, March 1, the student saw an automobile drawn to one side of the Lindbergh lane. The student said there were ladders laid across the tops of the seats, but he did not take the license number of the car nor did he notice the driver closely enough to be able to give any description. Schwarzkopf said:

"With the information at hand this matter was investigated as far as possible without being able to obtain any information of value to the investigation."

The police superintendent said his subordinates were out on several phases of the investigation, but as yet they had reported nothing of importance.

Two Newark detectives left this morning for Pocatello, Idaho, to question Ignace Blaustein, who told police there that he was the driver of the automobile in which the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped.

SEARCH IN MEXICO

Deputy Chief of Police Frank Brex, of the Newark force, said he spoke to Blaustein last night by telephone and his conversation was important enough to warrant sending men to Pocatello. The men Brex sent are Acting Capt. Thomas Rowe and Sergt. Strong. Brex has been active in the investigation since it began, being stationed first at the Lindbergh home and later taking charge of the examination of Johnson.

Meanwhile, from Mexico City, came a dispatch indicating belief that the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., may possibly have escaped the country by airplane.

Mexican officials announced that 10 crack secret service operatives were enroute to the Mexican borders. They were all instructed to check airplane movements carefully.

Prisoner Says 3 Stole Lindy Baby for Others

POCATELLO, Idaho, March 18.—(INS.)—"I and two other men kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

"We did it for somebody else.

"We were just third parties to the job."

Insisting he was the driver of the automobile in which the Lindbergh child was stolen from Hopewell, N. J., on March 1, Ignace Blaustein, arrested as a burglar suspect, gave that statement today to Police Sergt. Robert M. Pugmire.

Pugmire told International News Service:

"From the way he talked I think he may be telling the truth.

"Several of my fellow officers, however, think he's crazy."

GIVES CLUES TO BABY

Blaustein, according to Pugmire, also claimed to know "about where" the Lindbergh baby might be found. Pugmire declared:

"He gave us a somewhat vague address in Newark, N. J. I already have communicated by telephone with both New York and Newark authorities."

"He told me that he delivered the child to this supposed higher-up and then drove West with his two confederates.

"He claims these confederates are now within 200 miles of Pocatello."

Blaustein claimed he had recently been released from Sing Sing Prison and that "you can check up on me there."

Sergt. Jugmire said that "the records show he served a term in the New Hampshire State Penitentiary."

Kidnaping Odds 1 to 4,500,000, Expert Says

URBANA, Ill., March 18.—(AP.)—The chances of losing your child to kidnapers were 1 to 4,500,000, Miss Edna Walls, specialist in child development at the University of Illinois, said today.

The abduction of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., had created a sense of insecurity and fear "all out of proportion to actual facts," she said.

Miss Walls based her figures on census records showing 30,000,000 families in the United States and reports of kidnapings for the past 40 years.

KIDNAP THREAT TO DU PONT KIN

WILMINGTON, Del., March 18.—(AP.)—A police guard was maintained today at the home of J. Simpson Dean, assistant treasurer of the Du Pont Company, after receipt of note which which threatened kidnaping of one of the three Dean children.

The threat, police said, was made over the telephone to a nursemaid of the children Wednesday night. She reported a gruff voice said:

"One of Mr. Dean's three children will be kidnaped unless we get some money."

When she started to reply the connection was broken.

Mrs. Dean was formerly Pauline du Pont, a cousin of former United States Senator T. Coleman du Pont.

NIGHT CLUB MAN HELD IN KILLING

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Louis Stinelli, part owner of a Broadway night club, today was arrested on a murder charge and was also questioned in connection with a Chicago kidnaping.

Police alleged Stinelli was one of the men who shot and killed Louis Di Maria, alcohol ring victim, who was slain in the Bronx on February 13.

Stinelli, who lives in Brooklyn, said a "party" in St. Louis had asked him to come West because a relative of the "party" named Berg had been kidnaped. He said he was picked up on suspicion in Chicago, but was released.

Girl Eludes Kidnaper In Street Near Home

BRIDGEPORT, O., March 18.—(AP.)—Bridgeport police today were investigating the attempted kidnaping of 6-year-old Marguerite Daniel. A man attempted to seize her while she was playing near her home. She eluded him and ran screaming to a nearby house. The would-be abductor disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Daniel, the parents, revealed they had received a letter three months ago, in which the writer threatened to kidnap the child. They said that at the time they believed it was a joke.

JURIST QUITS HAWAII CASE

HONOLULU, March 18.—(Universal.)—Denying defense allegations that he is biased and unable to give the four defendants in the sensational Massie "honor slaying" case a fair trial, Circuit Judge M. Cristie yesterday disqualified himself.

The jurist named Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis to conduct the trial in his stead. Mrs. Granville Fortescue, New York and Washington society woman; her naval lieutenant son-in-law, Thomas Massie, and two navy enlisted men are awaiting trial on a charge of killing one of the five natives Mrs. Massie identified as having attacked her.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—(Universal.)—Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal attorney, and his associates have a difficult legal task to defend Mrs. Grace Fortescue and her co-defendants, for the "honor slaying" of Joseph Kahahawai, a native Hawaiian, in Honolulu, according to the opinion expressed tonight by Seth W. Richardson, Assistant United States Attorney General at Washington.

Richardson returned today on the liner Malolo after a five weeks' survey of crime conditions and judicial procedure in Hawaii.

FIRST SUB BODY RECOVERED

WEYMOUTH, England, March 18.—(AP.)—The body of a member of the crew of the sunken submarine M-2 was taken out of the vessel today by divers and removed to Portland. It was the first to be recovered.

Fifty-six men were lost with the M-2 when she went down off Portland on January 26. For days after the disaster a salvage fleet dragged the bottom looking for the ship, but it was not until February 3 that it was found wedged in between two other wrecks, with the conning tower hatch open.

The seaplane which she carried was brought up a week later, but operations to recover the ship itself were suspended until the weather improved. Meantime divers continued their efforts to extricate such bodies as they could reach.

Wounded President Of Peru Recovering

LIMA, Peru, March 18.—(AP.)—The condition of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who was shot and wounded last week while attending church services at Miraflores, a summer resort near here, was so satisfactory today his physicians permitted him to sit up in bed and to receive several callers.

One of his first acts was to sign a law, especially passed by the legislature, giving him power to commute to imprisonment the death sentence upon Jose Secane, the young man who shot him.

TROTZKY SAVED FROM GALE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 18.—(AP.)—Turkish fishermen today revealed that Leon Trotzky, the exiled Communist, escaped from death in a wild squall which wrecked his motorboat on Dog Island a few days ago.

Their story was that Trotzky and two unidentified companions were on a fishing expedition in the Sea of Marmora in a recently purchased motorboat when a sudden gale sprang up.

The boat was dashed upon the rocks of lonely Dog Island, where thousands of Istabul dogs were sent to starve to death many years ago.

The boat was smashed to pieces, but Trotzky and his companions crawled laboriously over the rocks to the barren shore of the island. Bruised and drenched, they remained there all night with not even a tree for shelter.

In the morning, however, the castaways managed to signal a passing fishing smack.

$500 PAINTING GENUINE COROT

CHICAGO, March 18.—(INS.)—A painting, which was sold as an imitation for $500, was today pronounced an original work of Corot, the famous French artist, and its value placed at more than $100,000.

The painting, done in oil, was condemned as an imitation by its former owner, the Chicago Art Institute, and was sold for the paltry $500 to the Chicago Athletic Association to be used as a wall decoration.

Following a prolonged and painstaking investigation, Dr. Maurice Goldblatt, noted art expert, announced his conclusion that the work is a genuine Corot. Dr. Goldblatt said:

"It was painted in 1870, but not sold because of a quarrel. On it is a stamp showing it was later sold at a studio sale following Corot's death in 1875. I have traced it through three owners to the institute."

Ex-Policeman Gets Vice Perjury Term

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—John J. Glenn, 33, a former member of the police vice squad, today was sentenced to serve 3½ to seven years in Sing Sing Prison on a conviction of perjury.

Glenn was convicted of having made a false affidavit in connection with the arrest of Betty Smith July 8, 1929. She later pleaded guilty to a vice charge and was sent to the House of Good Shepherd.

Fur-Cuff Coats

This is a fashion especially popular with young women. Misses' models have huge cuffs of light-colored wolf, kit fox, ocelot and kid galyak, contrasted with collarless necklines.

Women's models have cuffs of kit fox treated to look like silver, or cuffs formed of fitch skins.

Fox-Trimmed Coats

$59.50

Women's coats with gorgeous, set-back or horseshoe collars or double cuffs of cedar-rose or Paris blue fox. . . . Misses' coats with cuffs of cedar-rose, Paris blue or silver fox, or with adjustable detachable fox scarfs.

EIGHT STATES VOTING 4 TO 1 FOR REPEAL

Kansas Still Alone With Dry Margin But Prohibitionists Show 4th Consecutive Gain

Eight states are voting more than four to one anti-dry, while Kansas is the only one voting bone dry as over 500,000 more ballots are tabulated in this week's returns of the Literary Digest's Prohibition Poll, according to figures published in tomorrow's issue of the periodical.

Of the total of 2,576,459 ballots tallied including this week, 630,217, or 24.46 per cent, are dry and 1,946,242, or 75.54 per cent, register anti-dry sympathies.

Connecticut, Illinois, Louisiana, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Wisconsin and Wyoming quote percentages ranging from 80 to 85 per cent of their total state vote for repeal.

6 TO 1 IN TWO STATES

New York and New Jersey continue to vote nearly six to one anti-dry.

The dry vote scores a fourth consecutive gain this week, rising from 15.85 per cent of the total vote of the first week's returns to 24.46 per cent in the fifth tabulation this week.

The four states reporting initial returns in tomorrow's tabulation include Louisiana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming.

In a smaller prohibition poll conducted by the Literary Digest in 1922, the fifth week's tabulation showed a total of 617,838 ballots returned, of which 236,349 were for enforcement, 253,009 for modification and 18,500 were for repeal.

THREE FINED IN PETTING RAID

Three of the four members of the petting party on the roof of 106 East Ohio street, which indirectly resulted in serious injury to a policeman, were fined $10 each, while a fourth was discharged by Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court today.

Those fined were Anna Thomas, 30, and Winifred Baird, 32, both of 104 East Ohio street, and George Kruse, 32, of 78 Watsonia boulevard, all charged with being suspicious persons. Roy Murphy, 28, of 1925 Federal street extension, was discharged by the magistrate who said he was the only one of the four who had aided the police in their investigation.

Patrolman Thomas D. English, father of four, who fell 40 feet when a platform on which he was seeking to observe the party, preparatory to arrests, collapsed, was said to be in fair condition in the Allegheny General Hospital today.

Mystery Injuries Cause Man's Death

Mystery today veiled the death of William Lane, 50, of Spring street, Camp Hill, near Carnegie. Lane died last night in Mercy Hospital from pneumonia and a fractured skull. He was unconscious since Sunday, when he was found in Sixth street, Carnegie. County detectives believe he had been attacked.

Auto Hits Drove, Five Pigs Killed

Five pigs were killed and two injured when the auto of John Cooney, 22, of 111 North Fairmount avenue, plunged into a drove of hogs in East Ohio street shortly before 4 a. m. today. Cooney was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZE

PAULSBORO, N. J., March 18.—(INS.)—In the charred ruins of their home, the bodies of four children, burned to death in the fire which destroyed the house, were found today.

The dead were: Theresa Bell, 15; Mary, 8, her sister; Ruth, 4, another sister, and William, 8 months, a brother.

Mrs. Lillian Bell, the children's mother, was prostrated today from grief. She was in the home on Crown Point road when the flames broke out, and was burned in her unsuccessful efforts to save her children.

FIVE ACCUSED IN PLOT TO KILL UNION HEAD

Four Men, Woman Trapped In Raid After Mystery Message Reaches Police

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—An alleged murder plot against officials of a labor union was foiled last night by an eleventh hour police raid in which four men and a woman were arrested.

The plotters, police headquarters announced, had intended to kill C. E. Haury, representative of the International Union of Operating Engineers, later in the night when he left an executive meeting of the union. John Possehl, president of the organization, and Frank E. Langdon, editor of the union's journal, were to have been slain later.

Police said they obtained evidence of the attempt by listening in on conversations of the group after anonymous telephone messages to the intended victims gave the tip.

GUNMAN'S VICTIM

These union officials figured last year in another attempt which nearly cost Langdon his life. He, Possehl and Arthur M. Huddell, then president of the union, were trapped in a cafeteria by a gunman. Langdon had an eye shot out and was otherwise seriously wounded, while Huddell's pocketbook stopped a bullet at his heart. Haury was attacked in public by a woman with a horsewhip just before the first murder attempt. She accused him of keeping her husband out of work.

UNION TROUBLES

Trouble in the union, police said, was caused by alleged discrimination in the order in which employment is assigned. The union designates members available for each job as it offers.

All those arrested gave Washington addresses but one. George McSullen, 47, was said by police to come from Chicago. The others gave the names of Walter Reed, Mrs. Kay Reed, Ed Johnson and Bert Wilson Carpenter. The men all said they were engineers.

BETTER TIMES SEEN TO HELP HOSPITALS

Pennsylvania Institutions' Condition Declared Best As State Session Ends

Predicting that Pennsylvania hospitals would benefit by an improvement in business conditions during the present year, John A. McNamara, executive editor of The Modern Hospital, said hospitals generally would see an increased demand for private room service.

McNamara was the final speaker at the eleventh annual conference of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, which closed yesterday in the William Penn Hotel. John M. Smith, director of Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, was installed as president, succeeding M. H. Eichenlaub, of Western Pennsylvania Hospital, Pittsburgh, as the meeting adjourned. Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, superintendent of Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital, is president-elect. She will be installed in 1933.

Basing his prediction on a recent survey of Pennsylvania hospitals, McNamara said:

"Hospitals are in a healthier condition in Pennsylvania than in any other state. Demand for hospital service has increased and a comparatively few have found it necessary to cut wages of employes."

Paul Fesler, president of the American Hospital Association, and superintendent of the University of Minnesota Hospitals, Minneapolis, in an interview said:

"If you could see as I have the ledger accounts of many of our representative private hospitals and realize how many of them are being carried on a partial payment basis over prolonged periods of time, you would be convinced that our hospitals are liberal in their consideration of the present economic stress on patients' pocketbooks. Pittsburgh is to be congratulated upon its hospitals and the quality of service rendered by the staffs."

WOMAN WILLS SITE FOR HOME

Carrie E. S. Blackburn, of Pittsburgh, by her will probated yesterday, left a farm in Sewickley Township, Westmoreland County, to the State of Pennsylvania for reforestation and use as a home for convalescents.

Of the remainder of her $45,000 estate, she left one-twelfth each to the Salvation Army of McKeesport, the Home for Infirm and Aged Colored Women and the Home for Colored Children, both of Pittsburgh, and to Samuel P. Christian, of McKeesport, and Margaret A. Snyder, Pittsburgh, with smaller shares to others. C. A. Snyder was named executor.

The $20,000 estate of Maria W. Evans, of 5041 Glenwood avenue, was left to three children, Joseph Evans, Alice M. Bowser and Ruth M. Erkhardt, and several grandchildren.

Jury Indicts Two On Murder Charges

Charles Gagliardino, 20, of Bedford avenue, has been indicted for murder by the grand jury in connection with the killing of Francis Brennan, 36, of Washington street, January 18. Brennan was found dead in a pool room at Washington street and Bedford avenue, his skull fractured with a chair. It is alleged he was felled in a fight.

Paul Muschiek, alias Miller, was indicted for murder, it being charged he shot Edna Votilla, 35, of 4012 East General Robinson street, last February 7.

Homestead Teachers Drop Free Work Plan

The Teachers' Association of Homestead today had changed its mind on voluntarily working without salary one month as an economy move.

To avoid a pay reduction the teachers had offered to do that. The School Board pondered the proposal, questioning its legality. But the teachers removed necessity for further pondering last night when they voted, 65 to 43, against the move.

Tax Collector Held On Shortage Charge

Michael Friel, 32 River avenue, Natrona, tax collector for Harrison Township, has been indicted by the grand jury, charged with failure to make tax reports and embezzlement of $8,612. Information was made against him by county detectives after the audit of county books revealed alleged shortages in his returns for 1930 and 1931.

Pinchot Directs Road Danger Signs

HARRISBURG, March 18.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot yesterday directed that all signs warning of danger along highways be placed not less than 100 yards from the actual danger places. Several years ago all were so placed, but many have been moved nearer the danger points.

Coats Ordered Worn In Prison Offices

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—(AP.)—They're slicking up the help at Ohio Penitentiary. Office workers and trusties in the office are not to work in their shirt sleeves, the warden's office announced today.

SERUM SOUGHT IN LION'S TEETH

PERU, Ind., March 18.—(AP)—By scraping the teeth of Nero Nubian lion of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus troupe, physicians hoped today to discover the culture of germs of what they believe is a rare jungle disease from which Clyde Beatty, animal trainer, is recovering.

From the culture the physicians planned a search for a serum to combat the malady.

Nero, once hurled himself at a Bengal tiger that attacked Beatty and was credited with saving the trainer's life. Then a few months later he suddenly charged Beatty as he was being driven into his cage one day and bit the trainer's leg.

Beatty expects to be discharged from the hospital within a few days.

Lady Astor Lifts Hat to Lords To Show Wave

LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—Item showing femininity of Nancy Lady Astor:

When the members of the House of Commons were called to the House of Lords yesterday for a royal commission, they were greeted with the traditional "hats off strangers" as they reached the door.

Lady Astor, although not bound to obey because she is a woman, jerked off her hat when the men did. A friend asked her why and she replied:

"Well, look! I have just had my hair washed, waved and crimped."

BOY SENTENCED IN FATAL WRECK

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 18.—Luther Mazur, 15, of Cresson Shaft, facing a charge of murder this week in Cambria County Criminal Court, yesterday appeared before the court and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Mazur was sentenced to not less than six to 12 years in county jail.

Mazur was charged with having closed angle cocks on several coal cars of a Pennsylvania Railroad train on the night of December 9, resulting in the wrecking of 76 loaded coal cars and the death of Matthew Allison, 55, of Altoona, the brakeman.

FLYER LEAVES TRACK, 9 HURT

PRINCETON, N. J., March 18.—(INS.)—Investigation was under way today into the cause of the accident which derailed nine cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad New York-Detroit flyer, causing injuries to nine persons and jolting passengers on the train.

In some way the air connection broke, uncoupling the locomotive and tender, and the cars jolted across several tracks.

Custer Faulk, of New York, Negro cook, was scalded and flung from the dining car to the roadbed. He was at Princeton Hospital today, the most seriously injured victim.

Lions Are Cheaper And Guns, Too, At Zoo Auction

DETROIT, March 18.—(AP)—Potatoes are cheaper, tomatoes are cheaper, and so are guns, lions, elands, Siberian camels and other jungle stock at the Detroit zoo.

Attractive bargains in four-footed merchandise went on the counter at the zoo yesterday, to wit: Five lions at $150 each, two black bears at $25 each, a guaranteed gnu at $200, and a nice hungry pair of African elands for $500 per eland—with no takers.

The bottom has dropped out of the wild animal market, according to John T. Millen, zoo director. For instance, the sales resistance of prospective customers has knocked from $100 to $150 off the price of a jungle bred lion.

FINLAND LETS BIG RUM ORDER

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 18.—(AP.)—Finland has ordered approximately 225,000 bottles of "hard liquor" in preparations for April 5, when its prohibition law goes into the discard, following a popular referendum early this year.

The order includes 75,000 bottles of Scotch whisky and twice that amount of French brandy.

Under the new plan, authorized by an act of Parliament of January 30, the government is given control of liquor sources, although an intermediate company has been set up for handling the business.

Man Swallows Bullet Fired In Gun Fight

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—Bullets were flying around in one section of Chicago last night and Daniel Conway, 65, swallowed one of them.

He and his wife were walking along the street, en route to a wake, as three hoodlums in an automobile were firing pistol shots at two motorcycle patrolmen.

Suddenly Conway felt a pain in his nose, but what bothered him more was the fact that the bullet had gone into his stomach.

Physicians at a hospital said this was because he swallowed it. It came, investigation showed, from one of the hoodlums' weapons.

RADIO DOCTOR CASE APPEALED

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court will have to grapple with a new word, "aetheronics," it developed today as the commonwealth was granted an appeal from the decision of the Superior Court which set aside the conviction of J. E. Johnston, so-called East Liberty radio doctor.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who filed the appeal, an unusual legal move, coined the word in describing Johnston's alleged activities. Johnston was convicted of attempting to obtain money under false pretense October 30, 1930, but was freed by the Superior Court's action. He was alleged to have guaranteed to cure distant patients by "radio."

Bonelli's guest-artist with Leo Reisman and includes on his program the favorite Prologo from "Pagliacci" and d'Hardelot's ballad "Because."

Widespread protests which followed their withdrawal are bringing the "News Dramas" back to the air. It is reliably reported that the magazine program which won a tremendous following as a result of its vivid portrayal of current dramatic happenings will return to one of the networks in two weeks.

And incidentally, "Sherlock Holmes" enthusiasts will be interested to learn that the Conan Doyle mysteries will be replaced by a new series of Rudyard Kipling thrillers starting next Thursday on WCAE.

Announcement of the NBC Orchestral composition awards has been postponed again this time until May 1. The judges need more time to check over the deluge of 575 manuscripts.

Paul Gannon was at top form last night, and of all the St. Patrick's Day programs on the air, none excelled his Irish melodies on WCAE.

Virginia Rae Olive Palmer to you! won't come back to the microphone until she is guaranteed a certain sum . . . which is plenty. . . . Meanwhile, Frank Munn, who was Paul Oliver, is keeping busy. . . . Vincent Lopez has some startling plans in mind. . . . They'll make radio history if he goes ahead with them. . . . Those Sisters of the Skillet are still getting laughs out of their recent visit to Washington, when they cut up for President Hoover. Some of the letters they get deal with the question of whether or not the government is really practicing economy. To all queries of this type their reply is this:

"They are throwing nothing away down in Washington—even the medicine ball at the White House has a string tied to it."

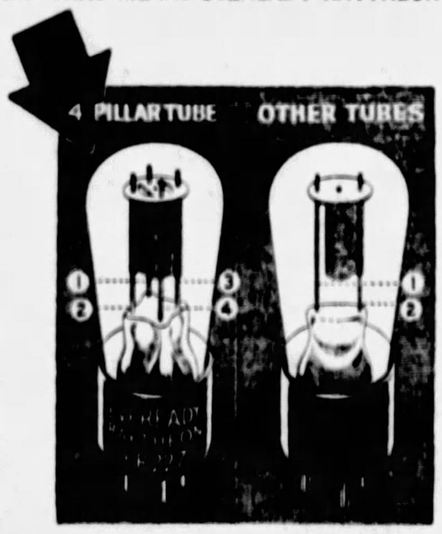
THE RADIO TECHNICIAN SAYS...
"4 PILLARS FOR ACCURACY"
...AND THAT MEANS EVEREADY RAYTHEON TUBES



The service man who keeps your set in repair knows that a tube can light up — seem to test all right — and still be the cause of faulty reception. The reason is that its elements are out of alignment . . . inaccurate!

There's one way to be sure of accurate tubes — use Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes throughout. They have four sturdy pillars to anchor their elements in place. All other tubes have only two, and are easily damaged by the jolts and vibration of handling and usage!

Either your service man or your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes.

WARNING! The market is flooded with old-type, slow-heater tubes. Eveready Raytheons are quick-heaters. Most new tubes should heat up in 10 seconds or less.

Indictment Charges Race Bet Fraud Plot

Conspiracy to defraud Walter Moorhead over an alleged horse race bet, is charged in an indictment returned by the grand jury against William J. Ahern, alias Henry Carter and Henry Hohle.

Moorhead charged that on February 25 Ahern and Hohle told him they had placed $20,000 on a horse and had won $76,000. They told him his share was $20,000, he charged, but said they had to put up $20,000 with the bookmaker as a show of good faith before they could collect the $76,000, and asked him to contribute $1,000 of this sum. He says the trick was discovered before the money was put up.

Greece Gives Ford Permit for Factory

ATHENS, March 18 — (AP) — Premier Venizelos yesterday informed representatives of Henry Ford that the government would permit Ford to establish an automobile plant at Piraeus if the employes, aside from expert mechanics, were Greek. In Greece Ford cars are known as "Fordakis."

American Women Scored as Timid Over Fashions

NEW YORK, March 18 — (AP) — When it comes to hats, American women are in terror of their husbands, Robert Dudley, millinery designer, announced. He said:

"They haven't the spirit of adventure in clothes. They are afraid to be stared at. A Parisienne doesn't mind people staring at her. She is insulted if they don't."

American husbands are notoriously conservative about their wives' clothes, Dudley believes, although not about those of other women. He said:

"It isn't unusual for a woman to report to me that her husband disapproved heartily of her new hat, but every other man who saw her in it declared it ravishing."

STATE REVOKES CAR LIGHT BAN

Motorists seeking official inspection permits for machines on which headlights have become illegal due to manufacturers failing to renew state permits no longer will have to replace the equipment, according to the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Instructions have been sent to all inspection stations by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, the club said, against enforcement of an order issued a month ago. The instructions covered the first inspection period which closes March 31.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 18 — (AP) — Benjamin Fletcher, 94, the last survivor of the men who built the ironclad Monitor which battled the Merrimac in the Civil War, died here yesterday.

'Pro' Working Way Over Teaches Golf On Ship

PORTLAND, Me., March 18 — (AP) — The American freighter City of Flint arrived yesterday with its officers and crew golf conscious—all because Peter MacCrumbie, golf pro at the Highland Meadow Country Club, Cleveland, O., signed on as a "workaway" before the ship left Dundee, Scotland. MacCrumbie's jobs were light enough to leave plenty of time to give instruction in the game to all aboard.

Fall from Window Kills Hotel Guest

NEW YORK, March 18 — (AP) — Sylvester N. Stevens, 35, head of the Hills-Stevens Company, plumbing supply dealers, was killed yesterday in a fall from a fourteenth-floor window of the Tudor Hotel. The body was found on a balcony of the second floor. He lived at the North Gate Apartments, Scarsdale, N. Y.

The men were fired upon while driving in an automobile near a mine where a strike was in progress.

The others indicted were Henry Drexler, Basil Petrolina, Newell Cumming, Nick Nosik, Albert Chess, Stuart Obenauer and Paul Dugas, all Moon Run miners. A sister of one of the slain men caused the arrest of the accused recently. Drexler had been exonerated of the shooting shortly after the occurence.

BOOM PLEASES MOTHER OF GARNER

Writes Appreciation in Note To Californian as Drive For Son Gains Strength

By JAMES ADAM
Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—From the mother of Speaker John Nance Garner today came a message expressing her appreciation to Californians for their efforts in seeking to make her son the next President of the United States.

To George Elliott, one of the organizers of the Garner-for-President movement in California, she wrote:

"I too hope to live to see him elected President."

Mrs. Garner, who resides in Detroit, communicated with Elliott in reply to a letter in which he informed her of the momentum which the Garner boom was gaining in the state. Her letter said:

"I was very glad to hear such nice remarks concerning my son.

APPRECIATES HELP

"I am sure that your friends, William Gibbs McAdoo, and others like you will be of greatest help should my son receive the Democratic nomination for President.

"Any help in any way you can be to him will be greatly appreciated. I received a great deal of pleasure from your letter."

Speaker Garner himself addressed a note to E. B. Moore, secretary of the Texas Garner-for-President Club here, thanking him for the organization's "kindly interest in my behalf." . .

The Garner movement has assumed such proportions throughout Northern and Southern California that many Democrats are predicting that the delegates pledged to the speaker will carry the state by a margin at the presidential primary on May 3.

FEAR IN ROOSEVELT CAMP

Particularly apprehensive are the forces working for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, due to the desertions from their ranks to the Garner side.

While a slate pledged to former Gov. Al Smith has been named to appear on the primary ballot, it is conceded little chance, and the real fight promises to be between the Garner and Roosevelt groups.

The San Francisco Garner Club announced a membership today of 3,000 members, including many of the leading Democrats in the city. Meanwhile local clubs are being formed in every county of the state.

Wife Wins Award, Arguing Own Case

Acting as her own attorney when Julius J. Wagner, Sewickley and Ambridge interior decorator, was called before Desertion and Non-support Court for the ninth time, Mrs. Zune Wagner yesterday was ordered paid $50 of $90 now due her. Judge R. A. Kennedy ordered payment by Monday, although Wagner pleaded he did not have sufficient income from his business to make the weekly payment of $10.

Wagner was denied a divorce last year and an appeal has been carried to Superior Court.

Rosenzweig, of McKeesport, an instructor in the department of philosophy at Ohio State University, has been granted leave of absence for research work at the Congressional Library in Washington. KIN IN BATTLE OVER MAN, 80

A legal battle for custody of an 80-year-old man was waged between his children and his wife in Common Pleas Court today.

He is Robert Dunmire, for whom the Potter Title and Trust Company recently was appointed guardian. He is said to have two trust funds: one of $9,000 and the amount of the other not disclosed.

The children, Mrs. Pearl Knight and Merel L. Dunmire of West Elizabeth, brought habeas corpus proceedings, alleging his second wife, Viola, with whom he had not lived for 22 years, enticed him away from their West Elizabeth home and induced him to go to her home in Clairton. Judge F. P. Patterson, who heard the testimony, declared:

"It looks like this old man was being shunted around from pillar to post, with none of his relatives caring what becomes of him as long as he doesn't spend his money before he dies."

Married 22 Years, Wife Asks Divorce

Married 22 years, Catherine M. Stevenson, 7140 Hermitage street, asked a divorce from Robert G. Stevenson, of the same address, charging cruelty and indignities.

Divorce suits were filed by Margaret I. Whiteside against James O. Whiteside; Martha Pattison against Lawrence T. Pattison; Ethel A. Cryder against Lloyd G. Cryder. Divorces were granted: Rachel Dearden from Harold Dearden and David Partee from Lucinda Partee.

House Wreckers Raze Wrong Home

NORFOLK, Va., March 18.—(INS)—House wreckers should be able to count at least up to 50. In a town like Norfolk, where streets are named numerically, it would eliminate confusion and embarrassment.

Consider E. S. Hargrove, who owned a 10-room residence at 1042 Forty-third street. The house disappeared and Hargrove notified police.

A mistake had been made. The boys started out to tear down a house for James McCoy at 1042 Forty-first street, but became confused in their mathematics and then pounced the first "1042" they found.

McCoy refuses to pay for the job.

HIGHLAND BANK DIVIDEND PAID

Depositors of the Highland National Bank, 6102 Penn avenue, today were receiving an initial 20 per cent dividend. The percentage amounts to $760,000 approximately, but the amount now being distributed is approximately $575,000. The difference will be paid to other depositors and creditors who prove their claims.

Checks have been received from the Comptroller of the Currency and have been made out to those who have proved their claims according to the receiver, P. O. Shennum. Those who have not proved claims are urged to do so at once.

Individual notices were mailed to depositors outside the city. Additional distribution will be made from time to time as cash becomes available, Shennum said.

W. H. STANTON, LAWYER, DIES

William H. Stanton, 58, one of the leading Negro attorneys in the country, died this morning in his home, 636 Maryland avenue. Attorney Stanton, a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, was the fourth Negro to be admitted to the Allegheny County Bar. He has been in active law practice since 1894.

Attorney William J. Herrchen announced the death of Attorney Stanton today in Common Pleas Court and Judge George V. Moore directed a minute be entered in the records and when court adjourns it would be out of respect to the memory of the attorney. His death was announced in Orphans' Court, Criminal Court and the County Court by Attorney William M. Randolph. He was a vestryman of Holy Cross Episcopal Church. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Stanton; a son, Attorney W. Wendell Stanton; two daughters, Miss Janice and Miss Louise.

Snow Removal Costs State Over $200,000

HARRISBURG, March 18.—(AP)—The State Highway Department today announced that the cost of snow removal in Pennsylvania in the March 6 blizzard amounted to $235,000.

The department engaged 3,000 men and 750 trucks and tractors in this work.

Fascist Rebel Chief Jailed in Finland

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 18.—(INS)—Lieut. A. Vuorimaa, one of the leaders of the recent Fascist revolt against the government, was arrested today. Government officers had been searching for him since the suppression of the revolt.

BEATEN BOY MAY DIE, PAIR HELD

SPOKANE, Wash., March 18.—(Universal)—A stepmother was arrested yesterday with her husband, Alfred Hesner, on a charge of beating 5-year-old Arthur Hesner, Jr., with switches and the leg of a stove so severely that he may die.

The woman, according to Deputy Prosecutor Funkhouser, gave as her reason for the beating:

"He wouldn't mind."

Mrs. Hesner admitted that after beating the child, Funkhouser said, she threw him against an iron bedstead, causing him to suffer a fractured skull. An operation was performed on the boy in an attempt to save his life.

SAVE MOTHERS, BABES IN FIRE

ROME, N. Y., March 18.—(AP)—Ten women and nine infants were removed safely from the James A. Brady Memorial Hospital here when fire broke out in the building early today.

The hospital, a two-and-a-half-story brick structure, was badly damaged. All the mothers and children were removed to the Rome City Hospital.

Aside from the excitement incident to the removal, none of the mothers or their infants was much the worse for the experience.

The fire, believed to have originated near an electric motor, spread quickly, cutting off access to the main stairway.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

"My complexion was very poor because of pimples and blackheads which covered my face and neck. I had been advised to try Resinol Soap and Ointment, but had tried so many other things without success I was disgusted with everything. However, a friend urged me to try a sample anyway. In three days' time the improvement was so great I could hardly believe it. I will always have a word of praise for Resinol." (Signed)

Lawyers Seek Western Pennsylvania Dry Poll

NEW HOPE HELD FOR $500,000 CITY RELIEF

POLITICS
Choice of Successor Delays Retirement
By MARK SHIELDS

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen of Common Pleas Court, whose resignation has been rumored for some weeks, probably would retire to private life tomorrow could political leaders of Allegheny County be assured that Gov. Pinchot would appoint as successor some one other than Assistant County Solicitor Ralph Frank.

Mr. Shields

Frank has been active in the Independent political movement for some years, and has planned many of the legal moves of the anti-organization factions, particularly with respect to protection of election returns. Because of these considerations he is understood, at the moment, to rank high in the estimation of Gov. Pinchot and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, whose authority as Pinchot leader here is unchallenged, now that the Governor has split with Senator James J. Coyne.

Frank is known to have an ambition toward the bench. He would like the appointment. But there are some persons in the Independent movement, as well as men in organized politics, who have other ideas, and other candidates.

If the Swearingen resignation is not presented to the Governor within the next few weeks it is possible there will be an alteration of the present picture, and some one other than Frank may rise in gubernatorial estimation.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay has been suggested as a logical candidate for the bench. He ran for an elective place in the county primary last year, and was defeated by a comparatively small margin, considering he had the combined opposition of the organization and was supported by a split independent strength. Lindsay has been in the forefront of the Independent movement here, but he has never been enthusiastic for Pinchot. In the primary of 1930, because of his differences from the Governor on prohibition, he leaned toward the wet candidates.

* * *

Expect Independents To Fill Vacancies

The organization leaders expect that any vacancies occurring during the Pinchot administration will be filled by an Independent, but they prefer some one not so uncompromising as Frank, an attorney who believes that organization politicians, while on the other side of the political fence, are not by nature and training second cousins to burglars.

Gov. Pinchot's split with Senator Coyne is to result in immediate and severe reprisals by the state administration against followers of the Oakland statesman who are on the state payroll. It is estimated that Coyne, through new appointments and holdovers from the administration of former Gov. John S. Fisher, has about 100 close followers drawing salary from the state.

Howard Neely, chairman of the Fourth Ward, through the influence of Coyne, is to be at once removed from his position as a special deputy attorney general in the Department of Justice. Announcement of his removal may come while this paragraph is in print. Close on the heels of such an announcement will come the news of other decapitations.

Coyne is understood some time ago to have been granted the opportunity of going along with the Pinchot ticket in the present primary. He refused, having made a deal with the Philadelphia organization and Gen. Edward Martin of the Republican State Committee.

Promptly the Governor is understood to have ordered reprisals, and the manner in which they shall be brought about probably rests in the hands of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern. The latter, in a hospital with a fractured ankle, has not lost the power of speech, and can say who is to go and who to stay.

* * *

McGovern First of All Is With Gov. Pinchot

During the last county primary, and since, there have been rumors that McGovern and Coyne were not unfriendly, despite the fact that Coyne attempted to upset McGovern's plan for controlling the county board. It has been gossiped that their thoughts ran in parallel roads on some things, and it is undenied that in the confused aftermath of the primary they worked toward the same end while there was uncertainty whether the recount would show McGovern nominated.

There has been gossip that in the present Legislative primary McGovern, unlike his colleague, Commissioner C. M. Barr, was not worried at the prospect Coyne might be re-elected Senator from the Forty-third District, and would keep hands off while Coyne and Barr fought among themselves.

All such speculations now are swept into the discard. McGovern is first of all with Pinchot, and there is to be no compromise between the Governor and those against his ticket.

The result will be wounds and scars which will not be healed in the Pinchot administration, and there will be no intermingling of Independents and organization men, as has occurred in recent political activities here.

The state elections bureau is to hold a drawing for ballot positions March 28 and 29. There will be 3,000 candidates to participate in this lottery, nearly 1,000 more than the previous high mark. The lucky men will draw first or last places in their district, first place being recognized as worth many votes through the disposition of many voters to put a cross mark after the first name they see. In such conditions it can readily be seen how confused this primary will be.

OFFICER GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Patrolman Stanley Fajerski, of 1417 Bingham street, today was found guilty of assault and battery, a charge preferred by a Negro he arrested for carrying a concealed weapon. Fajerski's attorneys said they would appeal the verdict.

John Thornton, Negro, of 100 Logan street, testified the policeman stopped him in Our alley, December 19, and finding an unloaded revolver in his pocket, beat him with his mace and took him to the Center Avenue Police Station. Later, Thornton said, he was taken to Passavant Hospital, where it was found that he had a broken rib and numerous cuts and bruises on his head.

The Negro some time ago plead guilty in Criminal Court to carrying a concealed weapon and was advised at that time by Judge James H. Gray to bring the assault and battery charge against Fajerski.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.
March 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I see where a bunch of 'em are trying to defeat the sales tax. Canada and everywhere that have tried it have found it absolutely satisfactory. The idea that a tax on something keeps anybody from buying it is a lot of "honey." They put it on gasoline all over the country, and it hasnt kept a soul at home a single night or day. You could put a dollar a gallon on and still a pedestrian couldn't cross the street with safety without armor. We are $3,000,000,000 in the hole, and will be three more next year, and not a Congressman has got the nerve to ask his voters to pay part of it. You can talk hoarding, you can talk lack of confidence, but the biggest handicap to a return of prosperity is that there is an election this fall.

Yours, WILL.

LAWYERS SEEK WIDER POLL ON DRY ACT
Plan for Referendum in Western Pennsylvania Aided by New York Group

A prohibition poll of all lawyers in Western Pennsylvania will be sought by a committee of Pittsburgh members of the bar, working in conjunction with the voluntary committee of Lawyers, Inc., of New York.

Supplementing the referendum recently taken in Allegheny County, which resulted in attorneys voting 3 to 1 for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, a circular letter is being prepared to bar associations and individual lawyers in the different western counties urging a similar canvass of sentiment.

Wells Fay is secretary of the Pittsburgh committee named on a recent visit here of Mrs. H. P. Rhudy, executive secretary of the voluntary committee of New York.

Other members of the committee are William R. Scott, Arthur M. Scully, John E. Laughlin, Simon T. Patterson, Maynard Teall and Ferdinand T. Weil.

Congressional Man Power Is Too Childish
By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Take a look at the way Congress acts when it can do something for the good of the nation.

It starts blocs, hundles, filibusters, deadlocks and walkouts. It certainly likes its daily cabal garnished with a little tasty clique.

No man will vote for a bill unless it advances him politically and socially. Down there they go to war armed with those long ivory Japanese back scratchers.

The trouble with our congressional man power is that it is too childish.

They've got the patronage system worked up to a high gloss. Any time Mississippi gets flood relief you can bet your run-down heels that Pennsylvania gets a new postoffice.

For the good a Congressman does is interred in caucus, but the bad lives on in amendments.

The boys seem to forget that the year is 1932, the subject is prosperity and the country is America.

19th Show Draws Wide Variety of Subjects

Two hundred and sixty-four photographic prints selected from more than 2,000 received from all parts of the world are to be exhibited at the nineteenth annual Pittsburgh salon of photographic art March 19 to April 17. The exhibit will hang in the galleries of the Carnegie Institute.

Variety is the keynote of this "international" show for the amateur and professional cameramen of the globe. Sleepy summer landscapes are wall companions of futuristic cubes and squares. Prints with harsh shadows and severe lines contrast soft focus and gentle lighting effects.

Pittsburgh photographers are well represented. Eight prints depicting the rivers, mills and buildings are on the walls.

One of the most striking prints in the exhibit is a tri-color carbon made by the Prince of Siam.

FEES REDUCED BY HUNGRY CLUB

Reduction of the yearly dues for Hungry Club membership was announced today. The club, which meets each Monday noon at the Fort Pitt Hotel to hear leaders in business, religion and science, hereafter will charge $2 a year for the privilege of being on the mailing list to receive weekly notices of speakers and meetings. The cost formerly was $3. The meetings are open to the public regardless of this membership.

FIGHT ON RATES PRESSED AT GREENTREE
Rally Tonight in School To Stress Faulty Laws; Two Other Meetings Set

Evils of the existing state laws regulating public utilities and the necessity of changing the set-up of the Public Service Commission will be stressed at a public protest meeting tonight against excessive rates to be held by the Greentree Advancement league.

STATE LEADERS SPEAK

The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock in the Greentree School. Speakers of the Forty-fifth Senatorial Committee of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association, which is leading the state-wide fight, will be heard. They are Chairman O. W. Heselbarth and Dr. Joseph G. Steedle. Secretary C. V. Shoup, of the Allied Boards of Trade, which has been aiding in organizing the movement in Allegheny County, also will speak.

7th WARD MEETING

The utility question will share in the program of the Seventh Ward Civic Association tonight in the Shakespeare Public School, East Liberty.

Judge Harry H. Rowand, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, Arch Lowney and Shoup will be the speakers. James Porter will preside.

Purpose of the Fair Rate Association will be explained to Lawrence County voters Sunday afternoon at the weekly People's Forum in the Ben Franklin School. Attorney John Walker, special counsel to Gov. Pinchot on utility matters, and A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, and president of the fair rate group, will be the speakers.

BARGE FIRMS WIN ON RATES

The Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington today ordered railroads to establish barge-rail routes and joint rates with the American Barge Line and the Mississippi Valley Barge Line.

This action, sought by the barge lines for more than a year, will greatly reduce the carrying charges on shipments from Pittsburgh and adjacent points to southern ports and inland towns, George Bassett, general agent of the American Barge Line Company, said here today.

The order means that the company will be able to give reduced rates from Pittsburgh and eastern and northern poitns to Cairo, Ill., Memphis, New Orleans, intermediary ports and inland towns adjacent to them.

MRS. A. F. TYLEE

Former Missionary Tells of Attack In Brazil

Mrs. A. F. Tylee, only member of a mission station in South America to survive an attack by the Nhambiquara Indians in which her husband and 2-year-old daughter were killed, is spending this week in Pittsburgh addressing the congregations of a number of Pittsburgh churches.

The attack occurred in November, 1930, near Matto Grosso, Brazil, and was provoked, Mrs. Tylee claims, by witch doctors who inflamed the natives against the missionaries.

Mrs. Tylee has been a missionary nine years. She is connected with the Inland South American Missionary Union, Inc. Her first address here was given last night at the Union Gospel Church, Waverly street, Wilkinsburg. Sunday she will speak in the Bellevue Baptist Church and the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church. On Monday she is scheduled to address the congregation of the Whiteside Memorial Bible School, Bedford avenue and Francis street.

KLINE, PHILLIPS IN EMERGENCY CONFERENCE
Action By Mayor Seen As Last Chance to Block Crisis in Welfare Work

Renewed hope for a $500,000 emergency appropriation from the city was expressed by Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, following a conference yesterday with Mayor Charles H. Kline and Controller James P. Kerr.

With County Commissioners deferring action on the proposed $10,000,000 bond issue to provide employment, the chief hope of the Emergency Association leaders now rests with the Mayor, who is able to declare an emergency.

Phillips was called into conference at the Mayor's office hastily yesterday, not having time to summon other members of his committee. He presented figures to the Mayor showing the crisis in Emergency Association finances.

EXPECTS MAYOR'S AID

He said:

"The Mayor and Controller were sympathetic. I believe the Mayor will declare the emergency if he can do it legally."

An emergency appropriation, if approved by the Mayor, will require a unanimous vote of Council. If it is impossible to get it, Phillips said efforts may be made to get the money in the form of an issue of councilmanic bonds. At City Hall it was stated the Mayor's decision will be made public Monday.

The refusal of County Commissioners to approve the $10,000,000 bond issue followed a meeting attended by many civic leaders who spoke for and against the project. Commissioner Mansfield declared that every effort should be made first to secure federal and state aid. He said:

"There are no limitations on Congress constitutionally. They have the authority to collect from those who can pay."

BARR SUGGESTS PLAN

Commissioner C. M. Barr declared that even if approved it would be impossible to estimate the projects in time to get the questions on the ballots at the April 26 primary. Barr suggests that the organizations repr

Atlantic City Fire Causes $5,000 Lo

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 18.—(INS.)—Damage estimated at $5,000 today lay in the wake of a fire which burned three buildings and for a time threatened to destroy a block of frame stores on the Boardwalk here. The fire started in the rear of a photo gallery and spread rapidly to the buildings adjoining it.

ENGLISH SPORT LIFE PAINTINGS SHOWN

Jones Collection Depicts Many Famous Horses

By PENELOPE REDD

The exhibition of English sporting paintings from the collection of Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., opens appropriately enough at Carnegie Institute on the very day the "Grand National" is to be run at Aintree, England. Pittsburgh has a parochial interest in this meet since "Glangensia," a horse owned by Richard K. Mellon, will participate.

Penelope Redd

The Jones collection includes portraits of many celebrated English horses. These paintings are as indigenous to English county life of the eighteenth century as the religious primitive paintings were to Italian

APACHE'S WIFE HEARS MURDER TESTIMONY

Sits in Court With Baby as U. S. Closes Its Case In Killing of Columbia Co-ed

International News Service.

GLOBE, Ariz., March 18.—"The white girl flirted with me. I loved her. She took a knife out of her purse. I knocked her down with a rock. Then I stabbed her in the neck."

Whether Golney (Mac) Seymour, 21-year-old Apache brave, will repeat that statement on the witness stand today was clothed in secrecy as his trial for the murder of Henrietta Schmerler, 25-year-old Columbia University co-ed, neared its close.

The United States government charged that Seymour made that statement in his written confession at the White River Apache reservation November 1 a few days after he was arrested for Miss Schmerler's murder which occurred July 18 while she and Seymour were enroute on horseback to an Indian dance.

Defense attorneys objected to introduction of the confession on the ground that it was obtained through an Indian interpreter.

PROSECUTION CLOSES

The government closed its case after presenting evidence it declared showed conclusively that Seymour killed Miss Schmerler during a love quarrel.

John Street, Department of Justice investigator, testified that Seymour made the confession voluntarily and in the presence of six witnesses.

Seymour's young wife and their baby were in court during the day's testimony.

Defense counsel contended that Miss Schmerler asked Seymour to take her to the dance and that when he arrived at her home on the afternoon of July 18, she invited him in the house "where they both drank whisky from a pint bottle until Seymour was feeling merry and generous."

Defense attorneys declared that the liquor caused Seymour to lose his emotional stability later as he and Miss Schmerler mounted one horse and started for the dance.

CUSTOMS DEFIED

Indian custom forbids an unmarried girl to ride on the same horse with a man.

En route to the dance, defense attorneys said, they consumed more liquor which Miss Schmerler had brought along.

They waded through a deep wash into a lonely ravine. Seymour said that Miss Schmerler was friendly with him, according to counsel, after which Seymour said he cried because of his unfaithfulness to his Indian squaw. He then told Miss Schmerler he would not take her to the dance, and then she drew a knife, according to Seymour's story to his lawyers.

Seymour then hit her with a rock, and, after stabbing her to death, the state charged, returned to the home of his brother-in-law, Robert Gatewood, and washed blood from his hands. Gatewood testified that Seymour had told him, "I killed a white woman."

The case may go to the jury tomorrow.

HITLER ASSAILS RAIDS

BERLIN, March 18.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader, today labeled as a "campaign maneuver" the Prussian government's action in raiding Nazi (Fascist) headquarters throughout Prussia in the greatest group of raids in recent German history.

Prussian police, on orders from government officials, who declared the Nazis were planning "civil war" and were concentrating the "brown shirt" forces to seize the government by force, began simultaneously to invade hundreds of Nazi offices in search of documentary evidence.

Hitler admitted he had authorized concentration of his army, but said it was only for protection against Reds who, he said, had killed 40 of his men and injured thousands during recent weeks.

The raids were ordered in "panic" because the incumbent Prussian government fears what the Fascists will do in the Prussian elections in May, Hitler charged.

Police Radio Man Hears of Own Home Robbery

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—Policeman Stanley Cappell's radio reception was good, but the story that came in over the air was the worst he has heard in a long time.

Policeman Cappell, who is chief operator of Chicago's North Side Police Radio Station, was listening in last night when he heard the following message from the Detective Bureau broadcast:

"Police squad so and so go to 6419 Newgard avenue. Burglars have looted a house there."

Cappell hurried to the address to confirm his worst fears. It was his home and the burglars took about $10,000 worth of valuables.

VICTIM BARES RUM SHANGHAI

BALTIMORE, March 18.—(INS.)—The days of yore when men were shanghaied along Pratt and Light streets and forced to work on freighters and oyster boats were recalled today.

William J. Riley, 28, an insurance collector, in explaining his disappearance February 28, told police:

"I was shanghaied by rum-runners."

He said a man whom he had given a lift in his automobile slugged him, bound and blindfolded him and took him aboard a boat where he worked 14 days in the hold, piling cases of liquor.

The boat docked at Petersburg, Va., Wednesday and he was placed ashore.

PARLEY CALLED ON GAS RATES

HARRISBURG, March 18.—(AP.)—A preliminary conference on the natural gas rate complaint against the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company has been arranged by the Public Service Commission for next Tuesday.

The case involves the complaints of the City of Williamsport and nine associated boroughs and individuals, attacking as unjust, unreasonable and excessive the the tariff schedule made effective in the Williamsport area November 1, 1931.

Commissioners Samuel Walker and Frederick P. Gruenberg will preside at the conference, the object of which will be to clarify the issues and simplify procedure. The question of consolidating the 10 complaints into a single action is slated for discussion and the date of the initial hearing will probably be set.

The case involves the introduction of natural gas into Central and Eastern Pennsylvania with the form of the tariff including a measuring unit new to Pennsylvania. The rates, which represent reductions from the artificial gas rates previously in effect in the territory are computed on the basis of therms of heat units rather than cubic footage.

2 Brothers Fined In Theater Row

Accused of calling ushers at the Stanley Theater improper names, two brothers, Emil and Edward Dinucci, of 7153 Lemington avenue, were fined $2 each in Central Police Court today. They were arrested in the theater yesterday after an altercation, police testified.

Dry Agents Seize Fixtures in Raid

Prohibition agents raided a club on the second floor of 644 Penn avenue today and reported seizing a barrel of beer and a large amount of whisky and gin. The bar, tables, chairs, glasses and other fixtures were removed. A man giving his name as Charles L. Krutz, 52, was arrested.

Thomas O'Malley, 35, of Grandview avenue, arrested on a charge of being drunk, with a black eye, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg:

"I hankered for an old-fashioned St. Patrick's day celebration."

"Five days in jail to get your eye doctored up."

SULLIVAN SUIT ON 'DOUBLE' ARGUED

Congressman Attempts to Prove Forgeries to Bar Candidate of Same Name

HARRISBURG, March 18.—Employes of the Pittsburgh Registration Commission were called today before the Dauphin County Court by counsel for Congressman Patrick J. Sullivan in an effort to prove that 76 signatures to the nominating petition of Patrick Joseph Sullivan were forgeries.

Patrick Joseph Sullivan, a carpenter, has filed nominations with the State Election Bureau as a candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress from the Thirty-second District. Congressman Sullivan is a candidate for renomination in the same district.

James McArdle, one of the attorneys for Congressman Sullivan, told the court it was difficult to locate Patrick Joseph Sullivan to serve the papers on him.

CLERK CALLED

Bernard Lenon, a clerk for the Registration Commission, was called as a handwriting expert to prove that many signers to the carpenter's petitions were forgeries.

Council for Patrick Joseph Sullivan objected to Lenon's testimony on the ground that he was not a competent handwriting expert. The court allowed Lenon to give his testimony, subject to the objections of the other side.

Neither Sullivan was in court for the hearing. Congressman Sullivan was detained in Washington and Patrick Joseph Sullivan, the carpenter, was reported ill in Pittsburgh.

1,236 SIGNATURES

The nominating petition filed by the carpenter with the election bureau contained 236 signatures. Counsel for the Congressman hoped to prove that 76 of the names were forgeries. If the court sustains their claim there will not be sufficient number of signers remaining on the petition of Patrick Joseph Sullivan to permit his name to appear on the April primary ballot.

The registration books of the Ninth and Eleventh wards of the city of Pittsburgh were brought into court by S. J. Sheridan, another employe of the Registration Commission.

Counsel for Patrick Joseph Sullivan included Carl V. Compton, of Harrisburg, Benjamin Steinberg and Robert Averach, both of Pittsburgh.

PINCHOT URGES CHANGES IN COAL BILL

Declines to Attend Senate Hearing, but Offers Views For Industry's Recovery

HARRISBURG, March 18.—(AP.)—In a letter to United States Senator H. D. Hatfield, Gov. Pinchot today declined his invitation to testify before the Senate subcommittee considering the bituminous coal commission bill and made several suggestions for amendments of the measure. Pinchot wrote:

"It is obvious that no single state can find its way out of the present trouble by itself. In view of the large number of bituminous states, I suggest the possibility of increasing the membership of the proposed bituminous coal commission from five to seven. This would permit, I believe, a more representative distribution of the membership of the commission, which should, of course, include representatives of labor as well as capital."

EXTEND POWERS

The Governor also suggested a further definition of the purposes of the commission to include rehabilitation of the soft coal industry so as to secure fair wages to labor and a fair return to capital, conservation of bituminous coal as a natural resource, promotion of efficiency and safety in the coal mining industry, protection of miners in the right to work and maintenance of satisfactory relations between miners and operators.

PRICE CLAUSE VAGUE

Pinchot said it is clear that the intention of the bill is to give the commission the right to control prices, but asserted there is no clear-cut provision to that effect.

He expressed the hope that approval of the bill would alleviate conditions in the soft coal fields. Nothing could be worse, he said, than the condition of most of the miners in Western Pennsylvania, a condition, which, he said, he understood, extends to all bituminous coal fields.

Trapped in Deep River, Escapes From Truck

MARSHALL, Mo., March 18. (AP.)—O. A. Baker believes in keeping cool when a truck slips off a Missouri River barge and plunges with the driver into 45 feet of icy water. He did.

It happened at Cambridge Bend, where the government has an improvement project. Pressure of the current blocked one door of the cab.

He took a deep breath, shed his overcoat, rolled down the window of the downstream side and floated out. It was a long way up. Two barges complicated matters. He swam under them.

Fellow workmen dragged him aboard. Baker changed clothing then and helped retrieve the sunken truck.

HIROHITO DINES ENVOY FORBES

TOKIO, March 18.—(AP.)—Emperor Hirohito and the Empress were hosts at a farewell luncheon today to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes, who is retiring and will sail for the United States from Yokohama March 22.

After the luncheon the Emperor and the Ambassador talked for an unusually long time on international and political matters through an interpreter. The Emperor expressed his appreciation of the difficulties of the Ambassador's position during the Sino-Japanese conflict and complimented him on exercising tact and understanding in fulfilling his duties.

The Ambassador told His Majesty the United States government did not attempt to judge which of the parties in the conflict was right or wrong, but merely sought to maintain peace in the Orient.

THUG HOLDS UP GIRL CLERK IN CANDY SHOP

Downtown Store Looted As Score Stand Outside; Grocery Bandits Routed

A dapper youth who held up Miss Louanna Guthrie, petite blonde clerk in the Fanny Farmer candy shop, 605 Wood street, and looted the cash register of $25 last night, was being sought by police today.

Miss Guthrie, who lives at 2656 Center avenue, Ingram, was alone in the store when the thug entered and inquired about the price of candy. Warning against outcry, he walked behind the counter and rifled the register.

A score of persons, waiting for street cars in front of the shop, were unaware of the holdup.

When two Negro bandits attempted to hold up George Haviser in his grocery at 1638 Forbes street last night Haviser shouted:

"Get out of here or I'll call police!"

The thugs fled without loot, Haviser told police.

Andrew Campbell, of 19 Wooster street, was struck on the head by an armed Negro at Larimer avenue and Carver street last night. The Negro, about to rob Campbell, fled when another pedestrian approached. Campbell was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

NEW HOPE HELD FOR RELIEF

sented at the meeting form a program of legislation which could be taken to Gov. Pinchot at Harrisburg.

Barr declared the matter should be taken out of politics. He suggested that a plan backed by business men and civic organizations would achieve that end.

J. R. Brady, secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, declared the realtors are willing to draw up a program of state legislation.

DEMANDS RELIEF ACTION

Mrs. J. O. Miller, leader in the League of Women Voters, spoke against bond issues, but demanded some other form of relief action.

Other speakers against the bond issues were Thomas Liggett, John Dimling, E. F. Englehard, Jr., and R. T. Mackintosh.

The opening campaign of the Harris plan has been delayed two days until March 24, when the advance guard will seek subscriptions from leaders of industry and corporations. New appointments of leaders in the Harris campaign include Thomas Fitzgerald, D. M. Craig, William B. Rodgers, Alex P. Lindsay and Leo G. Griffith.

RENEWS CHARGE ON DEATHBED

CHICAGO, March 18.—(INS.)—Renewal of charges against Mrs. Arnold H. Kegel accusing her of poisoning her former servant, Mrs. Mary Ryan, was contemplated by the state's attorney's office today as the result of a statement made by Mrs. Ryan from her sickbed.

Accorded but a few hours more to live, the former servant woman last night summoned two assistant state's attorneys and a priest to her bedside. She made a statement reiterating her accusation that Mrs. Kegel had poisoned her to prevent the former maid from testifying at the forthcoming Kegel divorce trial.

Dr. Arnold Kegel, formerly Chicago health commissioner, is suing for divorce, charging his wife attempted to poison him.

2 Officials Freed In Election Cases

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 18.—Michael J. Sewak, Burgess of Franklin Borough, was acquitted by direction of the court on a charge of violating the election laws. A similar charge against Alderman Leo C. Kleinmeyer, of Johnstown, was nolle prossed. Both officials were charged with complicity in the tampering with ballots during the general election November 3.

SAVE 'SQUEALER' FROM CHAIR

OSSINING, N. Y., March 18.—A scant three hours before he was to have died in Sing Sing's electric chair last night, Peter Sardini, 28, forsook the underworld's code of silence to win two weeks more of life.

He "talked" of a half dozen unsolved murders with such convincing words that three assistant district attorneys from New York flashed the word to Albany and a few minutes later, Samuel N. Rosenman, Gov. Roosevelt's counsel, telephoned the order for a 14-day reprieve.

Sardini's questioners would say nothing, but it was learned the condemned man had given the full names or nicknames of the perpetrators of one slaying in Brooklyn, three in Manhattan, one in the Bronx and one in Highland Falls, N. Y.

Sardini and Peter Matera were sentenced to die for the slaying of Rocco Zappo during a holdup of a store in Brooklyn on April 12, 1931. Matera received a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment from Gov. Roosevelt yesterday.

14 Peasants Drown In Dniester River

BUCHAREST, March 18.—(AP.)—Reports from the border town of Lokianka today said 14 Ukrainian peasants were drowned in an attempt to cross the Dniester River into Rumania. Thirty-two of the peasants reached the middle of the river when the ice broke. Eighteen of them reached the Rumanian shore.

monastic life of the fourteenth century.

The canvases are an expression of a phase of English life that has been almost a religion. As early as the ninth century, hunting was essential to the education of the young nobleman. By the time of the first Prince of Wales, later Edward II, in the fourteenth century, hunting was a popular sport. This prince's huntsman, Twici, gave instructions for fox hunting, including "hallooings and other ceremonies."

The paintings in the Jones collection date from about the time that fox hunting became an organized sport when the old independent packs of "trencher hounds" were replaced by better bred dogs concentrated in "subscription packs."

In the paintings of Henry Alken (1784-1851) the public will find the popular conception of hunting depicted. Alken's paintings have become the archetype of sporting pictures through reproduction and imitation.

The Alken canvases include a series of four showing: "The meet" at the fixture; "the finding of the scent"; "full cry" when the pack acknowledges the scent by throwing their tongues freely, and "the death" of the fox with the whoo whoop of the death cry.

Regarding these paintings apart from their sporting import, a Philistine will find pleasure in the earlier painters, some of whom pre-date Hogarth, generally regarded as the first native British painter deserving notice.

John Wooton (1678-1765) with "Hunter and Green." Thomas Spencer (1700-1763) with "Old Snake," and James Seymour (1702-1752) with "Flying Childers" rejoice one as does the nursery rhyme, "Here come three dukes a-riding."

George Stubbs (1724-1806) in "Sweet William" has a splendid black horse commanding a tranquil landscape.

John Fernley (1781-1860), a painter who was born in the hunting country of Leicestershire, shows in his work a conscious correctness probably developed from the reverence which the precise etiquet of hunting inspired in him.

In all of the paintings is a genuine love of the English countryside and of the sporting life. The exhibition continues through May 31.

E. J. 'Ed' Moriarity, 'Broadway Sage' Ill

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 18.—(INS.)—Edward J. (Ed) Moriarity, known to every Yale man for nearly a half century as "the sage of Broadway," was critically ill at a hospital today. Moriarity collapsed last night at the speakers' table at the fifty-fourth annual banquet of the Knights of St. Patrick. He was reported as "very weak" today.

26 FISHERMEN ON FLOE SAVED

OSHKOSH, Wis., March 18.—(AP.)—Twenty-six fishermen were rescued last night from an ice floe adrift on Lake Winnebago, near here, and carrying with it 14 stranded automobiles and trucks.

After five hours of laborious paddling in a rowboat, Byron Gunz, constable of the town of Black Wolf, brought the last of the marooned men ashore. Several of them suffered from exposure and all were brought to their homes here.

There were about 40 men on the huge piece of ice when it broke loose and began its journey onto the lake. Some of them were able to leap to safety before the crack became too wide. Others were reported to have jumped to smaller chunks of ice and paddled themselves to shore. The breakup occurred about a mile from the shoreline.

Dorothy Knapp Wins Only Praise In Court Suit

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—A Supreme Court justice ruled against Dorothy Knapp's $500,000 damage suit for losing her part in Earl Carroll's "Fioretta" yesterday, but tempered his decision by ruling strongly in personal favor of Dorothy.

Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer declared:

"The plaintiff is fair of face, form and figure. Although so advertised and exploited, she does not give an impression of sophistication or calculating worldliness, but that of education, culture and refinement."

The court's opinion, nevertheless, was that Miss Knapp, winner of a national beauty contest in 1923, probably "was not equal to singing the theme song or dancing as the heroine's part was originally cast."

BULLETS RIDDLE BAKERY TRUCK

Police today were investigating the riddling with machine gun bullets of the bakery truck driven by Paul Carrigan, of 31 Dewey street, Pittsburgh, while parked in Fifth avenue, New Kensington, yesterday.

Carrigan, unable to assign a motive for the shooting, told police he parked his truck and entered a restaurant. He heard the rapid fire of a machine gun, he said, and ran to the street to find the truck body and dashboard riddled with bullets, apparently fired from a passing automobile.

MEIER TO PLAY CHRISTUS ROLE

Familiar scenes will greet Josef Meier, German portrayer of the Christus, when he walks upon the Syria Mosque stage Monday night for the opening performance of the Passion Play, which will be presented there for a two-week period. Meier appeared on the same stage in November, 1930, in a German production as John, the Beloved.

This time he will be seen as the Christus, and the play will be given in English. This week he and his large cast of players are presenting their play at New Castle. There are 33 speaking parts in the play. During the scene of the triumphal entry into Jerusalem there will be 125 persons on the stage.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Of course, I haven't much to do, so I am directed by some readers to go search the Satevepost files for June 13th—and turn to page 26—and there discover something terribly interesting about the Lindbergh baby. It is good to see one night club entice the crowds again. The Folies Bergere—less than a week old—indicates that there still is money to be spent. I stayed away from the so-called gay spots because they were so depressing. The former Richman Rendezvous appears to have caught on—but Malin has gone tall millinery—and isn't being amusing. However, the lassies are good-looking, and Sheila Barrett is a clever mimic—and the stay-up-late have a spot to loiter until dawn again. The dreamy-tempoed music crews are clicking heavily—and Wayne King's and Jack Denny's appear to have caught the fancy of the crowds. You get such a headache in the salons hearing the brassy bandsmen. And the subdued lighting is easier on the orbs—but too few of the impresarios running the taverns appear to care. And then they sit and fret and wonder what to do to attract trade. Entertainers rarely entice the towners—it is the atmosphere. The Abbey was the last of those spots. More romances began and faded there than in any dive in New York. Wonder when those fiction and flicker writers will think up a theme about Broadway night-life that will appeal? They've been using the same plot too long now.

It will be interesting watching those forthcoming movies about the colourning craft. Blessed Event, as anyone will argue, is merely a prologue.

And so many of us thought that Billy Guard of the Metropolitan Opera House would leave a fortune. So little Goldie of the Ziegfeld offices is going to become a bride. Marriage will hardly prove as exciting as her duties for Zig—her daily routine of pleasing all those stage-door Jonathans—and Ziegfeld's erratic static—and all the other behind happenings that come up between 9 and 5—not forgetting the temperaments of the players.

Funny, too—so few of the gals in the Ziegfeld choir have Goldie's charm, poise, manner and grace. Lucky lad, her groom.

Well, after all these months all of us will have to switch the pronunciation. Her name isn't Greeta Garbo, but Greeta Garbo—because in Sweden they pronounce it that way. But it is Greeta and not Greeta Nissen. Because Norway is like that. This routine of being exact is getting on my nerves. I wish it were 1933 already. Wonder what that year holds?

Wonder if that leading lady feels any better? Since she arranged for that pretty girl's dismissal. When the show was in the tryout towns the pretty person's histrionics garnered much praise from the oracles. And the leading lady, as she is misnamed, put the skids on her. Nice person—her luck can't be good. I wondered what had become of Daddy Browning. Now he is going in for charity in a bigger way. He will give money prizes at an orphanage on April 23—and the prettiest girls will be rewarded with something from his pocketbook. He has tried hard to live down things. That economy drive going on at the Paramount-Publix headquarters is getting funnier. They've taken out all the French phones! Goodness!

And now a new magazine for lawyers—due April Fools Day. A new idea, they assert, in law publications—avoiding the scholasticism of the various law reviews and the formality of the law journals. Law is so solemn—perhaps this new effort will succeed by being as humorous as some of the statutes.

Interesting stuff the Golden Book affords. "Boners of Great Men" it is christened. As for example: Lloyd George at the Peace Conference of 1919 officially suggested that Italy make up for certain commercial losses by increasing her banana crop. Yes, Italy has no bananas. And George Meredith, who was a reader for the publishers, Chapman & Hall, when George B. Shaw submitted his first book, rejected it with an emphatic "No!"

Jack Raffael, the actor, has a neat trick for a bookplate. It reads "Bookkeeping Taught in Three Words—Never Lend Them!"

That lad in his underwear posing for a Keep Healthy ad isn't Gus Van of the one-time renowned Van & Schenck team? Good to hear that Wells Hawks is returning to the Street after those long months of illness. He meant so much to Broadway—the Circus, the Hippodrome—Coney Island and show business. Wonder how many of the current parade he'll know—and how many of them will know Wells? He was such a help to me when paragraphs were difficult to collect. Nothing ever dies in New York—it merely changes. That beautiful and famous nude that was called "Cleopatra," which hung for 15 years in Churchill's—now a chop suey place. An unknown artist named Deborah painted it. Then with the arrival of prohibition "Cleo" disappeared. And recently she came back to life still as fresh and seductive as she was 15 years ago. And she graces the Salon Des Arts on 52nd street, three blocks from her former position of glory. What a gorgeous creature she is to this Anthony.

Wish I could locate that Floyd Crosby chap for them. I mean for the American Academy of Motion Picture Artists—which awarded him a medal. A medal for turning out the best photography on a flicker of last season—"Tabu." He's practically unknown. Yet he's the ace hocus-focuser of them all.

Those movie theater fronts still are gay. Like the theater starring La Guinan this week in Newark. The combination vaudeville and flicker show billing in the lights states: "Texas Guinan—Law and Order." Still Mayor Curley, of Boston, paid her great tribute at the Palace the other night. When he said before the assemblage: "She is not an offender against the law, as so many have been deceived into believing." Quoteo, quoteo.

Wonder if Morton Downey did it for a gag? He probably didn't, but it looked so funny in printer's ink. When Downey, from Chicago, dedicated an air show to his wife, Barbara, in Miami Beach. And the first number that Morton canaried was "Miami Shores"—followed by "Auf Wiedersehen, My Dear" and "The Thrill Is Gone." I like that observation of Mayor Walker's. His candor in response to the query of a scribe, who asked how in the world he ever thought up that snapper that squelched his tormentors. He said that it was too much of a headache dodging matters, and now he no longer has a headache. That line of yours: "I'll match my private life with any man's" certainly was a stinger!

"Yes, perhaps," Jimmy said, "a decent man wouldn't dignify it with an answer, and a scoundrel, who had any conscience—couldn't afford to!" Landor thought three things are requisite on occasion—To speak like an honest man, to act like a dishonest one—and to be indifferent which you are called.

THE THEATER -:- Keeping in Touch With Stage and Screen -:- HOLLYWOOD

Child Actor First in Cast

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 18. Little Dickie Moore, one of the half dozen child actors I've ever liked, has been signed to play in Marlene Dietrich's new picture for Paramount.

As a further distinction, he is the first member of the supporting cast to be selected by Director Josef von Sternberg.

The new Dietrich story, her first with an American setting, will not go into production for about three weeks. Jules Furthman and S. K. Lauren are preparing the screen treatment for Furthman's original story.

Marlene Dietrich

Here's an interesting bit of news. In this picture Miss Dietrich will discard her mysterious languor and return to the manner of "The Blue Angel." If you recall, she was much more animated in those days. Josef Von Sternberg ran off several reels of the old film for me, and it brought back a Dietrich very different from the inscrutable heroine of "Morocco." If "The Blue Angel" had been shown before the Hollywood-made film, the Garbo comparison would never have been made.

GRAND GESTURE:

Talk drifted the other evening to Harry Lauder.

Wilson Mizner, that human mine of anecdotes, recalled the time when the Scotch singer was stopping at a famous New York hotel.

Because of Lauder's prominence, all the attendants had given him superb service. Finally, he was ready to leave.

Walking down the line of expectant servants, Lauder gave each of them a modest photograph of himself.

"There, now," he said, "when I come back I'll autograph them."

HERE'S GOSSIP

Edmund Lowe is back in town—arrived on a late train and started his Columbia picture the next morning. It's "Criminal Court," and Irving Cummings, director of many of Eddie's pictures at Fox, is at the megaphone. Eddie, by the way, plans to raise fine dogs. He'll call his establishment the Malibu Kennels. First occupant is a knotted-hair Sealyham fox terrier, said to be the first in this country. . . Noel Coward created a sensation in the Paramount lunchroom. Tallulah Bankhead rushed across the room and threw her arms around his neck. Soon cameras were clicking, as Maurice Chevalier, Groucho Marx and several other stars posed with the English playwright. . . Cecil Beaton, the English camera artist, is back in Hollywood. He's anxious to take pictures of Marlene Dietrich. . . Oliver Garver, Paramount publicity man, has resigned to go with National Screen Service, which makes those trailers you see on the screen. Winfield Sheehan and Sol Wurtzel are the only two executives on the Fox lot whose telephone numbers are not listed in the confidential studio directory. But both of them are in the Los Angeles phone book.

Edmund Lowe

Ambassador!

Walter (Dare) Wahl, billed as the Ambassador of Humor, tops the stage revue, "Impressions of 1932," opening in the Penn today.

Plays and Players

—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS—

Because of the large mail-order demand for tickets for George White's "Scandals," and the impossibility of holding the show in the Alvin for two weeks, it has been decided to give four matinees when the revue is presented in the Sixth street house Easter week, opening Monday, March 28. They all be given Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" is booked for the week of April 4. The box office sale of seats for "Scandals" will open Monday morning.

A couple seasons back critics of New York were puzzled as to whether Hope Williams was a real honest-to-goodness actress or just a self-possessed young woman being herself on the stage. She was so natural in "Paris Bound," in which she made her Broadway debut, that the author, Philip Barry, wrote "Holiday" expressly for her, and the piece enjoyed a long run. We have not seen Miss Williams on the local stage, but will have that opportunity next week when she will come to the Nixon in Bernard Shaw's "Too True To Be Good," in which she is co-featured with Beatrice Lillie.

This year's play of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club will be given in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization. It is a musical thing, called "The Silver Domino," and it will be presented in the Nixon the week of April 18. More than 100 students of Pitt will be named in the roster of principals and chorus, who will indulge in a jaunt around the world.

Sea Tragedy In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Another epic of the sea, the sinking of the ill-fated steam collier Bardeleben is pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, being seen in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. It is one of the most thrilling sea pictures ever brought to the screen. For four days the Bardeleben ran amuck in the stormy seas pursued first by the liner Adriatic, then by the freighter Langanbank and by the Coast Guard cutter Ossippe. It was from the deck of the latter that these thrilling pictures were made. The crew of 34 men was taken off the sinking collier by the crew of the Langanbank. The final views made just before dusk show the stricken vessel about to sink stern first. There is a vivid description of the tragedy by the Globe Trotter.

FLY OVER MOUNTAINS

United States Navy airmen attached to the Pacific fleet are shown flying over the craters of the mountains of Maui and there are views of the awe-inspiring maw of the craters taken from one of the scouting planes. More than a score of planes are first shown flying over the battleships lying peacefully in the harbor. At an altitude of 10,000 feet they soar over the island volcanos, skimming the peaks while the great craters yawn below them.

From England come extremely thrilling pictures of the running of the National Hunt Steeplechase at Cheltenham. Thirty-two horses start, but only 10 finish as the grueling race and hazardous jumps take their toll. Time after time horse and rider are seen rolling over and over as they fail to negotiate the jumps. Robin-a-Tiptoe, an Irish horse, wins.

SOLDIERS AND PRESIDENTS

With the thermometer registering five below zero, artillerymen of the 1st Battalion, 7th Regiment, maneuver in the snow at the Madison Barracks, New York. In one exciting scene a gun carriage skids and overturns, burying the soldiers in the snow.

Huge demonstrations attend the presidential election in Berlin. Great crowds gather in the streets and squares listening to the orators and singing patriotic hymns. Meanwhile President Hindenburg is shown reviewing the Berlin massed guards.

Child prodigies in a Berlin dancing school show amazing skill as they whirl around on their toes.

The last of the great cypress forests in Louisiana swamps are shown giving way to the axes of the woodsmen. Most of the work is done in kneedeep water and the trees present remarkable pictures as they crash down with mighty splashes.

Bills Unpaid, May Cut Water Supply

MEXICO CITY, March 18.—(AP)—Dispatches from Ciudad Juarez said that the border city would be without light and water after today unless the city council pays 118,000 pesos on debts claimed by El Paso, Tex., utility companies.

Juarez authorities have declared they have no intention of paying the bills, and if the services are cut off, the city will cancel concessions, build its own light plant and dig a well for water supply.

Comedian

Sammy Cohen, comedian, who won his first popularity in the film, "What Price Glory," tops Dick Powell's new stage show, opening today in the Stanley.

FRENCH REFUSE WOMEN VOTE

PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies turned thumbs down last night on woman suffrage, less than a month after it had voted overwhelmingly for it. By a vote of 299 to 127 the Chamber eliminated an equal suffrage provision from the electoral reform bill, as well as two other amendments.

One amendment stricken out would have dispensed with a second ballot in elections where no clear majority was obtained on the first. The other would have made voting compulsory for all those who held a franchise.

It was the passage of the electoral reform bill with its provision for woman suffrage that helped precipitate the crisis which led to the fall of Premier Laval's cabinet recently. The Senate turned Laval out of office soon after the Chamber had passed the measure.

The Playboy Reforms in Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Two Kinds of Women," based on the Robert E. Sherwood play, "This Is New York," came into the Fulton yesterday. It might just as well be called "The Playboy's Reformation," or "The Senator's Daughter," or "Out the Window," or "The Voice on the Air," or "Ten Night Clubs in One Night," or—but what's the use? No matter what the title, and all things considered, it never gets above fair entertainment.

Irving Pichel, former Pittsburgher, as a Senator from the West, who comes to New York to tell the Big Town what he thinks of it—and he doesn't think much—gives a portrayal that is about the only sincere thing in the film, except, perhaps, the reporter bit contributed by Stuart Erwin.

Miriam Hopkins, who is supposed to be such a good girl, as the Senator's daughter, has difficulty in making her character ring true, after the script, in the very beginning, permits her to run all around New York until 5 a. m. with Playboy Phillips Holmes the first time she meets him.

Mr. Holmes explains this incident as "love at first sight," but the girl says it would be "impertinence" out in her home town. Anyway, she likes this "impertinence" so much that she stands by Mr. Holmes through thick and thin, even when she finds he has a wife he married after one of those gin parties. And much of the story has to do with his attempt to get rid of the wife so he can wed the Senator's daughter.

The large supporting cast includes Wynn Gibson, who is "just a broken doll," and Josephine Dunn, a gay lady, embalmed into Egyptian mummy likeness by gin, which in polite circles is sometimes referred to as Blue Ruin.

Newcomer Gets Role In 'Sky Bride'

Randolph Scott, newcomer to the films from Virginia, will have his first screen role in "Sky Bride" with Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Virginia Bruce, Robert Coogan and Charles Starrett, under the direction of Stephen R. Roberts. The Rev. Neal Dodd, pastor of Hollywood's Little Church Around the Corner, will act as technical director of "Sky Bride."

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"HERE IS a new racket for you," writes C. F. G. "About two weeks ago a basketball game was played between a team from a motor car company and another outfit from a bank. The contest took place at one of the local armories here in New York City.

"The team representing the motor car company filed into its dressing room; the players were met at the door of the room by a smartly dressed young man, who passed each of the players an envelope. He explained very cheerfully that it was the custom of the custodian of the armory to care for the personal cash and valuables of the players during the progress of the game.

"The young man was most gracious about it.

"'You see,' he asserted pleasantly, 'unless this is done, the custodian cannot be held responsible in any way for any losses suffered by the players during the progress of the game.'

"The players were naturally appreciative, and they followed the young man's advice completely. They wrote their names on their respective envelopes and followed his warning to seal them carefully. The genial chap then placed all the envelopes in a brief case and departed.

"Not only did he depart, of course, but he stayed departed. When the players tried to find him after the game, he had vanished into parts unknown. And to date no trace of him has been found.

"Only one thing puzzles me, Mr. Hellinger. The racket was worked only on the motor car people. Why didn't the young man do the same thing to the bank employes?"

Conditions being what they are, he probably didn't want to waste the time . . .

* * *

"I SUPPOSE it would be just as well to let the matter drop," writes Fred Hoffman, of Brooklyn, "but I really think I have a new angle on that theater fire story. See how you explain this.

"You stated that the party was very wild on the previous night and that the office force needed the following day off in order to recuperate. How then did it happen that the executive, who wasn't as young as his workers, was able to come in for work the next day?"

Oh, come now, Mr. Hoffman. That's too simple. You don't think he'd gone home to his wife after all those drinks, do you? He slept in the office that night—and there he was the next day!

* * *

"IT'S A STORY they tell out here," writes Henri D., of Davenport, Ia. "I mean the one about the good-looking young chap who visited the local showrooms of what I am pleased to term the Fordillac automobile agency. He stood around and admired the beautiful Fordillac but he had a sad air about him.

"'You see,' he told the salesman, 'my father is going to get a new car and I want a Fordillac. But he's set on a Packlet.'

"The salesman went into action immediately. Here was a sweet buyer for these brittle times. Wouldn't the young gentleman like a demonstration? Yes, but it wouldn't do any good. Aw, take one anyway. He did, and he went daffy about the car. But, after all, papa was the buyer and he was going to get a Packlet.

* * *

"'Listen,' begged the agent, 'you just take this car home and show it to your dad. It's a little unusual, but I'll string along with you. That's all I ask. Just let dad ride in it.'

"'Never,' replied the boy. 'He'd be as mad as a hornet. You don't know him like I do. But gee, I wish he'd buy this car.'

"A couple of days later the boy returned. Again he was urged to take the car and let his father see it. The youth kept shaking his head, but the agent was so insistent that the young man finally gave in.

"'I know I'll get the devil for this,' he kept repeating. 'I know it. But as long as you insist, I'll do it.'

"And off he drove in the car...

"Night falls. No car. Morning comes. No car. Panic at the Fordillac agency. What to do? Where to look? How to find out what happened?

"Some two weeks later came a long distance call. A familiar voice spoke pleasantly to the agent.

"'You remember you begged me to take that Fordillac and show it to my father,' it said, 'Well, here I am in New York, where father lives—and what do you think? He doesn't like it!'"

The Pittsburgh Madrigal Singers gave their first annual concert in Carnegie Music Hall last night under the direction of Mrs. James Stephen Martin and assisted by Arthur Anderson, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mr. Lissfelt

The concert was one of the most novel presentations of madrigal choruses, the singers appearing in seventeenth century costuming in a delicately lighted garden setting.

Mrs. Martin is herewith giving us music of an age we are likely to forget, and music which comes to us as a beacon once again after the wanderings of modern writers in the realms of experimental gloom. Her singers are well schooled and have, best of all things, a sense of the ensemble. They grew somewhat weary before the program was finished, a good sign that they must never make their songs too numerous.

Arthur Anderson returns to us after several years of opera experience in Italy. In that time he has developed a beautiful singing organ which began as a rich natural baritone. His style has acquired breadth and ease, marked also by exquisite mezza voce and legato, in short a most reliable bel canto.

He gave a group of old Italian airs and in the second part of the program the prologue from Boito's "Mefistofele" assisted by the chorus. In his dramatic scenes he displayed a restraint which proves how well he understands the value of saving voice, and allowing pure singing to project his role.

That restraint may be taken too far; on the operatic stage his interpretation will soon display an abandon which ought to make him one of our outstanding American singers.

Earl Mitchell and Martha Meyers Murdoch played accompaniments.

Quickest Way to end COLDS

A hot mustard foot bath will do more for a cold than all the drugs in the world—but a hot mustard tub is even better.

Just add four heaping tablespoonfuls of Colman's Mustard, mixed to a smooth paste in a little cold water, to your regular bath. In the morning you'll wonder where the cold has gone. Fine for children's colds, too. Always keep a tin of mustard in your medicine chest—and be sure it's Colman's.

Crime Devoid of Romance, Says Western Penitentiary Warden, In Illuminating Talk

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

An ordinary day in the penitentiary is like an ordinary day in a factory and not nearly so wild as a newspaper office at edition time, Warden Stanley Ashe, of the Western Penitentiary, told the Women's Press Club in an illuminating and fascinating talk yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ashe sketched the crime situation in general and the penitentiary as it is in Pennsylvania, giving some extremely interesting facts and observations.

Shaved Heads

No matter what people read or hear or see there is no romance in crime and every man in the penitentiary is a failure as a criminal, he stated. It must be remembered, he emphasized, that while there are bad men in the penitentiary there are also good men who have done bad things. He explained in detail the procedure when a man enters prison, the physical, psychological and, if necessary, psychiartic, examinations and then went on to talk of the "jobs" and the schooling. Singularly, the only thing required by the law is that a man shall be weighed upon his entrance and before his leaving.

Despite the impression made by the shaved heads one sees on stage and movie criminals, heads are shaved but once and that upon entrance. Concerning the "musical" organizations at Riverside, Mr. Ashe said they were "all equally bad," but, he explained, tooting a horn, even badly is a real accomplishment to someone who has never had an accomplishment before.

Active newspaper women who are not members of the Press Club were special guests at the tea yesterday. It was held in the Woman's City Club.

Keister, Mrs. Samuel E. Diescher, Mrs. Ernest Henry Bingler, Mrs. Jean Wilson Gilson, Mrs. Albert Vencil, Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, Miss Elvera Hamstrom, Miss Grace Sloan, Mrs. E. J. Casselman, Mrs. A. V. Ritts, Mrs. Charles Reisfar, Miss Sue Perkins and Mrs. W. Norton McCutcheon.

Living book reviews will be given by Polly Buckmaster, Marion Black, Catherine Cuthbert, Betsy Cuthbert, Margaret Bodley, Helen Ruth Deike, Jane Campbell, Georgette Casselman, Marcella McCutcheon, Jean Keister, Mary Stevenson and Barbara Yohe.

20th Century Drama Committee Presents Three Prize Plays

Another triumph can be set down to the credit of the drama committee of the Twentieth Century Club. Interest as well as merit increases in the annual production of original plays, and yesterday a large audience gave generous approval of this year's crop.

Mrs. Kirkland W. Todd's "Quiet Evening at Home," winner of the third prize, was first on the program. Mrs. Todd has told amusingly of the tired businessman (Mrs. Will Knox Dunlap) who looks forward to "a quiet evening." The numerous happenings that combine to deprive him of this make up the story and action of the clever little play.

Miss Sophie Keenan went into her family history for the story of "The Crest," second prize winner, dramatizing an incident concerned with the origin of the Johnston family crest. The setting for this, a baronial hall, was exceptionally fine, as, indeed, were those for Mrs. Todd's play and the first prize winner, Mrs. Carroll Miller's "Running Water." The last was an old-fashioned kitchen in which the mother, married 35 years, is still lugging water from a pump outdoors, although she had been promised "running water" before she became a bride.

There was tea after the plays.

SMITHFIELD ST. AT DIAMOND

STYLIST SHOWS CHARMING BLOUSES FOR SPRING WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 18.—The blouse is certainly blooming as it becomes more and more the darling of the mode. No more do we sally forth to buy a blouse or so to wear with a navy blue tailor-made. We buy several blouses these days to wear with separate skirts as well as with our sports, dress and utility suits, and each blouse must be of highly original design. The fussy, overdone type of blouse is definitely out. But just the same the new models are far from plain. In fact, they are more decorative than ever, due to all sorts of tucking and other clever effects.

* * *

A SMART BLOUSE and skirt worn with a short fur jacket is splendid as an alternative to the suit or the frock and coat combination that generally obtains in the spring. It is a youthful, useful costume and one that appeals to almost every woman with a penchant for the practical combined with the pretty. Many of the new blouses are accented with touches of fine embroidery with bits of fine lace used as edging when there is a jabot or a rever effect. Pin tucking is used quite a bit, too; as is shirring. Satin georgette and crepe marocain are being much used for the newest blouses.

* * *

THE BLOUSES represent the latest word for spring. Both are from Maggy Rouff. First is a model in pistachio green satin with sun-burst tucking and elbow length sleeves. The two-side fronts of the blouse are shirred together at the center and three small bows simulate a knotted fastening. The second blouse is in pale gray crepe marocain with the new high neckline and bishop sleeves. Vertical pleats are pressed, but not stitched into the material and the scarf is trimmed with the same treatment.

FIGHTING FOR A FORTUNE

In the Land of the Mayas

Exciting Tale of— —Hidden Treasure

STARTING NEXT SUNDAY!

YOU'LL be as surprised as "Red" Geary by the attack on him in a small Yucatan town in which he had just arrived. There seemed to be no reason for the assault.

But "Red" didn't know of the man posing as "'Red' Geary" who sought buried treasure in a manner that the real "Red" would never follow. And he soon heard of the buried fortune the impostor sought—a fortune in gold hidden, centuries before, by the Mayas. He also learned that the ancient Mayas had not intended to have their gold buried forever. They merely hid it so well, when attacked by the Spaniards, that now—after four-hundred years—the fabulous treasure's hiding place was still a secret.

The real "Red," of course, helps solve the puzzle and clear his name. How he does it, as told in "The Golden Snail," by Herbert Jensen, is a series of thrills from start to finish. See next Sunday's American Weekly for opening chapters of this tale of tropical adventure.

M'DONALD RUNS FOR LAWRENCE POST HERE

Candidate for Democratic Chairmanship in County; Labor Backs Union Agent

G. Malcolm McDonald, Forest Hills, is to be a candidate for Democratic county chairman in the primary election April 26.

He will represent that wing of the party in Allegheny County opposing Chairman David L. Lawrence, who, it is assumed, will be a candidate for re-election.

McDonald is an attorney with offices in the Bakewell Building, and when a candidate for District Attorney on the Democratic ticket in a former election, received approximately 47,000 votes. He was one of three of a board of visitors named by Common Pleas Court to inquire into activities of the County Poor Board.

Sources of McDonald's support among Democrats have not been disclosed. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey, former national committeeman, are making a drive for national delegates instructed for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York. Opposition to this plan is working for delegates without instructions. It is assumed that the differences on this subject will enter into the fight for county chairman.

LABOR BACKS AGENT

More than 200 representatives of organized labor have indorsed the candidacy of John J. Kane for member of the Legislature from the Sixth District. Pledges were made at a meeting in Mayflower Hotel.

Kane is business representative of the Newspaper Pressmen's Union No. 9, Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union No. 64, and state representative of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union of North America.

Residents of the Twenty-eighth Ward have formed an organization to support candidates in the coming primary. At a meeting in Schaeffer School, they elected Harry Bastow chairman, Lillian Matthews vice chairman, Thomas McGrew secretary.

A committee was named to confer with other independent ward organizations comprising the Sixth Legislative District, with the objective of deciding upon three candidates to support for the Legislature.

TWO CONTINUE IN RACE

Louis A. S. Bellinger, registered architect, of 525 Fourth avenue, has issued a statement declaring he has not withdrawn from the race for member of Congress. He said:

"This is to deny the rumor that I am to withdraw my candidacy for Congress in the Thirty-second District. I shall continue my campaign until the vote is counted."

Edward B. Goehring, member of the General Assembly in the Fourth Legislative District, comprising the Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh wards of Pittsburgh, has denied rumors that he does not intend to run for another term. He said he has been ill since early in January but is improving and soon will be able to meet his constituents to solicit their support.

Tardieu's Economy Plea Overridden

PARIS, March 18.—(Universal)—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday disregarded the government's plea for economy, administering a stinging rebuke to Premier Tardieu by passing a $13,600,000 pension bill for government employes, 313 to 235.

The vote was not made one of confidence. Thus the cabinet's life was not in jeopardy. Should the Senate reject the bill, as anticipated, the Chamber must then vote on it again, when a vote of confidence would be possible.

Women said:

YOU CAN'T USE ONE HOUSEHOLD SOAP FOR EVERYTHING

BUT they changed their minds when they used the New Oxydol

WHAT a pitiful story kitchen shelves tell of women's efforts to lighten the burden of housework—shelves crowded with soaps and powders supposed to make their work easier.

But there is one soap to do that now—the amazing New Oxydol does everything for you!

It's easy on hands, easy on clothes and wonderful for dishes. It does more work because it makes 50% more suds—richer, quicker, more lasting suds. Clean smelling suds that float dirt out of clothes and keep it out so clothes are snowy white—suds that cut grease on dishes so they rinse sparkling clean—suds that lighten all your housework.

Try this new soap. Use enough to make rich suds—it never balls up or leaves a scum—just thick foamy suds in hard water or soft water turned hard by dirty clothes or dishes. Ask your grocer today for a package of Oxydol.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

TOMATO JELLY SALAD—2 tablespoons gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1 quart tomatoes, canned or fresh, 2 or 3 slices onion, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon green pepper, chopped, 2 tablespoons celery, chopped, 1 tablespoon parsley, chopped, 1 cup cabbage, shredded.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for 5 minutes, strain through a fine sieve, pour the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatin, and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar, and chill. When the gelatin mixture is partly set, add the finely chopped vegetables and mix well. Add more salt if needed. If the mixture is not tart enough, add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour into wet custard cups and place in a cold place until set. Turn out on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with salad dressing.

* * *

TOMATO COCKTAIL — 1 quart tomatoes, canned or fresh, 2 stalks celery, chopped, ½ green pepper, chopped, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon onion pulp, 1 teaspoon horseradish.

Boil the tomatoes, celery, pepper and salt for about 5 minutes, and rub through a sieve that is fine enough to keep back the seeds. To the tomato juice and pulp add the catsup, onion and horseradish. A little lemon juice is a good addition if the tomatoes are not very acid. Stir the mixture well, and put in a cold place to chill. Beat before serving and pour into small glasses. Finely chopped parsley sprinkled on top adds attractiveness. Thinly sliced cucumber may be used in place of the parsley.

* * *

ONE-EGG CAKE—1½ cups milk, 3 cups flour, ½ cup fat, 1 egg, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1¼ cups sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon flavoring.

Place the fat in a warm place until it becomes soft though not melted, so that it may be combined easily with the sugar. Blend the fat and the sugar thoroughly, stir in the beaten egg and add alternately the dry ingredients, which have been mixed and sifted together, and the liquid. Add only a small quantity of liquid at a time. Add flavoring. Pour the batter into lightly greased, floured pans, taking care that it is spread evenly. If baked in a thick loaf the oven temperature should be very moderate (about 325 degrees F.), but if baked as cup cakes or thin layers the oven should be about 375 degrees F.

* * *

LEMON SAUCE — 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups water, 1 or 2 tablespoons lemon juice and some grated rind, 1 tablespoon butter.

Mix the cornstarch, sugar and salt thoroughly. Add the water and cook over direct heat until thickened. Cover and continue the cooking over hot water for 15 to 20 minutes. Stir in the lemon juice and rind and butter. Serve hot.

* * *

TOMATOES, CORN AND CHEESE ON TOAST—3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons melted butter or other fat, 1 onion, sliced, 2 cups tomatoes, canned or fresh, 2 cups canned corn, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ pound sharp cheese, shaved thin.

Brown the flour in a heavy skillet, remove the flour from the skillet and blend with 2 tablespoons of the fat. Brown the onion in the remaining fat, add the other ingredients except the cheese, and cook for about 10 minutes. Stir in the cheese and when melted serve on thin, crisp toast.

* * *

FISH RING MOLD—1½ cups thick white sauce, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1½ cups cooked fish, paprika, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 2 eggs, slightly beaten.

Let the white sauce cool a little, add paprika, salt and pepper, parsley, green pepper and cooked fish. Then add the slightly beaten eggs. Grease a ring mold, line it with well greased oiled paper, and pour in the mixture. Set in a pan of hot water in the oven and cook as you would a baked custard.

* * *

BEEF AND POTATO SOUFFLE—1 cup left over boiled beef, ¼ of an onion, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 cup mashed potatoes, 2 slightly beaten egg yolks, ¾ cup milk, 2 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Grind the cooked meat with the onion. Add parsley, mustard and mashed potatoes, which should be hot or reheated. Beat in egg yolks and milk.

* * *

SYRIAN STEW — 2 cups raw lamb, cut in cubes, 2 tablespoons fat, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups string beans, 2 onions, 2 cups tomatoes, salt.

Dredge meat with flour and brown in the fat. Put all ingredients into a stew pan, scraping from the frying pan all the flour and fat and add enough water to cover. Cook slowly until the meat is tender. Serve at once.

* * *

ORANGE CANDIED SWEET POTATOES—1 cup orange juice, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 cup water, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons light corn syrup, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter, 6 to 8 sweet potatoes or yams.

Combine first 7 ingredients and pour over peeled uncooked sweet potatoes arranged in casserole or baking dish. Bake covered in a moderate oven (375-400 degrees Fahrenheit) until tender, 30 to 40 minutes. Baste occasionally. Remove lid last 10 minutes to brown or put under blazer.

Variation: Just before removing from oven, add a layer of marshmallows and brown. Serves six.

* * *

SURPRISE SCONES—Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ⅔ cup milk, 2 to 4 tablespoons shortening, ⅓ package pasteurized dates, 4 marshmallows, 1 egg yolk, ½ cup chopped nutmeats.

Pit dates and stuff them with quartered marshmallows. Then sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Work in the shortening. Stirring with a knife, add milk to form a soft dough. Toss dough on a lightly floured board and roll out to a thickness of one-half inch. Cut in rounds. Place a stuffed date near one edge of each round of dough and press the edges of the round together to enclose the date. Brush the semi-circular scones with slightly beaten egg yolk which has been diluted with a little milk. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in a hot oven

MAKE THE WORLD'S best HOT CROSS BUNS!

You can do it—yes, you can! Without fuss. Without bother. Just follow the recipe given—and be sure of this—use Calumet Baking Powder. For it's Calumet's Double-Action that makes these quick-and-easy hot cross buns so perfect in texture and taste.

Here is why Calumet can do it—it acts twice! As soon as you add liquid to your dry ingredients, Calumet's first action begins and starts the leavening. Then, in the oven, Calumet's second action begins. This carries on the leavening. Up!...up!...it keeps raising the dough and holds it high and light, until every roll is baked to tender, fluffy goodness. And it's this same double-action—this extra protection—that makes all cakes and all your quick breads so unusually delicate and delicious when they're Calumet-baked.

So thrifty too! The simple, tested recipe given here is a Calumet recipe—specially designed for the Calumet proportion—only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour. That's the usual Calumet proportion and should be followed for best results. A splendid economy for you—thanks to the perfect efficiency of Calumet's Double-Action.

Yes, Calumet is the real baking powder bargain! A bargain—because it avoids costly failures—because it always brings top-notch success! Try it—and see why it is the world's most popular baking powder, too! Calumet is a product of General Foods Corporation.

HOT CROSS BUNS
(kneaded rolls)

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon shortening
¼ cup milk (about)

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk gradually until soft dough is formed. Knead lightly for 1 to 3 minutes. Cut small pieces from dough, and roll in palm of hand into balls 1½ inches in diameter. Place in greased pan; cut a cross on each with pointed knife. Brush tops with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place 20 minutes. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15 minutes. Brush tops with mixture of equal parts sugar and milk, and finish baking. Makes 16 buns. All measurements are level.

Don't Waste Your Life Away Regretting a Mistake

Remorse is a noble thing, you say. We should all be sorry for the wicked things we've done.

Yes, indeed! We should be sorry—very, very sorry.

But how long should we be sorry? Should we keep on being sorry always? Should we never wipe our eyes and tighten our chins and make a fresh start at life?

Amy thinks we shouldn't—ever.

Amy was a wild girl once. Then she met and loved Jack, and Jack—though he knew all about those sad, bad days—loved Amy. And Jack cried: "Forget it, baby, we'll start again!" when she wailed out her remorse.

But Amy won't forget it! She won't bury her past! She insists on hanging on to it.

So now Jack wonders if I can't help the poor kid snap out of it. I'll try, Jackie.

How? Stick around, boy. Maybe you'll be surprised.

GIRL DOUBTS HIM

"Dear Miss Martin—

"I have read your column for a long time, and it has interested me. You seem to know people and life, and you have given me a great many helpful hints. Now I am coming to you with a real problem of my own, and I hope you can help me because it is very important to me.

"About 10 months ago I met a girl. She had the reputation of being 'wild,' but ever since I have been going with her, she had acted like a perfect lady in every way.

"Now I am deeply in love with her. (We'll call her Amy.) I know she cares for me, too, but I cannot convince her that I really do love a girl with a reputation like she had. She believes me when I am with her, but when I am gone she gets to thinking and doubts me. She says that I must forget her, because she thinks I can't forget her past.

"I really and truly have forgotten it, because she is a nice girl now and I know that she is; but she just can't believe me when I tell her that.

WALLOWS IN REGRET

"How can I convince her that I care—that in spite of the past we can be happy together? Don't you think there is something fine about her, even if she was once wild?

"What can I do? Maybe you can help make her see herself as she is now, instead of as she once was, and make her understand how I feel. Please help me. She reads your column, too. JACK."

Do I believe you two could be happy together? I certainly do. With your tolerance and good sense and her new love of decency, you should be able to make a great adventure of marriage.

But you'll never do it until Amy quits wallowing.

But that isn't fair! you cry indignantly. "I told you Amy had stopped all that. That's all in the past."

I'm not talking about the past, Jack. I'm talking about the present. Amy is wallowing right now. She is wallowing in remorse.

Amy is getting likkered up on remorse just as surely as she ever got likkered up on gin.

She has passed the stage of natural, healthy regret. She's indulging herself now, abandoning herself, dramatizing herself, until remorse has become an addiction. And she's getting a big bang out of that addiction for it keeps little Amy in the spotlight.

HIDING IN SHADOWS

"It's cruel to say that," you cry.

No, it isn't, son. And Amy will never really be "saved from her past" until someone makes her believe it. For the past won't really be past as long as she dwells on it, and this chronic act of being sorry will wreck today as surely as being bad wrecked yesterday.

It's as wicked to spend your whole life thinking about the bad thing you've done as it was to do that bad thing originally, for, in either case, you waste your life and give yourself up to self-indulgence and cowardice.

So snap out of it, Amy. Stop thinking about yourself. Stop hiding in the shadows of yesterday to escape the demands of today.

If you're really sorry for your old weakness, prove it—prove it by being a new person, a glad, strong, healthy, ambitious person instead of a beautiful helliker.

People Like Gossip, but Give Sympathy in Real Trials, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

It has been said that "bad news travels faster than good news."

It is true because there is a regrettable delight and gloating over trivial troubles that happen to others.

That is why gossip has always been a favorite indoor sport.

There are mighty few persons alive who do not take an interest in those bits of information which are not favorable.

But, on the other hand, the reaction to really great trouble is exactly opposite.

You will even hear a person speak a good word of real concern in favor of an enemy when real trial and tribulation comes to him.

And that makes up for all the rest, which is, after all, more of an amusement than animosity.

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Fresh Air Is Essential to Health

Many people still believe that cold air is detrimental to health. They are faithful to the old notion that "flu" and pneumonia are caused by cold air.

Dr. Copeland

This is a foolish attitude of mind. These diseases, as well as the common cold, are rarely, if ever, caused by cold air. They are more often caused by a lack of fresh air.

I can never understand why people show so little interest in the air they breathe. Fresh air is necessary for good health. It is nature's tonic. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, builds up the nervous system, and increases the resistance of the body against certain diseases. Sleeping with open windows makes up for much bad air that is breathed during the daytime.

Air that is not fresh is spoken of as "vitiated air," or air without life. Such air is produced when a room is not properly ventilated and the same air is breathed over and over for a long period of time.

Headache, dizziness, nausea, vomiting and even collapse may result from breathing such air. Continued breathing of impure air causes digestive disorders. It lowers the body vitality and weakens resistance to infectious diseases, such as tuberculosis, pneumonia and the common cold.

I believe that all of us would be healthier and freer from colds if we could accustom ourselves to cold air. Most persons dress too warmly and live in overheated homes. The windows are rarely opened in cold weather. Many sleep with windows tightly shut, and wonder why they awake with headaches and head colds.

The problem of ventilation is a simple one. All that is necessary is to furnish a continuous stream of fresh air. Window ventilation is the most practical. Windows should be opened from top and bottom, and the doors should be closed to avoid draughts. The temperature of the room should be between 65 and 72 degrees Fahrenheit. A thermometer should be in every home in order to regulate the temperature with some degree of certainty.

Heating and ventilation must be considered together. Most homes are overheated, with an excess of dry air. Dry air causes dryness of the skin and damages the lining of the nose and throat, thus preparing the way for colds and sore throats. Dry air can be prevented by allowing water to be evaporated over the heater.

A house that is poorly ventilated will harbor disease. Proper ventilation insures good health, and its advantages must not be overlooked.

Household Hints

When washing sateen or any cotton goods with a sateen finish, rinse them in borax water to give them a gloss.

When making pickles, two or three lumps of sugar give a delicious flavor. Shallots and onions especially are better for this.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Get stockings amply long. If feet won't endure long walks, the trouble is in too short stockings or shoes that are too full of little dogs. Walking shoes are not only more sensible for street wear than high heeled kicks, but they are smarter, in better style.

A bunion is caused by forcing the big toe in toward the foot. If there is an inclination to slant, wear a pad of cotton between the big toe and its next-door neighbor. Or, get a support from a chiropodist; these supports are more comfortable than a cotton cushion.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Note of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of my sister, from out of town, called and we entertained him. A few days later I received a thank-you letter and a box of candy. Now I am wondering if it is necessary to write to him at his home and thank him. And also if I should address the letter to both him and his wife, although just the man visited us. H.

As soon as you can you should write a note of thanks to this friend, thanking him for his thoughtfulness in sending you the box of candy. If you know his wife you would, naturally, in the letter send greetings and best wishes to her. If you do not know her it would be gracious and courteous for you to say that you are looking forward to the pleasure of knowing her some day.

Addressing the 'In-Laws'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should one address one's mother-in-law and one's father-in-law? A says that it is correct to call them Mr. Jones and Mrs. Jones. B says that it is correct to address them as mother and dad. M. E. H.

At first one does say Mrs. Jones, Mr. Jones, that is, say, in the early days of the engagement perhaps, but soon as the acquaintance deepens, this form of address seems too formal. Then usually the best form is the use of mother and father with the addition of the surname: Mother Jones, Father Jones. And a very dignified form of address this is, for it registers the charming words mother and father, with the addition of the name which distinguishes the address from one's address of one's own mother and father.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Bidding Two-Suiters.

There can be no such thing as continuous unanimity of opinion on every feature of the game, even by those who religiously follow the same system of bidding. An eternal following of one method on a topic wide open to debate would mean unprogressiveness. Only by trying out all debatable methods, and then adopting what proves to be best in actual bidding or play, can we progress.

The subject of bidding two-suiters offers some minor points open to debate. Nearly all experts agree upon the wisdom of showing a biddable five-card suit before a four-card suit, regardless of the rank of those suits. In case both suits are of equal length you show the higher value suit first. With the first hand below, bid spades before clubs. Hand Two requires hearts to be shown before spades. Hand Three obligates bidding hearts before diamonds.

♠63 ♥AJ96 ♣K108 ♦A062

Of course, a biddable minor suit of seven cards should be bid before a major suit of only five cards. Being so short in two suits almost certainly will require the declarer to ruff. A suit of only five cards seldom can stand being strongly formed, and still pull trumps.

Debatable ground is entered when the following two-suiter distributions are held: 6—5, 6—6, or 7—6. As one added trick is required for game when a minor suit is bid, many players advocate first bidding a major five-card suit, and then showing a minor six-card suit. I think, however, that in the long run that partner will understand better if we invariably follow the rule of first showing the longer of two biddable suits, except in special cases that I will specify later. There are more cases of two biddable suits, four cards long and five cards long than there are of two biddable suits five cards long and six cards long. I prefer to open contracting with a club on the hand below, rather than 1-Spade.

♠KQ952 ♠AJ8743 ♦K8

When two six-card suits are held, some players advocate bidding the stronger suit first. My opinion is that the higher value suit should be shown first. I bid 1-Spade upon the next hand, rather than 1-Heart.

♠K108543 ♥AK6532 ♣7

Many bidders prefer showing first a six-card major suit, next bidding a seven-card minor suit. For my partner's sake I consider the reverse process is preferable.

In general I recognize only one situation where the shorter higher ranking suit should be displayed before the longer and lower ranking suit, and that is where a forcing bid of three is employed. The following hand comes under the letter of the law requiring an opening bid of three to announce a holding that should go game, provided that partner can win one trick, and that has an even chance for game in case partner holds four trumps, including one serving as entry to his hand, so that the finesse in declarer's other long suit may be attempted.

♠AQJ83 ♥AQJ642 ♣° ♦3

First bid 3-Spades. If partner bids 3-No Trumps you can then bid 4-Hearts. If you make an opening bid of 3-Hearts, you must bid 4-Spades over partner's 3-No Trump. In case your partner must return you to hearts, he has to bid 5-Hearts, which may be one trick too many. Common sense and always making things easy for partner are more important than arbitrary, fixed rules.

None of us delights in opening cans with keys, such as most sardines and fish are canned in. However, it is much simpler if one slips the icepick or a metal skewer through the end of the key and uses that as a lever for turning. Try it and see.

Meat Is Needed to Supply Sufficient Proteins

Those found in milk are most valuable, but adults could hardly get along without the proteins supplied in meat, doctor says.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City. United States Senator from New York.

We live in an age when almost every article of human diet is made the object of attack, scientific or otherwise. Perhaps most of such attacks have been directed against meat.

There are thousands of perfectly honest persons who condemn meat as an agent of immeasurable harm. They regard it as certain to undermine health, but worse than that, as destructive of the moral nature.

I have no desire to cross swords with these able advocates of what they truly believe to be the truth. But, frankly, I do not share their apprehension.

It must be admitted at once that overindulgence in meat is harmful to the human body. But that is true of all other articles commonly used in the diet. It is the intemperate use of meat that does harm, just as the intemperate eating of all foods is harmful.

It must be recalled that the most important of our foods are classified as "proteins." They make up the substance of our muscles. They have been well called the "building stones" of our body. They are needed by the growing child to build the framework and by the adult and child alike to replace the wear and tear of existence.

Undoubtedly the proteins found in milk are most valuable, but adults could hardly get along without the proteins supplied by meat. While they are found, too, in the vegetable world, notably in the cereals, wheat particularly, the protein content is insufficient to supply our needs.

I doubt exceedingly if healthy kidneys could ever be damaged by a reasonable use of meat. If there is actual disease of the kidneys, we are dealing with an entirely different condition. But in these articles we are telling how to avoid disease, not to cure it. We are writing them for persons of good health, striving to keep them in health.

The quantity of meat consumed by a temperate person is not sufficient to do harm. As a matter of fact, we just must have a certain quantity of protein every day and for the adult meat is the best way to get it.

A sensible person will balance his diet, and, to have it properly balanced, there must be a regular intake of protein. Of course, the bulk of the food will be starch from the cereals and vegetables. But without the protein the diet is not balanced.

PROTESTS BAN 2 SHOT, JAILED ON GARAGE HERE IN FIRST HOLDUP

Seven garages, one in Pittsburgh, have been suspended as official state auto inspection stations today.

The Pittsburgh garage is the Scientific Brake Service Company station at Forbes Field, Oakland. The state report said that only six of 556 cars inspected by the garage had been refused approval stickers and that this number was out of proportion with other garages figures.

J. E. Newman, manager of the garage, gave this explanation:

"Not a car has gone out of the garage with an approval sticker unless in first-class shape. Most of the cars inspected were those of our regular customers, who told us to correct any defects. These repairs were always made before the sticker was issued. Most of our trade, which includes few transients, have expensive cars, always kept in first-class condition."

Newman said he would forward this explanation to the Department of Revenue with a protest against the suspension.

Sentences of six months to two years in jail were imposed on Carl Hofelder, 18, of Dorseyville and Samuel Michaels, 22, of Allison Park, when they pleaded guilty in Criminal Court before Judge Elder W. Marshall to an attempted holdup and robbers in which both were shot by their intended victim.

Entering the butcher shop of John Cubbuge, 14 Kittanning street, Etna, January 23, they drew guns and demanded Cubbuge turn over his day's receipts. Cubbuge drew a revolver and shot one of the youths in the arm and the other in the leg as they fled through the door. They were arrested in St. Francis Hospital.

It was their first offense and the judge cited this in making their sentences light, explaining that with short terms they might reform. Charles Michaels, 18, who had remained in an automobile during the attempted holdup, was paroled.

3 GIRLS HURT AS AUTO HITS SAFETY RAILS

Carson Street Crash Sends Victims to Hospital; Three Men Unhurt, Driver Held

Three 19-year-old girls were injured when the automobile in which they were riding with their escorts crashed into the railing of a safety zone in the 1600 block West Carson street, early today, according to police.

The injured are Henrietta Molds, and Mollie Leahy, both of 2801 West Carson street, and Jean O'Donnell, of 2823 West Carson street. They were taken to Mercy Hospital, suffering from severe lacerations and bruises.

DRIVER IS HELD

The driver, who police say was James V. Gilligan, 27, of 38 Belthoover avenue, was lodged in West End police station on a reckless driving charge. Neither he nor Ray Pickels, 27, of Iberia street, and Homer Schuckerman, of 430 Eureka street, was injured.

George Engbarth, of Cherry street, Etna, was in critical condition in the Allegheny General Hospital today with a fractured skull suffered when an automobile he was driving collided with one operated by William Gabel, 5328 Butler street, in East Ohio street, Etna, last night, police reported.

Gabel, who said he was sideswiped by a hit and run motorist, suffered injuries to his chest and legs when his machine plunged nearly 30 feet to the right-of-way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

CRASH INJURES THREE

Three persons were injured when automobiles driven by Philip Eacher, 41, of 814 Florence avenue, Avalon, and Henry Wolf, 23, of 345 Cornell avenue, West View, collided in East street, near Venture street, last night.

The injured were Eacher, his wife, Mrs. Catherine Eacher, and Andrew Helfrich, 23, of 26 Oakley avenue, West View, the latter a passenger in Wolf's car. They were treated at Allegheny General Hospital. Wolf escaped injury.

MINORITY BACKS BANKHEAD VOTE

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—A minority report on the Heflin-Bankhead election contest, asserting Senator John H. Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, is entitled to retain his seat because he received a majority of the legal votes cast in the 1930 Alabama senatorial contest, was filed today by Democratic Senators George, of Georgia, and Bratton, of New Mexico.

The report admits election law irregularities, but denies charges of fraud made in the Hastings majority report, which recommended the contest be declared "no election." The minority report states:

"It appears clearly from the testimony given before the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections that notwithstanding any and all violations of the directory statutes the will of the people of Alabama in this election found full, free and fair expression, and that by a majority of some 50,000 out of 250,000 votes cast John H. Bankhead was elected by the people of Alabama as their representative in the Senate."

Storm Slows Dash To Crippled Ship

NORFOLK, Va., March 18.—(INS.)—A 70-mile an hour gale today slowed the progress of the United States Coast Guard cutter Carrabassett, racing to the assistance of the distressed tanker Raila 300 miles off Cape Henry.

An S. O. S. received from the S. S. Duchess of Bedford told of the tanker's need of aid. The Raila apparently lost a rudder in the storm.

Bandits Record Time of Bank Robbery

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 18.—Cracksmen who this morning attempted to open the safe of the Exchange Bank at Stone Creek, 10 miles west of here, recorded the time of their arrival on the electric clock. The clock stopped at 3:26, when the cord was disconnected to operate an electric drill. A factory expert was summoned to open the safe. The crowbar used to break off the combination and steel filings were found on the floor.

DEPUTIES TRIAL JURY LACKS 4

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 18.—Only one man was selected this morning from the parade of the special venire drawn last night to complete the jury to try nine men indicted for murder in the slaying of Mike Philipovich at Arnold City, last June, in a mine strike riot.

Sanford G. Olister, farmer, was added to the seven jurors selected in the first two days of the trial. Both state and defense used a number of peremptory challenges today. It was believed the jury might be completed before night.

In drawing the special venire, Sheriff H. E. Hackney was besieged by jobless seeking jury service.

BANK SUIT HITS STOCKHOLDERS

The amount of money to be recovered by depositors in closed state banks of this city and the liability of stockholders to make up for losses will be affected by the outcome of a test case brought by Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon in Philadelphia.

Dr. Gordon is suing stockholders of the closed Susquehanna Title and Trust Company of Philadelphia in an attempt to collect amounts from the individuals equal to the par value of their stock holdings.

This liability of stockholders has been definitely established in the case of national banks, and has been an important factor in making possible initial cash distribution to depositors.

The right of the Banking Department to make a similar levy on stockholders of state banks remains untested in the courts. If the secretary of banking wins his suit, stockholders in many closed banks in this city will be compelled to pay assessments and depositors will benefit by the increase in the assets.

Bomb Blast Wrecks Wilmington Building

WILMINGTON, Del., March 18.—(INS.)—A dynamite bomb wrecked the front of an empty three-story building here today. With a detonation that was heard throughout the city, the bomb exploded, tearing away the front doors and other parts of the building.

An investigation by police revealed the bomb was a milk bottle filled with dynamite.

GARDENS URGED FOR NEEDY

Plans for the establishment of a thousand or more gardens, ranging in size from the shack yard type to one capable of supporting a family, were being put into effect today following the organization of the Thrift Gardens of Allegheny County. This adjunct to the Allegheny County Emergency Association was formed yesterday at a meeting of representatives of civic, religious, school and industrial leaders at the Chamber of Commerce.

William P. Witherow, vice president of the Chamber, was elected president, with Matthew Taylor, A. M. Bell and A. G. Smith vice presidents; J. E. Manley, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., secretary, and F. H. Brooks, president of the First National Bank, treasurer.

Present plans call for reclamation of much land outside the city to be prepared and divided into plots, for the raising of the larger crops, and for plots in the city.

Among those who spoke were Mrs. Frank Brooks, of the Allegheny County Garden Club; Sidney A. Teller, of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement; Paul V. Rus, county superintendent of parks, and Henry R. Eby, county farm agent.

John Gosling Dies, Noted Cattle Judge

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—(AP.)—John Gosling, 67, a noted cattle judge known to his friends as "the man with X-Ray fingers," died at his home here last night. He picked winners in leading livestock shows of America for 50 years.

Thief Smashes Window, Grabs Sawdust Ham

Thieves who broke a display window in Paul's Market, 3 Tokio street, and fled after grabbing a large ham, had their trouble for nothing, it was said at the store today. It was learned the ham taken was artificial, filled with sawdust. Several real hams in the window were left, it was said.

U. S. MAY PUSH WHEAT SALES

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Official contemplation of an "intensive sales campaign" by the United States to place some of the country's huge surplus of wheat and cotton in European and other countries was reported today by Secretary Hyde.

The Agriculture Secretary told newspapermen that, although plans for such a campaign were at present nebulous, there was a definite "hope" that some such procedure could be followed in lifting the weight of these enormous surpluses from the American market.

Conferences on the possibilities are being held in official Washington, ranging from the White House to Capitol Hill.

LABOR FIGHTS MACKINTOSH

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Confirmation of Kenneth Mackintosh, of Washington, as judge of the Ninth Circuit was opposed before a Senate Judiciary sub-committee today by the American Federation of Labor.

Edward J. Tracy, representative of the federation, testifying at the opening of hearings on the nomination of the former Wickersham Commission member, said the views expressed by Mackintosh in two written opinions were not in accord with the "trade union law" or the anti-injunction bill now pending before Congress.

Meanwhile, Senator Borah wants to know just what evidence supporters of Federal Judge Wilkerson of Chicago have for their charge that gangsters are seeking to prevent his advancement to the circuit court.

As chairman of the Judiciary Sub-Committee working on the much protested nomination of Wilkerson to the higher court, Borah wrote Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, to substantiate with facts or names the gangster claim which Loesch and Isham Randolph, chairman of Chicago's "Secret Six," recently presented to the committee.

The opposition to Wilkerson has been based on the claim that Wilkerson has used his great judicial power unfairly to labor.

'Glass' Burglar Shot in Flight

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 18.—(INS.)—The so-called "glass burglar" was captured today after a running pistol battle with police and also after he escaped a policeman who was waiting for him in a house he entered during the night.

James Preston, Negro, was accused of being the man who burglarized a number of homes recently, entering by cutting window panes. He was shot in both legs.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Deal Helps Carey Early.
Jinx Trails Bissonette.
Reds Must Keep Herman.
Wallace's Hands Cured.
Spring Grid Practice.
Dehnert Rated Best.

STRIPP TO START AS FIRST BASEMAN

AMONG THE ADVANTAGES seen for Max Carey and the Dodgers in the recent big trade with Cincinnati was the fact that in Joe Stripp the Brooklyn club was acquiring not only a capable regular guardian of third base, but also a player able to give an excellent account of himself at the first bag when needed. A first-base insurance policy of that sort promised to mean quite a lot on the Flatbush outfit. Del Bissonette, the regular performer, being one of the most unfortunate players in the majors and frequently incapacitated.

Del Bissonette

It took only two days for the deal to work out from that angle exactly as it had been doped, for it develops that Bissonette is out of commission for possibly two months and Stripp will start the season at the initial hassock,. A torn tendon near the left ankle has put Bissonette on the shelf. The ankle must be kept in a plaster cast for three weeks, Del has been ordered not to do any playing for at least two weeks after the cast is removed, and he may not be able to begin steady work at his old station until the middle of May.

THE LOSS OF Bissonette would have left Carey in a sorry plight for an inner defense if he hadn't put over that trade with the Reds. But with his infield reinforcements he will find it possible to plug the first-base hole with Stripp and use Bob Reis at third with Tony Cuccinello at second, or shift Cuccinello to third and play Mickey Finn at the keystone.

An arm injury in 1921 at Georgetown forced Bissonette to give up pitching and turn himself into a first sacker. Beaned by Lester Sweetland in 1929, nine operations were required for repairs on his skull. Six weeks ago he underwent another operation to remedy the old trouble in his throwing arm, and just when he felt that he was set for his first good season he suffered his present injury in a volleyball workout.

REPORTS THAT THE Cubs had started to offer big sums for Babe Herman immediately after the consummation of the Red-Dodger deal led the fans to believe Herman soon would be transferred to the Cubs. But Babe is going to stay right with the Reds, regardless of all the Chicago offers.

When that six-cornered swap was put through, President Frank J. York, of Brooklyn, made Sydney Weil, the Red owner, pledge his word not to sell or trade Herman to any other National League club this year. It was a step to block the strengthening of any of Brooklyn's pennant rivals.

HERMAN, THEREFORE, MUST play for Cincinnati during 1932 or not at all. Such agreements are not new in baseball. When the Pittsburgh club sent Pitcher Burleigh Grimes to the Braves in the spring of 1930 it exacted a pledge from the Boston owners that Grimes would not be resold to the Cubs. The latter had just won a pennant and it looked as if the addition of Grimes would assure the capture of another flag. Boston sold Burleigh to St. Louis on June 16, of that year, and the pennant went to the Cards. Grimes has now landed with the Cubs after all, but not until two seasons later.

Billy Wallace

BILLY WALLACE, Cleveland fighter and radio crooner and a Pittsburgh favorite, who knocked out Frank Bojarski and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe in his last two starts and hopes to halt the lightweight title drive of Sammy Fuller in New York tonight, attributes his return to form when nearing 31 to a fortunate tip on a man who succeeded in curing a pair of troublesome hands.

"Sore and swollen hands after almost every fight caused me many a lay-off and I spent thousands of dollars in vain for operations and treatment," Wallace said. "A few months ago I heard about a bone and nerve specialist in Struthers, O., just three miles from Youngstown, where Bonesetter Reese used to do so much for athletes. Instead of treating my hands, he surprised me by working around my spine for 45 minutes. He said the nerves were what made my hands get sore. My hands haven't bothered me since. That's why I've been winning."

CHICAGO HAD THE 1933 tournament of the American Bowling Congress sewed up, but withdrew when that body refused to stage the tourney late in the summer in conjunction with the World Fair. The result was an open fight for the award at the annual A. B. C. meeting in Detroit today.

Though Cleveland had the tourney two years ago, the bowling leaders and Chamber of Commerce of that city made a late decision to go after the 1933 affair in opposition to Columbus, Newark, N. J., and Peoria, Ill., planning to stage it in the new underground exposition hall now being constructed, where 2,000 seats will be available. Pittsburgh had the big tenpin tournament only once—in 1909 at Duquesne Garden.

WITH THE OPENING of spring practice for Pitt's gridiron candidates, friends of football contend again that those who have opposed this feature throughout the country have the wrong slant in pronouncing it over-emphasis. In reality, it is a factor exerting tremendous influence toward just what the so-called reformers are demanding among other things—the greater safety of the players. The more practice the gridders get the better will be their physical condition, and the more they will know about executing plays properly and with least chance of injury. Lack of condition and doing things wrongly on the field have been responsible for more gridiron fatalities and severe hurts than any other contributing causes.

ONE OF THE strongest supporters of the suggestion published in the Sun-Telegraph some time ago that free throws be eliminated from basketball, because they make it the only game in the world in which victory may be won on a gift point, with the opposing team powerless to prevent it, is Dr. Lou Sugarman, of Philadelphia, who refereed the Rosenblum-Renaissance game here Tuesday night.

Sugarman said basketball never will be just right until all free throwing is abolished. He favors its immediate elimination, suggesting that, instead of a personal foul being charged and a free throw also given on every offense, with four personal fouls automatically ejecting a player, only a personal foul be charged, without the free throw, and three personals be sufficient to eject the offender.

IT IS THE opinion of the veteran official that this would make the game cleaner, faster and more scientific. He figures that under such a rule the players would acquire the habit of playing the ball, not the man.

Dutch Dehnert

The greatest player in professional basketball? Sugarman, who has been in close touch with the whole field, first as a playing star and later as a referee, says Dutch Dehnert, of the Rosies, still is the king of them all, despite his age and his many years of activity on pro courts.

DEHNERT'S PERFORMANCE AT Motor Square Garden Tuesday night was remarkable, but Sugarman believes his real worth escaped the observation of most of the onlookers, who, like most fans, get their thrills from the scoremakers. The referee says Dutch has more basketball brains than any other player he has ever seen except Joe Fogarty, whom he puts in the same class. The Rosies' big pivot man is a ball handler of the super type, perhaps the best of all time, Sugarman believes, and a defensive player second only to such great ones as Andy Snits, Bobby Mayham, Marty Friedman and Winnie Kinkaide. Renaissance seldom got within the foul lines and the end boundaries with the ball, and was compelled to shoot from outside.

MITTMEN FIGHT FOR TITLES IN TECH GYM

By JESS CARVER

Twenty-seven left hookers and right crossers, representing the charter members of the recently organized Intercollegiate Boxing Conference, are on edge today for the conference's first annual championship tournament, which gets under way in Carnegie Tech's gymnasium this evening. The field has been carefully selected by the coaches and will start right off with semi-final scrapping. Tomorrow the championship finals and consolation bouts will complete the program.

Henry Carr

Boxers from Pitt, Temple, Carnegie Tech, Duquesne, Wash-Jeff, West Virginia and Bucknell will compete. At noon today the scrappers will weigh in and the draw will be made, said ceremonies to take place at Webster Hall, headquarters for the visiting mitt wielders. Officials, coaches and newspapermen are to attend a luncheon following the weighing in and completion of the draw.

TEMPLE STRONG

Temple University's squad rules a slight favorite to escape with the team trophy, the Harry A. Little Cup. The Owls have a slight edge in numerical strength, with five boxers to four each for Pitt, Tech and West Virginia and three for Wash-Jeff and Duquesne. There are four title bidders in each of the seven divisions, save in the 115 and 175-pound classes. In the heavier weight, West Virginia's ace, Hawkins, has only Waldron, of Tech, and Kubacki, of Bucknell, to fear.

Following are the contestants in each class:

125-pound class—Kateiman, Temple; Morrison, Wash-Jeff; Bowmer, Bucknell, and Vernacci, Duquesne.

155-pound class—Kutcher, Temple; Shricker, Pitt; Osborne, Wash-Jeff, and Wilkerson, Bucknell.

D'ALLESANDRO CLEVER

Difficult as it is to rate the scrappers prior to the start of the action, there are several outstanding performers, including Temple's Pete D'Allesandro, 115-pounder; Capt. Kutcher, of the Owls, 155 pounds; Francis Seigel, Pitt's 165-pound star; Al Demedowitz, 165 pounds, of Wash-Jeff; Hawkins, of West Virginia, 175 pounds, and Rubbo, of Pitt, 145-pound puncher.

Simon Carlson, of Uniontown, will referee all bouts. The timers will be Harry Neaman and A. C. (Chappy) Couch. Battling will get under way each evening at 8:15 o'clock.

TOURNEY UNDER WAY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 18. — (INS.) — Thirty-two college leatherpushers are competing in the Eastern Intercollegiate boxing championship here today for titles and recognition as Olympic candidates.

Army, which qualified seven crack boxers, was the favorite to capture the team championship, with Syracuse, Penn State and Pennsylvania conceded a chance.

HOMEWOOD NINE GETS SPIERS

By TOM BIRKS

Hank Daly, manager of the Homewood Club, of the City League, announced today that George Spiers, former minor league star, would play shortstop this season.

The Greater Pittsburgh League closed its roster last night? The original six clubs, Edgewood, Wilkinsburg Murs, Braddock Klabans, Iroquois, Immaculate Heart and Verona, decided to vote Springdale and Swissvale into the circuit. Another meeting will be held next week.

Their opponents in the final will be decided today, when Lott and Van Ryn, the famous Chicago-Philadelphia combination, meet Frank Shields and Eugene McCauliff, of New York.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirate baseball club, has been made one of four National League directors, serving with Charles A. Stoneham, of the Giants; Judge Emil E. Fuchs, of the Braves and William L. Veeck, of the Cubs.

Two eastern and two western magnates form the directorate each year, and are alternated. Barney Dreyfuss, at the National League's annual meeting last December, was named a director, and since his death and the subsequent election of Benswanger as president, President John A. Heydler has placed the latter as a member of the board.

Benswanger represented the Pirates at the annual meeting of the National League, the joint major league conference and at the minor league confab last winter, while treasurer.

A place in the final round of the twentieth annual basketball elimination series will be the objective of the quintets representing Braddock High, champion of Section VIII, and Ford City High, champion of Section VI, when these two teams clash in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tonight in the closing semi-final engagement. The winner advances to the championship final scheduled for the same floor next Tuesday evening.

Elmer Kreiling

Braddock, making its tenth bid for the W. P. I. A. L. championship in 14 years, has been one of the sensations of the tournament as a result of eliminating Uniontown, Section X champion, 31-18, and New Castle, Section III representative, 25-22. The Hudson quintet staged a remarkable comeback in the last two minutes of its game with New Castle to avoid elimination in the quarter finals. Four points behind, Braddock scored seven tallies in [illegible] a minute and a half to save itself from defeat. It was [illegible] greatest rallies witnessed in a W. P. I. A. L. tournament game.

CHASES OLD JINX

Ford City, coached by Neenie Campbell, like Braddock, has broken a jinx of long standing by surviving the early rounds. For seven long years Ford City has been a contestant in the scholastic classic only to fall by the wayside in the first round. The Armstrong countians made a fine impression in their victories over Dutch Union, champion of Section XIII, and Mt. Lebanon, standard-bearer of Section IX. North Union was beaten, 22-16, while Mt. Lebanon was vanquished by a score of 40-17.

Elmer (Pickles) Kreiling, star forward of the Braddock quintet, whose three field goals in the dying minutes of the game with New Castle, paved the way for his team to advance to the semi-finals, will be the cynosure of all eyes tonight. This boy, the leading scorer of his section during the regular season, appeared to have struck his stride at the expense of New Castle and he will be watched closely by the Ford City defense.

Ford City also will present a sterling pair of forwards in Baynor and Liberto.

KEN HIGH FINALIST

A counter attack in the second half, which netted 21 points, gave the New Kensington High quintet, champion of Section I, passage into the final round last night when the Glockmen defeated Steve Stepanich's Charleroi Coursers, champions of Section V, in the first semi-final contest, 32-23.

The Charleroi Cyclone, which swept aside Homestead in the quarter-finals, dominated the play in the first two periods, but in the second half spent its fury as the Allegheny valley passers, striving for their second W. P. I. A. L. championship, staged a steam-roller attack that was not to be denied.

The brilliant defense flashed by the Cougers in their previous battles with Seinsville, champion of Section XI, and Homestead, champion of Section VII and pre-tourney favorite, cracked wide open as the Glockmen, using the ever reliable and dependable

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—That wasn't a bad act of Babe Ruth and Ruppert pulling off a couple of days' battle over $5,000. How could either one lose when they were getting a million dollars' worth of publicity?

Nick Altrock

It's tough having such a chilly training season after passing through the mildest winter in years. Why, this winter I was able to hock my overcoat three different times. But during the last zippy spell down here we would have traded a peck of pearl shirt studs for a hod of coal.

The next three days we've got exhibition games with the Louisville team. I hope the boys from Kentucky have something on their hip, and I don't mean safety pads.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—The Pirates displayed plenty of batting power yesterday as they pounded their way to a 10-3 victory over the San Francisco Missions.

The Bucs will take on a new opponent today, meeting the San Francisco Seals in the first of a four-game series.

Ervin Brame and Bill Swift will be on the mound for the Pirates.

SCORE 18 SAFETIES

The Corsairs, obeying orders from Boss Gibson, who before the game demanded runs and plenty of them, yesterday pounded three Mission hurlers for a total of 18 safeties, which produced the 10 runs.

The Bucs began their assault in the first inning, scoring four runs before the game was fairly under way and despite a rally by the locals, who piled up a safe lead, they continued their assault and eventually emerged with the triumph.

Every member of the team with the exception of Ray Kremer, who batted twice, figured in the assault.

The real drive of the contest for the Pirates came off the bat of Tony Piet, the second baseman clouting the ball over the left field fence in the first inning to swat the initial home run of the exhibition tour for the Bucco.

VAUGHAN HITS WELL

Floyd Vaughan, recruit shortstop, who is playing in place of Tommy Thevenow, led the bombardment on the local hurlers, getting four safeties in five trips to the plate.

Adam Comorosky and Paul Waner contributed three hits each, while Lloyd Waner and Tony Piet came through with two bingles apiece.

The Missions could do nothing with Glenn Spencer after he relieved Remy Kremer in the sixth. Glenn allowed them only four hits and fanned five batters during the four frames he was on the mound.

COACH JOCK SUTHERLAND INSTRUCTS PLAYERS IN RECEIVING THE BALL FROM CENTER AS GRIND GETS UNDER WAY

PITT GRIDIRON DRILLS BEGIN

The football grind at Pitt for 1932 is under way. Coach Jock Sutherland called out his varsity candidates yesterday and sent them through a brisk workout on the Pitt practice field. A squad of 65 players reported.

Sutherland is uncertain as to just how long he'll keep his charges at it this spring, but likely will have them hard at work for eight or 10 weeks. The task of building an entirely new line to replace the seven veteran stars lost from last year's eleven is a tough one.

Yesterday Sutherland devoted most of his attention to his backs and centers, turning the linemen over to Assistat Coaches Ed Schultz, Joe Donchess, Bill Kern and Ray Montgomery.

Carnegie Tech's rifle team left today for Cincinnati where it will participate in sectional intercollegiate competition with Pitt, Penn State, West Virginia, Ohio State, Cincinnati and other prominent colleges. Tech has won the crown for four years consecutively.

Tech's interscholastic swim relays will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m., with more than 200 entries. Duquesne and Langley are the senior and junior defending champs.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

When one attempts to pick the exact order in which eight clubs will finish in a major league race, he must of necessity realize that the "flyer" has more spectacular features than logic to recommend it. It is more sensible to risk the selection of the four first division clubs; the element of luck predominates in any endeavor to call the definite terminals for each team.

To give the various entries their relative paper or form rating is much easier. In preparing an estimate of this kind the would-be prophet is deeply impressed by the inherent merit of four or five of the contenders. It develops that the National League sweepstakes of this season will live up to the reputations established in the past few seasons, during which time there has been no scarcity of first-grade teams.

The Cardinals are, and should be, the favorites to cop in the Heydler circuit. True, the Redmen face a problem in attempting to soar to their third flag in a row, yet on form they are the best club in the league—in baseball for that matter.

A turnover of good pitching on the part of McGraw's sharpshooters could easily divert the banner from St. Louis all the way to the Polo Grounds. The Giants are great in every other element of play; they have crack southpaws to serve the ball, but are amiss on the other style of pitching.

The Cubs are the symbol of that type of club which is very good or very poor. Provided one or two of Hornsby's new infielders come through like a star, the Bruins might land top honors. Max Carey's Dodgers also must be considered although Scooper faces the problem of digging up one or two good hurlers if he is to stay up with the contenders.

The Pirates, like the Cubs, are in that "very good or very poor" category. Several of the Gibson flowers who bloom so lovely in March have it in their power to "make" the club a real outfit. In other words, if Finney or Brenzel Vaughn and Piet are cherished rosies in July, the Bucco will have a sweet fragrance with which to charm the fans.

The Reds won the doubtful honor of establishing an exclusive favoritism for the cellar as they made their big deal with the Dodgers. The Braves and Phillies also should be considered as second division folks at this writing, but a lot of people will not be surprised were Bill McKechnie to engineer some sort of a surprise party.

SCHOOLS PLAY TONIGHT

MARINO STAR OF GAME

Marino, brilliant forward of the Ken High machine, continued his remarkable scoring to allow his mates to overtake the Cougars. He came through with seven field goals and two fouls for a total of 16 points, half the number credited his team. In the three games his team has played in the tournament, Marino has registered 49 points, an average of better than 16 per contest. Against Sewickley Township he counted 10 field goals and a foul for 21 points and followed this with 12 against East Pike Run, which represented a half dozen field goals.

Charleroi started out in an impressive manner and had the situation well in hand after being held to a 3-3 deadlock at the end of the first rest period. After New Kensington forged to the front at the start of the second period as a result of Marino's basket, the Cougars began to go places. Four successive field goals, two by Johnny Reeves and one each by Stevenson and Hugus placed the Charleroi quintet on the long end of an 11-6 count. Here Marino shot two fouls and a basket to place his mates two points behind the Cougars.

Stevenson added a field goal and a foul to increase Chareroi's lead to five points, but Marino shot a field goal just before the second period ended to make the score 14-11 at halftime.

Two field goals and a foul gave Charleroi an eight-point advantage at 19-11 shortly after the third period got under way. Tomkins scored a basket and Dayoub made one out of two fouls to reduce the Cougars' advantage to five points, but Hugus increased it by two points by making a double-decker. That was the last time Charleroi was in front.

COUGARS OVERTAKEN

New Kensington started its counter-attack with six straight field goals, three by Marino, two by Dayoub and one by Tomkins to move into the lead at 27-21. The Charleroi team cut the lead to two points when Hugus made a foul and Stevenson counted on a field goal and a foul, making the score 27-25. Susek and Walatis then enabled Ken High to move away when each shot a field goal to give their mates a six-point advantage. Charleroi again cut the lead when Kostolansky shot one of his two foul attempts, Hugus converting the other into a field goal. Charleroi was unable to obtain the ball in the dying moments and Susek, fouled by Stevenson, made good on the attempt just as the gun barked. The lineup:

STATE COLLEGE PICKED

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 18.—Penn State athletic authorities have received official notice from Edmund Wicht, secretary of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, that State College has been selected as the site for the final contest for the state basketball championship, scheduled for Saturday, April 2.

BOXING RULES INTERPRETED

Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle, at a meeting of judges and referees in his office in the Koppers Building yesterday, ordered the officials to take into consideration minor fouls by the boxers in arriving at their decisions, and made it plain that low blow fouls still are recognized by the commission in this state and that, if a boxer claims he cannot continue after being hit low, the referee shall award him the bout on a foul. This clears up the general conception that the compulsory use of new patented protection cups which are supposed to be foul proof had relegated the recognized foul out of existence, as is the case in New York State and elsewhere.

RULE ON KNOCKDOWNS

Referees also were ordered to continue to count over knocked-down boxers in instances where seconds toss a towel into the ring. If the boxer does not get up within 10 seconds, he will be declared knocked out; if he does arise within the count, he will be considered to have lost by a technical knockout through the action of his second.

Referees also were told to see to it that seconds do not splash an undue amount of water in the corners.

In the event of a boxer desiring to discontinue a fight while sitting in his corner, with his second opposing his wishes, it was ruled that, since the boxer does the fighting, his choice shall hold and the referee, upon being notified by the boxer, shall officially declare the bout at an end.

NEW RULE ON TIMING

The commissioner held that it was within his power to order the timekeeper not to ring the bell for a new round at the conclusion of the rest period of one minute if he felt a delay advisable.

Attending the conference were Judges L. K. Meininger, Freddie Lux, Jock Simco, Jim McLaughlin, Frank Ferris and Frank Brown and Referees Al Grayber, Eddie Kennedy, Red Robinson, Leo Finneran, Barney McGuire, Jack Henderson and Jerry Cole.

Ross Fields, of Cleveland, and Billy Passamento, of Philadelphia, box the 10-round main bout at Eddie Kapphan's Arena tonight, with three six-round preliminaries rounding out the bill at the reduced prices of 50 cents and $1.

Billy Brent

Passamento is a newcomer here, but is well recommended. Fields, a southpaw, originally from Weirton, W. Va., is well known to the local fans.

Billy Brent, Hill Negro, boxes Lee Sala, of Donora, in the eight-round semi-final. Casey Rhodes, of Homestead, and Harry Palmer, of Punxsutawney, are in the second bout, and Georgie Schlee, of the North Side, and Danny Dundee, of the Hill, box the opener.

Between Rounds

Aron (Pearcat) Jones, Negro middleweight, and Sunny Jim McVey, Negro light-heavyweight, both of Cleveland, the managers of Johnny Logie, of the East End, with Cowboy DeLora acting as their trainer, Manager Logie may be reached by calling Hiland 3482.

Disposition of Benny Bass' purse for his foul fight with Frankie Bojarski, of Erie, at Motor Square Garden last Monday night will be made at a meeting of the State Athletic Commission in Philadelphia today.

The Young Men's Republican Club will stage its second amateur show in Masonic Hall, North Side, Monday evening, March 28.

Marty Simmons, of Saginaw, Mich., will return to McKeesport next month and will box under the management of John Sullivan. Sullivan also will represent Bruno Sala, Donora light-heavyweight, in bouts in this section.

There'll be no wrestling show at the Garden next Thursday because of Holy Week, and Eddie Kapphan also will pack up his mats that night at his Arena, when Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, there will be shows at Motor Square Garden on Monday and at the Moose Temple on Wednesday of next week. Jackie Wilson and Frankie Wallace box the Moose windup.

Matchmaker Jules Bock yesterday made a final lineup of bouts for his substitute show at the Garden Monday night to take the place of the rejected Gorilla Jones-Paul Pirrone bill-up. He will have two eight-round bouts and three stars. Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantamweight, will box Baby Face Mathison, of Buffalo, in the main event, and Jack Wilson, the middleweight, goes against Mickey Solomon in the semi-final. Jack Clements and Jack Gross, heavies, box the main six-round bout. U. S. Carpentier and Leon Jendrzejak, who put up a great fight at the Moose Temple Wednesday night, have been rematched for the second event, and Joey Razzone of McKeesport, and Max Elling, of the Hill, are in the opener.

Vince Dundee and Johnny Oakey have been matched to box at Trenton, N. J., March 28.

The postponed Young Rudy-Hocky Lawless bout, rescheduled in Erie tonight, has been called off a second time by Lawless.

A swell night for what? Two southpaws, Dave Maier and Johnny Nichols, fighting for the N. B. A.'s light-heavyweight title in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

By CARL W. SHATTO

An electric shock set off a large quantity of hockey fireworks at Duquesne Garden last night as the Yellow Jackets protected their decidedly forlorn chance of gaining the International League play-offs by defeating the Detroit Olympics, 3 to 2.

During the first 17 minutes of action in the first period the play was fast, rough and satisfactory, but not unusually so. At 17:42 in the stanza, Goal Judge Fritz Campbell offered his good right arm as a race track for an electric current, and from that time until the finish the battling was hot enough to satisfy the most rabid fan.

ADD INSULT TO INJURY

Fritz and the electric current came together when Cam Proudlock took a perfect pass from Whitey Fields at the Detroit goal mouth and slammed the puck into the cage. Campbell reached for the switch to flash the red light, but the contrivance was damp and Fritz was wearing no gloves. The shock which he suffered convinced Campbell that he had better put on his gauntlets before informing the fans that a goal had been scored, and by the time he was fittingly dressed for the occasion, the Detroit players had talked themselves into believing that no tally had been registered.

When Fritz flashed the light, it was a signal for an argument rather than a goal, and when the visitors lost the debate they cut loose in a big way in their quest for revenge.

And all they received was another insult. Eddie Rodden got the face-off at the start of the second period, passed to Cliff Barton, who slammed the rubber into the end boards near the Olympics' coop. Doc Romnes, informed in advance of what was to take place, came in fast to capture the rebound and golfed the puck past Goalie Clark. The time was 7 seconds, and on the play Romnes showed the fans why the Chicago Hawks want to have him in their lineup for the Stanley Cup series.

SCORE IN THIRD PERIOD

The Olympics were not able to beat Goalie Abbie Cox until 12:25 in the third stanza, when Joe Matte was in the penalty box and the locals were a man shy. Newman dented the mesh on an assist from McCabe.

Consternation reigned three minutes later, when McCabe scored on assists from Gillie and Gagne to tie the count. This one was a freak in that Cox left the puck parked six inches from the goal line while he skated around the cage looking for it. While Abbie was back of the net McCabe came up and showed him that he had just left it, and, in pointing out the rubber, he made certain that he slipped it into the coop.

CAM REGISTERS WIN

This goal was something of another electric current in that it warmed the Jackets to the task, but it was the Olympics who received the shock, for at 17:40 Proudlock tallied the victory goal. He was placed in scoring position by Gordy Fraser and Fields, who were credited with assists on the play.

The battle abounded in skilful play-making and stiff body-checking, and it is to be regretted that the Jackets' win was a case of love's labor lost. The Olympics, you see, need only one win in four starts to keep the Reidmen out of the title series.

The Jackets will be without the services of Romnes when they meet the Buffalo Bisons here tomorrow. Despite Coach Charley Reid's protests, Chicago ordered Doc to report there at once, and he left for the Windy City today. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—3.		Detroit—2.
Cox	G.	Clark
Matte	D.	Rockburn
Fraser	D.	Evans
Godden	C.	Newman
Romnes	W.	Goldsworthy
Barton	W.	Moralee

Pittsburgh spares—Reise, Fields, Gregg, Proudlock, Dunning, Locking, Arbour.
Detroit spares—Peters, Hay, Gilhooley, Herberts, Gillie, Steele, Gagne.
Referee—Traub.
First period—Pittsburgh, Proudlock (Fields), 17:42. Penalty—Gilhooley, roughing.
Second period—Pittsburgh, Romnes (Barton), 7 seconds. Penalties—Barton, tripping; Gregg, illegal check; Evans, holding; Reise, tripping; Fraser, illegal check; Evans, illegal check.
Third period—Detroit, Newman (McCabe), 12:25. Detroit, McCabe (Gagne, Hay), 15:08. Pittsburgh, Proudlock (Gregg), 17:40. Penalties—Barton, holding; Proudlock, slashing; Hay, slashing; Matte, illegal check; Peters, tripping.

Auto Men Set Fast Pace; A Chrysler Feat

By B. C. FORBES

THINGS MOVE fast in this country. They move exceptionally fast in the motor industry.

Mr. Forbes

Not so long ago America had only one car in the lowest-priced class; it had the field practically to itself for many years. Along came a competitor, Chevrolet, that has twice passed Ford in sales.

More extraordinary still: as late as last summer Walter P. Chrysler introduced his "floating-power" Plymouth, and already it is the third largest seller in the whole automobile world.

I hope I am not violating secrets when I say that Chrysler is all ready to spring a new Plymouth around the first of April. Being a zealous reporter, I buttonholed Mr. Chrysler and Byron Foy, brilliant comer in the Chrysler organization, and quizzed them about rumored plans.

They took me to the second floor of the monumental Chrysler Building in New York, where, hidden away behind curtains, they showed me the new Plymouth. Don't expect me to describe its "bore," its "revolutions per minute" or any technicalities. I ain't no engineer!

I'll say this, however, that it looks a mighty powerful car, beautifully dressed outside and in, ebodying (of course) "floating power." And I gathered that the price will astonish the public.

AFTER TOURING the enormous Chrysler exhibition, on the second floor, where scores of models are on view, I remarked to Chrysler:

"Changed days from the time you worked in a railroad shop out in a jerk-water town."

Walter Chrysler is one man who doesn't object to being reminded of his humble beginnings. He remarked, pointing to an enormous scar on his right hand:

"Here's a souvenir of those days. Henry Ford asked me the other day whether I bore any scars—physical scars. I showed him this one and told him how I got it.

"One Sunday morning, back in my early machine shop days, I noticed that a train due to start hadn't an engine.

"I rushed to the shop and was told that the train couldn't start because a small part of the engine had broken off. There was difficulty in finding a new part. So I got busy, to make one.

"As I was working with a chaser, the superintendent came along, slapped me on the right shoulder, sent my hand into the machinery, and pretty well cut it in two."

Walter Chrysler is one motor leader the others like. Among his closest friends are Mr. Ford and President Sloan, of General Motors. Apparently he plays the game fair and square.

These motor fellows certainly are doing their bit to show other industrialists an example of initiative and courage. They are not shrinking from spending money to stir up buying. Every car bought means, of course, work in a hundred directions.

A STATISTICAL shark, after analyzing General Motors' annual report, published this morning, told me:

"The management shows brave conservatism and accuracy by recording a non-recurring loss (foreign exchange and security holdings and adjustments) of nearly 20 per cent of net income—most companies are afraid to make such adjustments in face of declining earnings.

"Although the company paid $140,000,000 in dividends last year, its surplus is still over $300,000,000. And its net working capital of $274,000,000 almost equals the 1930 figure."

Last year General Motors broke all its records by doing fully 43 per cent of the total passenger car business of the United States. Its sales decreased less than 9 per cent, against fully 27 per cent for the industry as a whole. Its employes, thanks to a savings and investment plan, had a nest egg of $75,000,000 when the depression began. It has 313,000 stockholders, a gain of 50,000 for the year.

RECONSTRUCTIVE forces continue to make headway.

General Motors Comes To End of Year With Strong Cash Position

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

GENERAL MOTORS came to the end of 1931 in a strong cash position. Earnings were maintained at a fairly high rate in spite of the unfavorable conditions prevailing during the year. In view of the fact that this organization's income is largely dependent on a product in the luxury class, the annual report, released today, reflects exceptionally good management.

The income account shows no change from the preliminary statement. Net earnings amounted to $115,220,507. After deducting non-recurring losses, net earnings were $96,877,107. These earnings were equivalent to $2.01 a share on the common stock after deducting preferred dividends. Before providing for non-recurring

STOCK MARKET RISES AFTER EARLY JOLT

List Recovers Somewhat In Afternoon; Electric Bond and Share Group Hit

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—A flurry of selling centuring in the public utility shares gave the stock market a jolt in the early trading today, but pressure lightened after mid-day, and the list recovered somewhat.

The sources of the selling were difficult to trace, and in some brokerage quarters, the view was held that bears were taking advantage of the uneasy state of mind arising from the approach of the general price level to the bottom of the trading area of recent months.

Shares of companies controlled by Electric Bond and Share, notably the issues of American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and Light and American Power and Light, dropped about 2 to 4 points to new lows. Such issues as Consolidated Gas, North American and American Water Works also lost 2 points or so. American Telephone dropped about 5 points, then rallied 2. United States Steel sold off more than 2 points, before recovering 1. Rails also slumped. Santa Fe dropped 4 before meeting support, and Union Pacific nearly 3. The American Tobacco issues, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, American Can and Eastman were among other issues getting down 2 to 3.

Sources close to the management of Electric Bond and Share intimated that irresponsible rumors may have provoked much of the selling in that group.

Most brokerage quarters agreed that there had been a considerable increase in bearish activity, possibly attributable to the disagreement in the Senate Banking and Currency Committee over the Glass banking bill, which was expected considerably to delay the Senate's investigation of the market bruins. Furthermore, it was pointed out that the time is now growing short before the exchange's new regulations loaning stocks go into effect on April 1, and it is widely felt that these regulations will make bearish activity more costly. Some brokers felt that bears are making hay while the sun shines.

The favorable 1931 report of American Tobacco, showing earnings of $9.07 a share, against $8.56 in 1930, was in keeping with advance estimates, and had no market effect.

BROKERS LOANS UP $9,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City increased $9,000,000 during the week ended March 16 to $561,000,000. This compares with $552,000,000 in the preceding week; the record high of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929, and the low of $486,000,000 on February 10 last.

No Bank Concerned In Pennsy Control

WASHINGTON, March 18.—No banking concern controls the Pennsylvania Railroad, its chief counsel, B. C. Heiserman, told the House Interstate Commerce Commission today. He disclosed that as of February 19, last, the carrier had 13,162,742 shares of stock outstanding among 248,010 holders, or an average of 53.7 shares each. Among principal holders the largest holding was 50,000 shares, the next largest, 42,912 shares, and the next largest, 15,200 shares, which are held by the Travelers' Insurance Company.

Outstanding Credit Lower for Week

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ending March 16, as reported by the Federal Reserve banks, was $1,672,000,000, a decrease of $56,000,000 compared with the preceding week and an increase of $732,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1931.

On March 16 total reserve bank credit amounted to $1,634,000,000, a decrease of $64,000,000 for the week.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York has made no announcement concerning the rediscount rate, which is 3 per cent.

GRAINS RALLY AFTER DROP

CHICAGO, March 18.—Grain prices rallied quickly today from initial downturns. Liverpool wheat quotations displayed unexpected strength. British millers were reported active buyers and there were advices of dust storms in Northwest Kansas. Opening unchanged to ⅛ lower, wheat afterward showed an all around sag but more than recovered. Corn likewise started unchanged to ⅛ off, subsequently underwent a general setback and then rallied.

Influencing upturns in wheat values were disquieting reports from famine districts of Russia where cattle were stated to be dying from starvation, seed reserve squandered, and grain deliveries totaling only 51 per cent of the amount planned. Wheat price bulges here, however, were succeeded by declines resulting from breaks in securities. Some selling resulted also from a summary by Chicago crop specialist back from a two-weeks trip west and southwest. He said no evidence was apparent that winter wheat had suffered any serious damage to roots.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Friends Are in Another City When Lily Lou Becomes Ill in Vienna

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

There was a time, much later, when Lily Lou was to love Paris. A Paris of lights, and laughter, of gayety and beauty. The horse-chestnuts abloom in the Bois, the great French dressmakers, with their exotic manikins, their breath-taking display of wealth and beauty, the little perfume and jewelry shops on the rue de Rivoli, the magazines where linen and lace were displaced in liveliness. A Paris of cafes and parties, of theaters and fashion and gay comaraderie on the left bank of the Seine.

But she did not love it now. The cold of a wet November chilled her to the bone. The Grand Hotel Grivy was an ancient vault of a place back of the Opera, with sagging floors, damp-smelling velvet hangings, and vast unclean beds.

"With bath," she read on the letterheads. But she never found the bath. Nobody could tell her where it was, or how to make the necessary reservations for hot water. On the second day, determined to track down that bathroom, she wandered from door to door and from floor to floor, and finally on the top floor she found a door with no number. Boldly she opened it. A bearded gentleman of large proportions, attired in a red flannel undervest and sagging blue trousers, was sitting on the edge of a bed, eating bread and cheese.

SINGER ARRIVES

He looked up sleepily and slowly showed his teeth in a broad, welcoming smile.

Lily Lou banged the door shut without even stopping to beg his pardon, and fled down three flights of winding, narrow stairs to her own room.

At the table d'hote that evening she hardly dared look up from her plate. She was afraid of seeing the bearded man.

When Madame Nahlman arrived, not on Friday, but on Monday, at the Ritz, Lily Lou moved over there and had a cot in the dressing room adjoining Nahlman's boudoir.

At least it was warm there, and there was a bath. Susanne Coin, the maid, bobbed in and out, silent and efficient. She was more company than Nahlman. Nahlman was always dressing to go out somewhere, and someone was always calling to see her. Men mostly. Men who wore striped trousers and long-tailed coats, and handed stick and gloves to Susanne as they came in the door. But a few of the callers were women. Tall, pretty women, mostly. Women with black gowns, a great many pearls and diamonds, and immense fur coats.

After a week or two at the Ritz they moved to a large apartment in the Boulevard Housman, out near "The Arch of Triumph." Here Lily Lou had a small room of her own, and the use of the piano when Nahlman was not using it, which was not often.

SPEAKS POOR FRENCH

It was a place of gilt spindle-legged furniture, pale murals, immense cut-glass chandeliers, and many servants. Lily Lou never got them quite straight, and Nahlman didn't even try to. She had rented them with the apartment. What little managing there was was done by the rather silent Susanne. Silent with Lily Lou and Nahlman, loquacious with the servants. Lily Lou envied her her gift of languages.

"All Swiss speak many languages," Susanne said. Lily Lou wished she had been born in Switzerland, instead of Woodlake. She knew now that Gwin ad been right, her French was rrible. She couldn't understand the French, and the French couldn't understand her. Nahlman, born in Philadelphia, educated in the public schools there some 35 years before, spoke French like a native.

There were times when Lily Lou thought wistfully of Gwin and Maxine, and even Mrs. Manchester and Wanda Pillsbury and the artists. None had bothered to write. Probably they cared not a thing about her, but now that they were distant they seemed nearer to her than Nahlman would ever bother to be.

She wouldn't let herself think of Woodlake, and the folks, and the old dog Shep.

TIME SPEEDS BY

Whenever she did she cried, and it upset Nahlman to see her red-eyed and depressed. If there was to be any temperament any display of feeling, it was to be done by Nahlman herself. So Lily Lou, mindful of her own good, kept her thoughts from home as much as she could, and put her whole heart into the tasks that Nahlman assigned her.

Nahlman was an inspired teacher. But she was an indifferent and irregular one. Sometimes there was a two hour lesson every day for two days. Then not another for a week.

Somehow the days slipped by. Paris wakes early, and so did Lily Lou. There would be the rattle of the milk wagons and garbage carts over the cobbles, the shrill cries of the drivers. Bang, crash, bang, and a high pitched exchange of French greetings and curses. Then the screech of the iron shutters being raised across the way. The beginnings of traffic. The acrid smell of burnt coffee from the little grocery on the corner. Presently Leontine would come with coffee and a hard little roll on a tray.

Practicing in half hour stretches. Reading. Studying. Bedtime again. The days slipped by.

She even got through Christmas, with Christmas letters from home and a box of homemade fruit cake from her mother. She cried over that.

GO TO VIENNA

She learned to distinguish the servants. Leontine was the tall one with the fancy cap with the streamers. She brought the coffee every morning. Albert was the butler. The gaunt, stooped man with the walrus whiskers was Le Chef. If he had another name it was never spoken. The servants spoke of him reverently—Le Chef. Or, Monsieur le Chef.

"I ought to go sightseeing. I certainly ought to see Paris," Lily Lou told herself, but she had no desire to go anywhere. She went on a few sightseeing tours, but did not enjoy them. The tourists frightened her. She preferred to go alone to the Louvre. She was beginning to tire quickly now. She'd sit on the stone benches, sometimes staring at a painting, sometimes looking down at her own tired feet. Attendants came to know her, to speculate about her—the sad, pretty young American—

Something must have happened to Nahlman's opera plans. She said nothing about them. Came in one day with a tale of having signed up for concerts in Vienna.

Lily Lou worked with her. Played accompaniments. Nahlman worked herself into a frenzy . . . . this wasn't right . . . she couldn't get that note . . . darn hellish French climate . . . . cursed crazy program.

But Lily Lou almost despaired just listening to her. How would she ever grasp the technique that was Nahlman's? How would she ever rise to her heights? And how would she ever perfect her languages, to be able to sing in French, in Italian, in German, as Nahlman did . . .

They whisked off to Vienna on a blusterine March day when the sun shone palely, and the dirty winter's snow melted slowly on the shady sides of streets.

Vienna was thrilling from the first. There was the fun of sitting in a box at Nahlman's first concert, wearing a string of Nahlman's pearls and a Paris gown of dead white lace, a delayed Christmas present, and one of Nahlman's ermine wraps, shawl-like, about her shoulders.

There was a supper at the apartment afterward, and a gay company of singers and artists who flattered her when she sang for them.

The next day Nahlman went off to Berlin for what she said was to be a brief visit with friends. Susanne went with her. Lily Lou began to worry. She felt that her time was near, regretted that she had not asked Mme. Nahlman about doctors, hospitals . . . Suppose that when they were all away . . . and she, not knowing any German . . . .

It won't happen—not for weeks yet. I'm just being morbid. How Bess would laugh at me for being scared!" she thought, waking terrified, and pain racked one windy March night.

She turned on all the lights for comfort. She walked out to the hall to look at the telephone. It was right there. She could call anyone. Except that nobody would understand her.

The slow hours passed. The pain that seared her came oftener. There was a sickening regularity to it now. Could this be it? . . She didn't know . . . Suppose she waked the house, and it was nothing. Suppose they sent her to a reform school or something, because her passport was for Miss Lansing, and Nahlman wasn't there to explain . . .

She waited another hour. Then, sobbing, and half out of her mind with fear, she rang the bell for the servants.

Rang, and rang, and rang . . . She could hear the bell echoing through the house.

She pressed her hands to her temples, then to her ears, to shut out the horrid sound of someone shrieking. And once, when the pain stopped, the shrieking stopped, and she realized with horror that the shrieks came from her.

Presently the door opened. She saw a little man in a nightshirt and peaked cap, and behind him a tight little group of huddled, frightened women.

"Oh, help me! Help me!" she cried, not caring, not knowing that they knew no English.

The frightened circle closed around her. The man with the nightshirt and tassled cap bent over her.

Lily Lou shrieked again.

(Copyright 1931, King Features Synd., Inc.)

She would sit on stone benches and stare at the paintings.

Synopsis

Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. Later Lily Lo explains her circumstances to the singer, expecting the offer to be withdrawn. A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men use Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

HEART OF A WIFE

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Listens to Dicky's Rules Regarding Bungalow

"That's mighty decent of the old girl," Dicky said appreciatively, as the door closed after Lillian.

"She knew that I was crazy to show you over this all by myself," Dicky said, with the little boy note in his voice that I so love. "Come on, let's give it a closer inspection. You've only seen the high spots."

He caught me by the hand, and like children inspecting a doll's house, we went from one furnishing to another of the little bungalow. I admiring and exclaiming, while Dicky pridefully pointed out all the little "gadgets," as Lillian called them, which he had planned for me.

With much caution, lest I should see the workmen, Dicky had had the electric lighting service of the farmhouse extended to the bungalow, and had given me the abundance of outlets which is the dream of every good housewife.

I could have an electric fan or an electric heater as the temperature might demand. I could make a cup of coffee or a piece of toast, if it suited me better to do it myself, than to send over to Katie for the service. But the pride of Dicky's heart was evidently the branch telephone which he explained was a one-way affair. I could use it if I wished to telephone the farmhouse for anything, but no one in the big house could annoy me by ringing it.

"If there's any emergency grave enough to justify summoning you, there are sufficient people in the house so that someone can instantly act as messenger," he said, "but I'm issuing orders that will put the fear of God into every mother, son and daughter of them. They'll disturb you only for 'battle, murder, or sudden death.'"

He sat down in one of the big chairs which graced the "donjon keep," as Lillian had dubbed the little "bad weather" room behind the big screened veranda, and pulled me down on his knees.

"Lillian said a very pat thing the other day," he told me when I had been most satisfactorily kissed. "She allowed that you were furnishing steam for the whole household, and, she's right. I made up my mind it was about time somebody did something, somewhere, so behold, I'm the somebody, this is the something, and the orchard is the somewhere."

"It's all wonderful," I said earnestly, "but you shouldn't—"

"But I should," he retorted. "A prize racehorse is entitled to a private stall."

"Dicky!" I protested, half amused, half piqued by his simile, "is that what you're thinking of me?"

"I couldn't pay you a higher compliment," he said. "But, whether you like it or not, this is your 'stall,' or more properly speaking, your workroom. It's not only for this play, but for all future work of yours, so that you can be as absolutely alone as if you were 50 miles from nowhere and yet be where you can summon others or be summoned in case of absolute necessity.

"Of course, it isn't finished yet—you can see that"—he began, and I interposed quickly.

"Finished? It's the completest thing I ever saw," I said truthfully. "What else is there to do?"

"It won't be always summer, you know," Dicky said didactically, "and we're going to prepare for the cold days. We're planning a fireplace on one end which will have one opening on the veranda and one in your 'donjon keep.' They are going to be big enough so that you can be warm on the average Long Island winter day and as there are only about five days of extreme cold weather in any winter on Long Island, you ought to be all set for a successful season."

With a sudden impulse, I twisted in his arms and put my own around his neck.

"Dicky, dearest," I murmured with my face pressed to his and my lips close to his ear, "I will accept this wonderful gift from you upon only one condition. And that is that you promise me you yourself, will never observe the rules 'that you lay down for the rest of the family. If you will promise to come and interrupt at any hour or minute you want to see me, I'll take this wonderful thing and say 'thank you very kindly,' otherwise as you so often say, 'nothing doing.'"

Rural Rate Rallies

The Country Folk Are Even Greater Sufferers from Unfair Public Utilities Than City Dwellers.

The Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association is carrying its campaign against unfair public utilities into the rural regions of Allegheny County.

Fair rate rallies have been held in a number of the country schoolhouses and others are scheduled.

This is as it should be, for in some respects the country folk are even greater sufferers from unfair public utilities than the city dwellers.

Farmers who desire electric service are required to pay the electric company at least 20 per cent a year on the cost of the line extension to their houses—a charge that in the case of many is prohibitive.

And country people, with so many more jobs to be done, need electric power even more than the urban residents.

The rural regions should be fertile ground for the Fair Rate Association's activities.

A New Mental Hospital

The Educational Campaign Proposed by the Public Charities Association Deserves Encouragement.

In place of its usual annual report, the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania has published "1932 service programs."

It is gratifying to note that it proposes among other things to carry on "an intensive educational campaign aimed at securing appropriations for the building of the Western State Psychiatric Hospital."

The hospital referred to is that sponsored by Senator Frank J. Harris at the last regular session of the Legislature. He obtained a small appropriation for a study of the project and the preparation of architectural designs. The University of Pittsburgh has provided the land by ceding to the commonwealth an appropriate tract on its campus.

The project has now reached the point at which an appropriation for erecting the building is in order.

Pittsburgh will benefit greatly by the institution, and the people of Pittsburgh should give the Public Charities Association every possible assistance in its campaign.

A Faster Train

Pittsburghers Will Appreciate a Reduction in the Time For the Trip to New York and Chicago.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is reported—and the New York Central, too—to be planning to cut the time of its fastest train between New York and Chicago from 20 hours to 18 hours.

Pittsburghers will appreciate a reduction in the time required for the trip to New York and Chicago. Every hour that can be saved is welcomed by busy men, as the use of airplanes for the trip to New York bears witness.

The Pennsylvania and New York Central both installed 18-hour New York-Chicago trains about 25 years ago, but took them off soon afterward because of wrecks.

Since then engine-cab signals have been installed on the Pennsylvania, and automatic train control on the New York Central, and wrecks are now of rare occurrence.

The public will not be disposed to question the judgment of the Pennsylvania management that 18-hour trains are safe.

Importation of Coal

Things Have Come to a Pretty Pass When Fuel Is Ordered from Abroad.

Congressman Boland, a Democratic representative from Pennsylvania, charged on the floor of the House that Pittsburgh companies are using large quantities of Russian coal.

However that may be, it is a fact that coke has been imported into the United States in unusually large quantities lately. The Department of Commerce recently called attention to the matter.

The fuel agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad testified before the Interstate Commerce Commission not long ago that his company had bought coal at Fairmont for 72 cents a ton.

Things have come to a sad pass when, with coal as cheap as that at home, American industrialists order fuel from abroad.

The Sparrow Vindicated

The Much-Maligned Little Bird Is Found to Destroy the Destructive Japanese Beetle.

About 10 years ago the dangerous Japanese beetle arrived in this country in a cargo from Japan unloaded at Philadelphia.

It is one of the greatest insect menaces to plant life with which Pennsylvania farmers and gardeners have been called upon to do battle, for while most insect pests confine their destructiveness to a few kinds of trees or vegetables the Japanese beetle attacks nearly every kind.

Dr. Thomas E. Winecoff, in charge of research for the Pennsylvania Game Commission, reports in Bird Lore, official publication of the Audubon Societies, that the English sparrow has been found to destroy the Japanese beetle.

So the much-maligned little bird is vindicated. It is the friend of man after all.

Hail Hindenburg! The Republic Wins

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The hard, common sense of the German people was expressed in the elections when they took their stand for democracy and a republic against dictatorships of any kind with the resulting loss of liberty. Any other result would have been a tragedy. It would have been more than a tragedy—it would have been a reflection on the capacity of the German people to appreciate true greatness.

For there is no man in Germany today, and few, if any, in the world, to be compared with that colossus of fidelity, Paul von Hindenburg. Since the creation of united Germany at Versailles there has been but one name in German history to compare with his—and that no less than Bismarck. And in a number of ways Von Hindenburg is the greater figure.

Bismarck was a statesman and leader, but not a premier soldier. It was Von Moltke who was the military genius in the early wars—one of the world's greatest masters of strategy. In Von Hindenburg we have both the great master of the battlefield and the master of leadership in peace.

We can think of no one who resembles him so much as Washington—"first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." The name Hindenburg is a synonym for Germany. And he has won the admiration and respect of all the other nations of the earth.

* * *

Stood for Democracy And the Republic

The issue in the election Sunday was vital. Germany has been tortured now for 14 years. She has been subjected to burdens heavier than she can bear. Great numbers of her people have been reduced to penury and driven to desperation. The conditions are just right for the demagogue and the blatherskite. Many of the young, enraged at the thought of having their country treated as a pariah among nations for generations, have been easily swayed by the spokesmen of extreme measures. Many, we have been told, have turned to Communism; and many more to Fascism; and both have been arrayed against the republic, against democracy and against the world.

In Hitler the Fascists have had a brilliant, bitter, audacious leader who has taken the young men and the embittered, to the mountain top and promised them all the kingdoms of the earth. Both the Communists and the Hitlerites turn a hostile face to the world. The triumph of either would have meant trouble. And in the end tragedy to Germany.

And Hindenburg? He shares in the feeling that Germany has been tortured enough; that Germany is entitled also to the right of self-determination, but he is a realist, with the patience of true greatness, and no one would suggest that he loves his country less than any other man. And he stood for democracy and the republic!

* * *

Outstanding Hero Of the War

There is something very fine in the character of this old man. In youth he gave his life to Germany. As far as we have heard, he never had any thought of mere personal glory in that service. He swore allegiance to the Kaiser—and served the monarchy with rare brilliance and undeviating loyalty.

He was the outstanding German hero of the war; and no alien foot was set on German soil while the struggle lasted. He retired with dignity, to be recalled to the service of the state in tragic days. Because he had sworn allegiance to the Hohenzollerns, he would not make a move until he had been released; and then he swore allegiance to the republic. When first he was a candidate for the presidency, we wrote editorials on the theory that he would go in to betray the republic to his old master; and we were wrong.

The Hindenburgs are the last word in fidelity and honor.

* * *

Greatest Asset That Germany Has

In some respects Hindenburg is a greater and a finer character than Bismarck. Only the genius, the passionate persistence, the audacity of Bismarck would have created a united Germany, but after that others could have taken his place. Bismarck was a storm. Hindenburg is serenity. Bismarck was inordinately ambitious for himself; Hindenburg has never pushed for place. Bismarck's hates and suspicions and ambitions made him difficult to work with, and he ruthlessly broke with friendship to serve his ends—even to breaking the spirit of Roon; Hindenburg is a master of conciliation.

Bismarck, especially in minor matters, had his pettiness; Hindenburg, never anything but his greatness. Bismarck was Vesuvius in action, creating a sense of uneasiness; Hindenburg is the rock of Gibraltar, inviting confidence. When Bismarck's political opponents met him in conference, there was a storm, and they went forth seething with hate, but when Hitler had his conference with Hindenburg he carried from the palace a tremendous admiration, muttering to his companions, "What a man! What a man!"

Paul von Hindenburg, one of the colossal figures of the most tremendously significant periods since the Roman empire crumbled to dust, is the greatest asset that Germany has. From Hindenburg to Hitler would be from the eagle of the crags to the fighting bantam of the barnyard.

* * *

Never Would Play Politics

In a four-cornered fight, with every passion, resentment, prejudice with the Hitlerites and the Communists, he came within 168,453 votes of a clear majority over his three opponents. For years the Communists openly and by stealth have been preparing for this contest, and for years Hitler and his cohorts have been on the march, noisy, rash and unscrupulous in promises.

Both have perfected fighting organizations. And all the while Hindenburg was merely attending to the nation's business, with too much there to make it possible for him to play politics. Besides he never would play politics. His overwhelming vote is a tribute to the sound common sense of the hard-headed German electorate.

In the run-off his election is certain—and democracy and the republic live.

* * *

Hindenburg Will Win in the Run-Off

In the run-off, the contest will be between Hindenburg and Hitler. Each will hold his strength in the election Sunday. The monarchists, under the leadership of Duesterberg, polled but 2,517,676 votes out of 37,660,377. That measures only in part, however, the sentiment for the monarchy; since the Kaiser's son was an election worker for the Hitlerites.

It is not a long stride from such a dictatorship as Hitler planned to a monarchy. In the run-off the support of Duesterberg probably will go mostly to Hitler. But that leaves the almost five million Communist votes to account for in the April race. These hate the republic and democracy as much as Hitler, but the Communist and Hitler hate each other more than either hates democracy or the republic.

There can be no doubt but that these will vote against their deadly enemies.

* * *

It Was the Same Hindenburg

Germany has not dropped the pilot—she needs him; and there is no other German who is such an asset to the German people. By giving the old warrior a vote of confidence, they have invited the confidence of the world.

I read the other a day description of Hindenburg by a correspondent who saw him at his headquarters on the Eastern front when he was winning his sweeping victories. The press described him on Sunday night seated before the radio receiving the returns. It was the same Hindenburg—the same dignity and calmness. Ten o'clock found him in bed. He must conserve his strength—for Hindenburg's work is not over—will not be over until Germany bows before his bier.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Sleep-Wreckers

"Sleep-wrecking" should be grounds for divorce. Funny, you can divorce a man for wrecking the furniture—but not for wrecking your sleep and sending you to a sanitarium.

* * *

Yet nine men out of 10 (if you'll believe their wives) have the atavistic habit of prowling around the place all night.

* * *

Whether a man inherits this night-prowling instinct from some of his prehistoric ancestors or acquires it during his gay bachelor days, no woman knows. But it is the domestic "third degree," through which many wives are put from the wedding day to the grave.

It is the chief cause of twin-beds and husband-shooting. It is the secret sorrow which has caused many a fond little wife to spend a lot of time wondering wistfully what a divorce would cost.

* * *

Only a woman who has blinked her life away beside a night-prowling husband knows what "refined cruelty" in its most ingenious and intensive form is like.

* * *

The average man can think of more things that he wants to do, read, eat or sit, after 11 p. m., than in all the rest of the day put together.

* * *

Many a man who is "too tired to eat a mouthful" at dinner time, develops a fine, healthy appetite around midnight and insists on going out and raiding the icebox.

Any girl who can't sleep with a bed-light shining in her eyes had better beware of marrying the man who boasts that he reads himself to sleep every night. Many a man has acquired his whole acquaintance with the classics at the expense of his wife's beauty sleep.

* * *

It seems as though the sleep-wrecking husband just can't settle down and go to sleep until he is convinced that the wife has reached that stage of nervous tension, where she won't be able to close her eyes for the rest of the night.

* * *

Then, he can roll right over and drop off into a sweet symphonic slumber that will last until long after the alarm clock has gone off.

* * *

Oh yes, "sleep-wrecking" should come before "non-support" among the grounds for divorce. Because a woman CAN support herself. But she CAN'T sleep, while a man is fussing 'round the house, turning on the water, rustling the newspaper and flashing the lights on and off.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 18.—Thoughts while strolling: The last of the Gay 90 boulevardiers—Joe Rothschild. What's become of Glenn Hunter? Bert Lytell's ash-grey eyes. If I could improvise on the piano like Eddie Duchin. O boy! Eva La Gallienne suggests a pale fern among swaying ivy.

Never see icicles any more. Nor menthol inhalers. I used to have a nickel-plated one for Sunday. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien having an orange juice all alone—the solitary old drinker. Wish I could learn to let the butler answer the bell. W. W. Hawkins, a Louisville, Ky., boy, who made good in the city.

So they've made that gallant trouper, Wilton Lackaye, a life member of the Lambs. I always stop to watch one of those rising sidewalk platforms. A bonneted old lady lurching out of a "Non-Alcoholic Wine Shop." Alfred Freuh, who draws those foreign looking caricatures, is a Lima, O., boy.

The arrival of a bunch of bananas was a big event in a small town. Mesmore Kendall has done away with his mustache. Somehow I lose my appetite in a cafe decorated in Egyptian or Moorish style. Lily Pons' name makes me think of a face lotion. Sophie Tucker all in brown.

Harrison Grey Fiske has the most dignified name I know. Overheard: "Grotto—Isn't that where the Jews live?" Elmer Q. Oliphant. The first hint of spring. Old Joe, the Lavender Man. The curly-haired Mickey Neilan and that international wanderer—Tippy Gray.

No public official profits so much by sheer wit as Mayor Walker. When he irritates you most, he wisecracks out of it. The stately, white-haired Mrs. Montague Glass. Dusk and a clear sky powdered with stars. A man carrying a human skeleton into a taxi. Oogie-boogie!

* * *

Syndicated trivialities often revive forgotten contacts. Bruce Reynolds, now happily married, participated in a midnight elopement in his callow youth. Next day the marriage was annulled and boy and girl went back to school. Recently Bruce's name appeared here. A letter came to be forwarded to him. It was from the midnight bride. He had not heard of her in 31 years. Neither knew the other was alive.

* * *

My favorite headline studded Page 1 of the Morning Telegraph years ago. The slogan of a restaurant on Broadway is "Jannsen Wants to See You!" A cashier skipped with the day's receipts. The Telegraph told the story and headlined it: "Jannsen Wants to See You!" Dana's Sun, during the Boss Clark regime, often convulsed the town with quietly mirthful little captions. Alfred Austin, then England's poet laureate, arrived in America and refused to talk. The headline ran: "King's Canary Refuses to Chirp." Then that masterpiece by Boss Clark himself during the sweep of that insane book called "The Simple Life." A newsboy purloined a couple from a sidewalk book store counter and was jailed. Boss Clark's headline read: "Tempted Beyond His Strength."

* * *

A gangster, who has "seen the light," tells me of this experience. He was in a speakeasy one midnight. A rival, and plenty tough, sauntered up and in a flash pressed a blue steel gat to his stomach. The trigger clicked but nothing happened. The aggressor was rushed out. It was all so quick the victim had no time for fright. He finished his meal and a half hour later rose to go. His legs refused to work and he crumpled in a heap. Nor could he walk for 10 days.

At an Algonquin table the other luncheon sat Harry Burton, Burton Rascoe and Roscoe Pearcock and pronouncing them in rotation produces what might be called a swell concatenation of sound.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

How do ladies get that way? Dr. Olga Knopf will tell you.

If you're a lady, yourself, you may be surprised. Probably mad. But that won't bother Dr. Olga Knopf, who is a famous Viennese psychologist and quite immune to the tantrums of mad mamas.

Mamas, mad or otherwise, are Dr. Knopf's specialty. She knows all their tricks. She knows what they used to be in those first, simple days when sex didn't count . . . when a woman was just another human being.

No one called woman "the weaker sex" in those days. She wasn't. No one put her on a pedestal. Why should they?

But times have changed. Life has become more complicated. The sexes have become conscious of themselves, and up to tricks.

FEMININITY HAS BECOME A RACKET.

So now comes Dr. Olga Knopf telling how, when and why in her book, "THE ART OF BEING A WOMAN."

No, it isn't another lamentation over how men have wronged women.

There's dirty work done at the cross-roads, but Dr. Knopf doesn't think that men have wronged women any more than women have wronged themselves.

Femininity, as a racket, is a miserable business, but it's also a mutual business. The ladies were as keen for it as the men, and profited as much by it. If they have also suffered by it, that's also their own bad luck.

What did they start it for, anyway? They started it because they wanted to GAIN AN ADVANTAGE OVER MEN.

Men, by their relatively freer life, stronger economic position, closer organization, had begun to gain an advantage over women. But woman had a trick up her sleeve. If she couldn't get her way by being stronger, she could by BEING WEAKER.

You can get quite as much out of life—and men—by being DEPENDENT as by being INDEPENDENT, perhaps more, Says Dr. Knopf.

"Submissiveness and passivity serve the same purpose . . . as aggressiveness . . . Children find out very early in life that they can get their own way by stressing their weakness and helplessness. We might say, in fact, that the strongest being in the world is the baby. He can do nothing for himself, and everything he needs is done for him. No one expects him to do anything in return.

"IN THIS RESPECT MANY PEOPLE REMAIN BABIES ALL THEIR LIFE; AND THEY FIND THEIR HELPLESSNESS AN EXTRAORDINARILY EFFICIENT MEANS OF EXTORTING SERVICE FROM OTHER PEOPLE. MOREOVER, IF AN INDIVIDUAL ALWAYS GIVES IN, ALWAYS TAKES HIS ORDERS FROM SOMEONE ELSE, HE AVOIDS RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANY FAILURE HE MIGHT MAKE."

A great little technique! And still going almost as strong in 1932 as it was in 1392. Why do great big grown-up girls with votes and jobs still make baby eyes? And why do great big grown-up boys who should be dry behind the ears fall for their stuff? That's why. Because both parties to the contract get a big kick out of it.

"Neither men nor women take their legal equality very seriously," says Dr. Knopf. "It is still an advantage for women to pretend to be a little helpless. It is still an advantage for men to spoil women and pamper them. Men, and especially American men, give in to women with a generous smile. They allow them their liberty—they let them do what they like—because they are sure it cannot come to much."

Indulgence—and contempt. The lady gets her way, and the man gets his—but at a price. A bitter, shameful price, which the whole human race grows weary of paying.

Text for Today The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.—II. Peter, iii:9.

(Today's text is suggested by the Rev. A. H. Tibbs, pastor, First Baptist Church, Lawndale.)

Isn't It So?

Truth is always "bunk" to ignorance.

Many a man has a blowout on the road to success.

The reason love is so intoxicating is because it is usually made in the still of the night.
